—There will be a general gathering of the five congregations of Newton on Good Friday night in Eliot church as in former years. Dr. Shinn will conduct the service and Drs. Davis and Merrill and Rev. Messrs. Hornbrooke and Holmes will deliver the addresses.

—Next week is called Holy Week in the Christian church. It commemorates the closing scenes in the life of Christ. Services in the Baptist church every morning at 10.45. On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 7.30 p. m., Friday and Saturday at 4.30.

—The West End seems in no hurry to bring its Brighton cars into Nonantum square, as work upon the short section necessary to connect has not been begun. Perhaps the West End is waiting for the bridge to be finished, and if so the delay promises to be a lengthy one.

—The new Hunnewell Clubhouse will be open for the inspection of members only on Saturday evening, from 8 to 12. The work of preparation has been rushed forward the past few days. The house will be open to members after that date, and the formal opening reception for members and their wives will be held on April 13th.

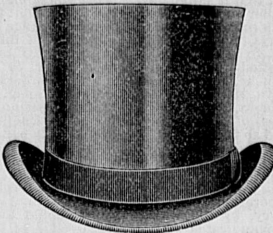

—William Ayers, 51 years old, of Pembroke, Mass., died Sunday evening at his home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Hazledorn, Centre street, after a brief illness. Mr. Ayers was born in St. John, N. B., and came to Boston when a young man. He was a mining engineer, having been employed at various times by Boston copper mining corporations. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at Pembroke. Tuesday afternoon, services were held at Mr. Hazledorn's residence, attended by members of the family and immediate friends. Rev. Dr. Davis officiated.

—There is general complaint because the Boston & Albany has not begun work on the finishing up of the bridges. There has been no frost for some weeks and no danger of any, and yet the people are put to the great inconvenience of having only half of the Centre and Washington street bridges open, and the St. James street and Centre place and Lewis Terrace bridges closed. Such a condition of things should not be allowed to continue, and a vigorous remonstrance should be sent to the officials of the road. To it should be added the necessity of a stairway from the Centre street bridge to the depot platform, to allow of a more convenient approach to the station, and also the concreting of the walks in the station yard.

—A well arranged and attractive program with up-to-date numbers, furnished by first-class artists, is what the Newton Minstrel Company promises to present at its first grand entertainment in Armory hall, Thursday evening, April 14th. Lovers of the old-time minstrelsy are promised a rare treat, and if active rehearsals and careful training count for anything, the evening's performance cannot fail to meet the expectations of the most sanguine. Those who will contribute are some of the best known in this line of work: In the circle will be seen W. O'Neil and W. Gorman, bones, A. J. Leonard, Jr., and J. Howard, tambos, and H. R. Jenkins, interloper. The principal vocal soloists are A. Reed, R. Conroy, H. R. Jenkins, and J. McLaughlin. The olio includes some fine specialties, among them being the Olympian Quartet, J. Stankard, pianist, G. M. Wright, violinist, Charles Chapman, Cambridge's favorite comedian, Jenkins and Leonard, sketch artists, E. C. Ward, baritone soloist, and D. Sullivan, clog dancer.

—To use a well worn, though none the less expressive phrase, the audience that witnessed the entertainment given by the dramatic club of the Dorethea Dix House, Boston, in the Y. M. C. A. hall last Saturday afternoon made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers. Not a feature on the program failed to receive an encore as every artist or group of artists were very warmly received. The performers were all children, but their work was artistic and finished. The singing, dancing and reading of these child actors was truly professional, and the merited applause that followed every number showed the keen appreciation of the audience. The program was arranged with strict regard to attractiveness, and that the children had been under careful training was also clearly noticeable. The principal parts of the afternoon's entertainment were furnished by these children: Doris Branson, Hazel Maye, Ada Rose, Anita Sylvia, Hazel

Brass and Iron Bedsteads.

The quality of a metal bedstead is the first thing to be considered in buying one. There are many imitations of the better grades now in the market, but it is false economy to buy these when for the same money one can get a house like that of Morris, Murch & Butler, 42 Summer street, Boston, and get their high grade goods at their low prices.

Their spring patterns are now on their floors and it is a remarkable display. They have recently added to their stock a full line of bureaus, chiffoniers, dressing tables, etc., which gives the purchaser a complete assortment of chamber furniture to select from. Their bedding department is too well known to need any comment.

Cutter's Silks.

Cutter's silks are sold by the leading dry goods houses in Newton and Boston. They are a household necessity and come in all sizes and colors. The Meyer silk threads are made every day in sufficient quantities to put a girl around the earth, and once having tried it you will take no other.

THE WORK OF THE SESSION—THE CIGARETTE BILL AND WHO FAVORED IT AND WHY—THE LICENSES FOR STABLES—SENATOR HARWOOD IN FAVOR OF HIGH BUILDINGS—THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE.

(Special Legislative Correspondence.)

Beacon Hill, March 30.

The general court is having a busy week, getting most of the reports in, and doing other things to hurry on the day of final prorogation. At its present prattle, the legislature may be said to be just about half through the session, but it has a way of doing up several weeks business in one a little later, which if followed this year will make the end come about as usual, that is, the first week in June.

Senator Harwood got his work in several times Monday, during the session of the upper branch. The speech in which he doubtless took the most personal satisfaction was in favor of a bill to abolish the traffic in cigarettes, though he admitted in favoring it that he would have been satisfied had it been less drastic, so long as it removed the temptation from the young. He had the aid of Senators Roe, Chamberlain, Putnam and Hodgkins, while the bill was opposed by a large number of senators, and killed without the courtesy of a court. The names of the men who favored the bill were a sufficient answer to the allegation that the bill was in the interest of men who were seeking for money to secure its rejection, but there is still a good deal to be said in favor of the theory that the reason certain tobacco dealers who are members of the legislature favored the measure was because the plug tobacco trust is opposed to the cigarette industry. Senator Harwood, however, pointed out the fallacy of the argument that a bill which was in the interest of the safety of the boys, should be rejected simply because it was for the interest of some who were not reformers to reject it.

Chairman Callender of the committee on public health stated this year to smoke out the source of the anti-cigarette petitions. He appeared to have a theory that they were inspired by men who wanted to be paid for defeating anything which might be reported. This has been the case in some years. So he got an order through to permit the committee to summon witnesses. None were summoned, but an inoffensive man in Lynn, who joined an anti-cigarette league, was called to the stand. He was told the truth. Chairman Callender's questions, which sought to probe the mystery, were very offensive to the petitioners, and the fact that the bill was substituted for the adverse report of the committee and passed in the house, was doubtless a protest against this sort of procedure; but notwithstanding a firm belief in Mr. Bonney's honesty, and in the principle of his bill, one cannot help wondering how it happened that in the years petitions exactly like this and reading alike, word for word, have been presented simultaneously in 26 states. The plug tobacco trust seems to be the only explanation, and it has been carried through by the aid of the bona fide anti-cigarette people. But this is no reason, as Senator Harwood said, why the bill should not be enacted if it was for the interest of public health.

On Monday an effort was made to reconsider the adverse vote of the Newton bill to provide that owners of residences within a short distance of proposed stables should be notified of the hearing on the granting of stable licenses. The motion was made by Senator Dallinger and opposed by the chairman of the committee on cities, Senator Putnam, on the ground that the petitioners, or rather the Newton man who persuaded Mr. Apsey of Cambridge to put it in the bill, had an adequate remedy for the failure of the board of health to notify him before a stable was located near him, without asking for general legislation. The motion to reconsider was tabled.

The bill to prohibit the erection of buildings to a height of over 100 feet in the Commonwealth was rejected by the senate on Monday, after Senator Harwood with others, had pointed out its defects. The Newton senator showed that it might interfere with existing contracts, for the reason that its application to buildings already being erected was in doubt, and that such interference was unconstitutional. If the bill did not cover the case of buildings in process of erection, it would not cover the case of the Westminster Chambers at Copley square, which caused the agitation on the subject. If it did cover that building, it also applied to the new Masonic Temple in Boston, which cannot accommodate the various divisions of the order without being built to the present limit of height, 125 feet. A circular stating these facts was mailed to the senators, most of whom are Masons. Then again, the new Southern Union station is to be 105 feet high to the covering and 130 to the top of the roof, and of course would have come under the bill also, while the fact that the bill said "buildings," left it utterly impossible to build a water tower or structure of that character. If there was opposition in a board of selectmen or aldermen. Spikes of churches were exempted, but the tower of the Union station in Worcester and of Memorial hall in Cambridge would have been interfered with, such a law being in force when they were built. A 90 foot limit has now been reported for Copley square, which is reasonable.

If I were the attorney general of Massachusetts I should transfer Assistant Attorney General Travis from his position of metropolitan park litigation to that of metropolitan water. The committee on metropolitan affairs, of which Mr. Pickard is a member, has unanimously voted against a bill to give the metropolitan water board the right to secure outside counsel for its work. This was done because it felt that to report the bill would be a reflection on the attorney general's department. But Mayor Quincy and the members of the board have plainly said that they did not think young Mr. Hollowell sufficiently seasoned to cope with the heavy weights who have been retained to fight the district on land and water right questions. This criticism would not apply to Mr. Travis.

Mr. Hayward still finds himself absorbed in the work of the committee on ways and means, the latest subject to engross his attention being the bill appropriating money for the improvement of Green Harbor in Marshfield, which is to be deepened by the commonwealth to satisfy the inhabitants who want to have the dyke removed, which was put in many years ago. The harbor and land commission and state board of health have been struggling with the situation, and finally concluded that while there was a question as to the health and tide-water effect of the removal of the dyke, there was no doubt whatever that dredging an anchorage basin would settle the difficulty at a much less expense. Mr. Wales of our city was the clerk of the joint board, which considered the question, and spent many halcyon days last fall in hearing the diverse opinions which were expressed.

As I intimated, the committee on metropolitan affairs does not figure largely in the aldermanic debate in the house and Mr. Pickard has been compelled to endure the grief of seeing it thrown down with a heavy thud. This is not so bad a situation as it would have been had not the two committees—election laws and joint on the matter—been so very much at sea as to the proper action to take. There is a great deal of evidence to show that the Boston city government is not satisfied with the election laws, without specifying in detail a system which ties two or more wards together, while from a party point of view, the only scheme which is feasible, electing an alderman from each ward, will result in a Democratic board, practically all the time. Were this not the case, the problem could be easily settled, but an overwhelmingly Republican legislature hates to legislate too much aid and comfort for Mayor Quincy and his friends.

Chief Clerk Adams of the treasury department must take considerable satisfaction in the fact that there seems to have been no definite assault on his ballot box of the year. This has been known to people for the selection of a commission, which practically already exists, to choose ballot counting and voting machines. The proposed act repeals the McFarman law, but of the time the goods were unknown to the public, so long as it has an equal chance with others. The most interesting device of the year is the Holt counting machine, which is favored by Secretary Olin, and which secured a favorable mention by the new election laws committee, in the shape of an $8000 appropriation. Mr. Hayward's committee promptly killed it, however, and substituted a bill appropriating $5000 for the purchase of a Holt machine for the state. This will doubtless be enacted.

MANN.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have become known, the remedy will have nothing else. For sale by E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; Lacroix & Genest, Nonantum; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands.

Y. M. C. A.

The business men's gymnasium class will participate in the Hayseed Carnival which will be held April 17. They will give an exhibition of "Punkin' tag."

Mr. John R. Crockett entertained the boys at the Dennison House, Boston, last Saturday evening with his band and harmonica.

The Women's Auxiliary held a delightful meeting at the rooms last Wednesday afternoon. A very interesting address was given by Mrs. Brown of Everett, who is state secretary for Mass. and N. H. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the social committee.

The young ladies connected with the Women's Auxiliary, announce a very attractive program for their sale and festival, which will occur April 20th, afternoon and evening. Besides an inviting array of beautiful articles, they have a wonderful display of young men's workmanship will also be made, and no doubt sold at a large profit. Ice cream, cake, lemonade and candy will be served. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra has been engaged, and an original "art imposition" planned. No admission will be charged. Everyone cordially invited.

Mr. Stephen Moore will conduct the men's meeting at 4 p. m., Sunday. Special music, duets by Misses Covington and Bartlett.

The Rev. W. H. Weaver, pastor of the U. B. Church, Hillsbury, Pa., recognizes the value of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and does not hesitate to tell others about it. "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," he says, "and find it an excellent medicine for colds, coughs and hoarseness." So does everyone who gives it a trial. Sold by E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; Lacroix & Genest, Nonantum; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands.

Congregational Church Building Society.

Last Sunday morning Rev. George A. Hood of Boston, New England Field Secretary of the Congregational Church Building Society, spoke of the work of the society in the Eliot Congregational church. His text was, I Chron. xxii:19, "Arise, therefore, and build ye the sanctuary of the Lord God." He said that ever since God built the tabernacle in the wilderness all forms of the true religion must have their churches, and, indeed, all false religions must have their temples. Congregationalists are the only ones who organize 200 churches, more or less, and build only a few more than 100 per year.

Our young men developing the new towns are equipped with docks, elevators, mills, machinery and all improvements for doing their work six days of the week. Will they go to church the first day of the week in an abandoned saloon, or a dance hall, carpenter shop, or the loft of a livery stable? No, it makes them homesick; they have no respect for a church which cannot build, and they cannot afford $25 or $50 to help it build. The church, like any other line of business, needs an equipment to succeed. If we can aid the young church to build, the new settlers will attend, will give cents only and help, thereby making it self-supporting; and the future character of the new town can be moulded by the church. Thus the Congregational Church Building Society helps the young churches of the Congregational Home Missionary Society, and of the American Missionary Association among the dark races.

We aid them by three funds; the grant fund, the loan fund, and the parsonage loan fund. The money is paid back to be used over and over, the loans every five years, the grants irregularly by collections. Every dollar is secured by first mortgage and insurance policy, therefore there is no loss. The money is paid back to be used over and over, the loans every five years, the grants irregularly by collections. Every dollar is secured by first mortgage and insurance policy, therefore there is no loss. The money is paid back to be used over and over, the loans every five years, the grants irregularly by collections. Every dollar is secured by first mortgage and insurance policy, therefore there is no loss.

Why do they need help? Because a church building costs four or five times as much as the missionary society's salary; where the Home Missionary Society helps pay the minister, economy and success demand that the church should be self-supporting. But they are unable to give much larger aid on the building. Because to convert open prairies or empty woods into a town is hard for the first settlers; with farms and homes mortgaged, in debt, and taxed, they have no money, usually at first no partitions, no plaster of paint, no cellar or well; snowdrifts inside when they are outside, and food frozen solid in the morning; the people cannot afford to build a church. But they give wonderfully. A carpenter trying to get a home for wife and two children gave $175 out of $2 a day wages; a laborer earning $40 a year gave $150 and a note for $100 to build a church. A farmer gave out, had saved money for a new roof, but for fear of losing the new church for lack of Church Building Society aid, he gave his roof money and kept an umbrella beside the bed in case of rain.

A missionary church has its first hope of success, when it gets a building, and it cannot build without aid. If not aided the church will die, or if they live it will be only by the grace of God. The Congregational Home Missionary Society, One Home Missionary Society, tent said that his churches would live only two years without a building. Large numbers of our churches have died from lack of money to build, and the homeless and hopeless, for a church without a building is like an egg without a shell, the more it is brooded the worse condition it is in. When a church dies it damages the moral future of the new town, and loses the Christian workers and riches of the future.

If we aid a church to build, a revival follows soon, and many Eastern young men are saved in this way in the new town, new life, new habits. A Minnesota church, which had been satisfied with the old, took Home Missionary aid for thirteen years without a sign of success, but when the Church Building Society gave it $500 to pay last bills on a $1000 church a revival began, the dedication, and fourteen young men were converted.

Then comes self-support. One Minnesota church expected every year for six years to throw off Home Missionary aid; the sixth year it had $200 aid from the Church Building Society on a $4000 church, and has been self-supporting ever since. A good way to save Home Missionary money; but why couldn't the Church Building Society have aided the church to build a new church, and saved $1500 Home Missionary money? For lack of money. In North Wisconsin seven new churches were aided to build about the same time; in four years six of them were self-supporting.

Often the Church Building Society has to cut down the application of a church, forcing it to a hard struggle to pay up; but the church must have more aid from the Home Missionary Society. The reason is because they emptied their pockets on the building, and the extra expense to the Home Missionary Society proves to be more than the amount the Church Building Society had given. The Church Building Society has a struggle to pay for a church building when the Church Building Society cannot aid them promptly and sufficiently; worry, leaves, broken down.

Thus by prompt payment of bills, revival, and self-support, we see that every $1,000 given to the Congregational Church Building Society will save $1,000 to the Congregational Home Missionary Society in about three years.

At the monthly business meetings the society has to refuse from one-fourth to two-thirds of the applications; it should have nearly twice its present income in order to help the Home Missionary Society do its work with economy and efficiency.

A Consummate Nuisance.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

As a citizen of "The Garden City" I desire to add my protest against the practice of burning leaves and rubbish, so common during the spring and autumn.

It is a consummate nuisance and there are many citizens to my knowledge, who have been most earnestly hoping that our good city officials would make such practice an offense against the ordinances of this otherwise desirable suburb. During certain months the smoke and smudge from burning leaves permeates the entire atmosphere both inside and outside of our homes, and in a decided manner, the health and comfort of every inhabitant. Let us hope some speedy action may be taken toward its abatement.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

LETTERS OF NAPOLEON.

"New Letters of Napoleon I" is a book that adds much of interest to the study of the great Napoleon, and it has just been published by D. Appleton & Co. The letters are edited by Louis Lecestre, curator of the French archives, and translated by Lady Mary Lloyd. They are made up of letters omitted from the edition published under the auspices of Napoleon III, and therefore include many passages that quicken curiosity. The most casual reader can not miss the traits of character shown in these rude, curt notes, which illustrate the spirit of autocracy, and of stern martial law. Admirers of Napoleon will find little in these letters to inspire them with respect for the man, although they can not fail to be impressed by the evidence of the minute supervision he maintained of every part of the empire, and by the firm and confident judgment he always displayed. Everything received his full attention, and every minute detail was carefully considered. If nothing were known of Napoleon's career but what is contained in these letters, the greatness of the man might be inferred from this record of administrative activity. The movements of armies, the subterranean activities of the secret police, the dangerous temptations of the weak members of his family whom he had put on neighboring thrones, all these are supervised with the same swift, calm certainty. Every line is that of the man born to command. No detail is left unattended to. Newspaper and pulpit are looked out for with the same diligence. To M. Fouché, minister of police, he writes: "The Journal de l'Empire still goes on badly. What business has it to insert Mr. Ganning's speech in the Copenhagen intelligence? Had the editor that speech before him? Ought he to have inserted it without knowing that it suited me? That young man is either an idiot or a scoundrel, or a fool; tell him so from me. If he does not change his ways, I shall change the editor." Of interest to Americans is the reference to a United States consul in a letter to M. Fouché, minister of police, "Give orders to have Mr. X, the American consul at Genoa, put under arrest, for wearing a cross of Malta given him by the English, and so being an English agent. His papers will be seized, and an abstract of them made, and he will be kept in secret confinement until you have made your report to me." This man, having received a foreign decoration, ceases to be an American. I am sorry, by the way, that you should have been so treated with the emissaries of the United States. My police knows no emissaries." Among the passages which were suppressed in the edition published during the reign of Napoleon III is this, which shows the hypocritical nature of some of the remarks on morals. After strenuously commanding the divorce of Lucien Bonaparte, he proceeds, "Once Lucien has divorced Mme. Joubert, and has been raised to a great position at Naples, or elsewhere, if he chooses to recall her and live with her, not as with a princess who is his wife, but in any intimacy he chooses. I shall make no difficulty, for the political aspect is all I care for. Apart from that, I have no desire to run counter to his tastes and passions." No considerations of humanity, or of morality stood in his way when he had a point to make, or wished to carry out a certain policy, or to strongly establish himself in the empire. A human being was nothing to him, and suspected men were put to the torture, or murdered, with perfect indifference if they were in the way of Napoleon's policy. To the reader of the letters, the thought that all this tremendous activity and energy, and all this stupendous record of work to build an empire, resulted in failure, becomes a very impressive lesson on the vanity of human endeavor.

THIS LITTLE WORLD.

David Christie Murray has written a very interesting, and in some respects, a very little world. It will so fascinate the reader that he will forget the many improbabilities in the story. The untaught English rustic who becomes with only the smallest amount of instruction the strongest portrait and landscape painter of his time; the equally untaught girl who becomes the greatest singer in the world, are great things to come out of one small and unorthodox English wife, but the novel reader does not care for realism, if only the writer can fascinate him for the time. This Mr. Murray is able to do, and the story is developed with a good deal of skill, with the due amount of surprises, and the introduction of a number of characters who stand out clearly enough for the time being. The ex-prize fighter, who never won, but also never lost his courage, his faithful but practical little wife, the old bonny lover, the ex-opera singer married to a German baron, and the hero and heroine are all worth knowing, and make an unusual collection of interesting people for one story. Published by D. Appleton & Co.

THE LABORER AND THE CAPITALIST.

"The Laborer and the Capitalist," by Freeman Otis Willey, might better have been named "The Laborer from the Capitalist's Standpoint." It is published by the Equitable Publishing Co. of New York, and aims to show that there is no reason for any social discontent on the part of the poor, that the rich are not so very rich, and the poor are not so very poor, as the Standard Oil Monopoly is merely a beneficent business concern, which never takes unjust means to crush competition, etc., etc. Mr. Willey, judging from his picture which adorns the book, is an easy-going, optimistic individual, who has written some 300 pages so simple in style that any child can understand them, and most any bright boy could refute all of his arguments. He goes to the point of view of the New York Tribune and such other authorities for his facts, and his book has the value that might be inferred from this. Readers are invited to send a dollar to the publishers, to pay for sending the book to some "laboring thought" among the laboring men, and no doubt it would prove highly entertaining to such men, there is so little thought about the whole thing. If any political party has had the book written for campaign purposes, it evidently has "money to burn."

Hopeful Words to Childless Women.

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to a childless and desolate old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to some great lack of strength in the organs of generation. Such a condition is nearly always due to long continued neglect of the plainest warnings.

Frequent backache and distressing pains accompanied by offensive discharges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation, indicate a nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs, that unless speedily checked will result in barrenness.

Read Mrs. Wilson's letter:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—No one could have suffered from female troubles more than I. I had tumors on the womb, my ovaries were diseased, and for fifteen years I was a burden to myself. I was operated upon three different times, with only temporary relief; also tried many doctors. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me by a lady friend, and after taking four bottles I was like a new woman. I had been married nine years, and had no children. I now have a beautiful little girl, and we feel assured she is the result of my taking the Compound.—MAY B. WILSON, 323 Sassafras St., Millville, N. J.

Modern science and past experience have produced nothing so effective in treating diseases of the female organs as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash used according to special directions.

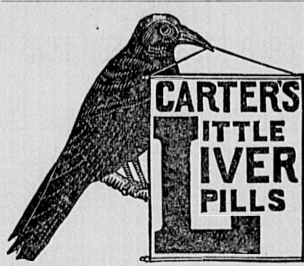

If you know any woman who is suffering and who is unable to secure relief, or who is sorrowful because she believes herself barren, tell her to write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and ask her advice. The thousands of Mrs. Pinkham's cures are all recorded for quick reference, and a reply will be promptly sent wholly without charge, that will direct her what to do.

Mrs. B. BLUM, 4940 San Francisco Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes:—"It has been my great desire to have a babe. Since taking your medicine my wish is fulfilled."

STOCK BARN AT GLEN FARM.

A good thing is always appreciated, and especially so if directly or indirectly connected with the welfare of the human system. All know the value of milk as a food for both old and young, and its value to a greater or less degree depends upon its production. We were never more impressed with what good management can do than by a visit to the well-known Glen Farm, owned by Mr. Edward Jennings, and situated in one of the pleasantest spots in Wellesley Farms, on high land, with splendid drainage and in a sunny location, which means pure air with health-giving qualities. This farm consists of about 380 acres, and a busy place it is.

The main object of the farm is the production of the best quality of milk. The herd consists of 80 cows. About one-third of these are grade Jerseys, the balance being grade Ayrshires and Durhams. These animals have been selected with great care and have been inspected for tuberculosis, they bearing the official stamp upon their ears. Now, a person might have the best herd of cattle in the world, but if they were not properly housed and cared for they would soon run down. Mr. Jennings is aware of this fact, and has provided excellent accommodations for his animals. His main cow barn is 100 ft. long, 40 ft. wide, so constructed as to have a passage-way 16 ft. wide through the center, thus enabling a team to pass through the entire length of the building, and affording plenty of room for the proper feeding of the animals, which are arranged on either side of this passageway. The entire surface is concreted. The building has a monitor roof with a good complement of large windows, so arranged as to allow perfect ventilation without causing a draft upon the animals. They also allow plenty of sunlight to enter the building, which not only makes it a cheerful place, but adds to the purity of the atmosphere. The walls are double boarded, as is also the roof. The sanitary arrangements are well nigh perfect, and the bedding consists of white pine shavings and sawdust, which acts as a deodorizer and disinfectant. Pure water is a very essential article, and this is taken from a spring and pumped into a large tank from which it is distributed by the Buckeye system, which provides a constant supply of running water through the different troughs arranged in front of the cows, a trough answering for two animals. The water stands in these troughs at the same height as in the tank, and as the cows drink, the water comes in from the tank to sustain the level. To retain perfect health the animals must have proper exercise, and this is provided for by three large yards in which they are turned out every pleasant day. In the summer time they have the range of a fine large pasture.

Mr. Jennings was born on this farm, which has been in the family for 72 years, and he has always lived there. Fifteen years ago he began to retail milk in Newton and vicinity, starting with seven cows. From this small beginning his business has grown to such proportions that it requires 300 qts. of milk a day to supply his customers, and his reputation is such that people desiring a good family cow for their own use will do well to consult Mr. Jennings.

Food is an important item, and it is an acknowledged fact that ensilage greatly improves the quality and color of milk. This is provided for by a silo, which is built adjoining the barn, of the following dimensions: 10 ft. deep, 20 ft. in diameter, and holds 40 tons. The lower part is of stone, about 5 ft. high, the balance being 7 1/2 inch matched cypress boards on the outside; the inside layers are half-inch boards with a layer of paper between. Ensilage is raised on the farm, and is mostly white Southern corn, about 25 acres of this being planted annually. Of this ensilage the cows are fed once a day. Two other meals are given which consist of meal, shorts and hay. Mr. Jennings uses nothing but the best of grain.

The milk is taken directly to the milk room and aerated by the Star cooler, the most perfect invention for this purpose. In this connection we will say that the milk room is large and airy, and is kept scrupulously clean to deliver milk at 8 a. m., where the milk is placed after it has been drawn from the cooler into the glass jars and cans, which are used in its delivery to the customers. At present about 300 glass jars are used, and Mr. Jennings is so well pleased with them that he proposes to place his entire output in these receptacles in the near future.

One can imagine the cost of carrying on this large business, when in addition to the keeping of the large herd of 80 cows there are 13 horses, and it requires 12 men in the winter and 15 men in the summer to look after things. In the winter time the wagons start out to deliver milk at 8 a. m., in the summer they start very early so that the milk is delivered to customers before breakfast. Mr. Jennings is very exacting and is very careful that everything about the stable and milk room shall be kept sweet and clean. The milk is frequently tested, and it runs from one to two per cent. above the standard.

Although the sale of milk is the principal object of the farm, there are several other "side lines." Strawberries are one of these, and about 2 1/2 acres are set out with Burbach, Lovett's Early and Clyde, which are expected to fruit this year. Last year 7,000 qts. of these berries were sold to his retail customers. There is a large quantity of wood on the farm, and a specialty is made of hard wood for open grates, and kindling wood. This business has grown so that it has been necessary to put in a steam engine and saw to prepare the wood for this purpose. A large flock of hens is kept, and fresh eggs delivered to customers every day. Fifteen hogs help swell the farm's resources, and are equally available to the attraction of the place. Mr. Jennings is a wide-awake, careful man, quick to see improvements and make them, and by furnishing his customers with articles of the very best quality, accounts for the very large business which is now conducted by this farm.

When you have a sick horse you do not touch him up to a sulky and take him to the race track for a little headful spin. You doctor him. You cannot work or recreate a man into good health any more than you can a horse. Bicycling will make healthy men more healthy; it will make unhealthy men more unhealthy. When a man has been living in too big a hurry, when he has worked himself out, when he has got so that he does not sleep or eat, or rest, it is time for him to take medicine. Then, when he is braced up a bit, it is time enough for him to take the bicycle.

When a man's nerves have an edge on them, so that the least little disappointment raps on his temper like a file, when his stomach and liver and nerves are deranged, and he is continually gloomy and melancholy, he should take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It makes a man as hungry as a fisherman and sees to it that all the vital elements of the food are absorbed into the blood. It braces up the liver and puts it to work in the right way. It drives all bilious impurities from the system. It fills flesh, nerves, brain cells, sinews and bones with the life-giving elements of rich, red, pure blood. It makes a man healthy and then a bicycle will make him strong. Medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

"Through your skillful treatment I am once more a well man," writes J. N. Arnold, Esq., of Gandy, Logan Co., Neb. "I suffered for years with constipation and torpidity of the liver, irritation of the prostate and inflammation of the bladder. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' and am permanently cured. You have been the means of saving my life."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little 'Pellet' is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are 'just as good.'

The Circuit League bowlers have three more weeks in which to settle up their second annual argument, and the battle is fought with as much uncertainty and as full of exciting incidents as at any time since the start.

The three games rolled last week did not change the aspect of the battle between the top teams. Arlington Boat got through without losing any of its ground to Newton Boat Club. B. A. A. second gained in its match, and now has Riverdale tied for third place. Allston and Mangus did not change, and remain tied in fourth place. Newton Highland is hopelessly in last place.

Bunth of the Newton Boat Club stands second in the individual average list, with Linder of the B. A. A. 34 first.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

The Brookline Chronicle has made out a table giving the expenses for schools in the various cities of the state, which is interesting reading. The first thing that strikes the reader, is that if any one thinks Newton schools are extravagantly managed, they ought to look at Brookline. That town has 2,859 pupils of school age, and Newton has 3,286, yet Brookline has an annual expenditure of $307,970.61, to Newton's $227,088.97. Brookline has an average of 20 pupils to a teacher, while Newton has 28, and no other city has less than Newton except Northampton, which has 26.

Brookline has 6 male and 97 female teachers, while Newton has 17 male and 119 female teachers. Brookline pays an average of $156 per month for male and $67
for female teachers, while Newton pays $193.23 to male and $63.77 to female teachers. Brookline pays its superintendent $4000, to Newton's $3800, and Boston is the only other city paying as much as Newton, the average salary being $2775. The average male teacher gets $151.31, and female $96.37. Brookline's excess of expenditure comes mainly in sundries, and in new school houses. School books and supplies cost Brookline an average of $2.32 per scholar, Newton $2.09, and the average for the state is $1.78. The table was printed because Brookline is now in the throes of an agitation over school expenses, and the alleged extravagance of the Brookline
school board.

In regard to state supervision of the telephone business, is it not just as proper and necessary, as the state supervision of railroads, street railways and gas and electric light companies? The telephone company has a monopoly of the business, and there is thus more danger to the people than in the case of the other businesses, where competition is present. The annual report of the Bell Telephone Company, with its record of enormous profits, shows one reason why the proposed state supervision
is unwelcome to the company, as state supervision might interfere with these profits. The telephone company pleads that it is not fair to put it under state supervision and leave the telegraph companies out,
but a hundred people use the telephone to one that sends a telegram, and it will be easy to add the telegraph business another time. All public corporations should be under state supervision is the principle we have gone upon in Massachusetts, and the telephone business has not been included because it is a comparatively new one, but the time has come to take action. A comparison of the list of signers to the Boston Post's petition in favor of the bill with those received by the telephone company against it, and inserted as a page advertisement in the Boston papers, will show which is the popular side. The New England Telephone Company claims that they have to pay such large fees to the Bell Telephone Company that they can barely pay expenses, but the Bell Telephone Company practically owns the New England Telephone Company, and so leases its patent rights to itself under another name.
The Boston Post of all the Boston dailies had the courage to come out in favor of what has always been the policy in this state, and it is making a brave fight.
What will be the outcome in the legislature
remains to be seen, but as the Boston Gas Companies were able to control the Senate,
the Telephone Company will probably be able to "convince" enough senators to defeat the bill, if action is delayed long enough. The action of the senators should be closely watched.

The Arena is attracting attention from the prominence of its contributors, and the vital topics they discuss. In the April number, Hon. William Jennings Bryan, late candidate for the presidency, tells about "Foreign Influences in American Politics," and Hon. Geo. Fred Williams writes of "The Way Upward." The latter article is of special interest, as in it Mr. Williams gives his theory of the cause of the long continued depression in business, and the only way upward out of the troubles which beset most business men, who are outside of the trusts and monopolies. The article will certainly be widely read, from the prominence of Mr. Williams in the free silver movement. Evidently the leaders in that cause are not at all discouraged by the division in the Democratic ranks, and Mr.
Williams certainly presents the case in a striking and forcible way.

It is curious that any bill with which Senator Lodge is prominently identified proves to be a political mistake of so grave
a character, that the bill generally fails of passage. His force bill was a notable instance, and his immigration bill is now looked at with such grave suspicion by Republicans all over the country that it promises to be also defeated. Yet we have no doubt that Senator Lodge really thought that both bills would be popular measures, and would help to make him regarded as one of the great statesmen of his party, as otherwise he would have had nothing to do with them.

The condition of the Boston portion of Tremont street is the cause of great complaint, from the hundreds that are daily forced to use the street. It is the main thoroughfare between the northern side of Newton and Boston, and at the time Newton widened its part of the street it was promised that Boston would follow suit in a very short time. But nothing has yet been done, the electric car tracks take up
most of the roadbed, and there is not room for a team to pass a car without going into gutter. The roadway, what there is of it, is in a very bad condition, and a disgrace to Boston. As the section in question is not more than a quarter of a mile in length,
the expense of widening would be very small, and there is no excuse for Boston's delay in the matter.

As the contract for street watering begins next week, it is hoped that we shall not suffer more from the terrible dust that enveloped the whole city until the rain and snow of Thursday. As the street sprinkling is under the direct control of the street commissioner, this year, it promises to be done in a perfectly satisfactory manner.
Mr. Ross always has his eyes open, and is always appearing upon the city workmen
when least expected, so there is little chance for slighting the work.

The storm of disapproval that was raised by the stamps used in the various Newton postoffices has had its effect, and last Saturday new stamps were provided with the name of the station at the top, where it should have been in the first place. Newton people are grateful for even this small evidence that the postal department at Washington has some intelligence in its management, a fact of which its curious action in regard to the Central office caused grave doubts.

An article in one of the city papers last week led its readers to infer that a new candidate for city solicitor was being boomed. Nevertheless, the citizens generally are very well satisfied with the present official, and think the change hinted
at would not be for the better.

The anti-cigarette bill was killed in the State Senate, and the general conclusion seems to be that the cigarette trust came down rather handsomely.

Auburndale Improvement Society.

At a recent meeting of the Auburndale Village Improvement Society an interesting discussion took place over the question of improved school accommodations for this village.

Three rooms of the old school building
are already occupied by the overflow from the Williams school, and the other room
has now been made ready for occupancy.
It is evident that in the near future a new school house will be necessary, and some improvements of the Williams school will also be called for. One great need there is a hall where all the school can be assembled for general exercises, and a committee of three, consisting of Mr. Geo. M. Fiske, Dr. F. E. Peloubet and Mr. Chas. A.
Brown were appointed to look into the matter and report at a future meeting.

An appropriation of twenty-five dollars was made to be expended by the officers of the association in cleaning up vacant lots belonging to non-residents or others who cannot easily be reached, and in otherwise maintaining the credit of the village for cleanliness.

The original circular letter will be sent to all owners and occupants of business blocks, and it is hoped that all our citizens will take especial pains to keep their premises tidy.
To the Owners and Occupants of Our Business Blocks—
It is the general testimony of real estate men that nothing discredits and damages a village more than untidy places of business, and it is sincerely hoped that all owners and occupants of buildings used for business purposes in Auburndale, will see to it that no offensive litter of any kind be allowed to collect around their premises.

Our village is now visited by a vastly greater number of people than it was before the avenue was built, and there is an urgent public demand for an improvement in the direction of neatness. Owners of vacant lots also owe it to the public to keep such premises free from rubbish. Your attention is most respectfully called to this very important matter. Per Order.

AUBURNDALE VILLAGE IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.
Every citizen should belong to the Improvement Society. Annual fee $1. Ladies are eligible to membership.
Application for membership may be made to Mr. H. G. Hildreth, treasurer, or Mr. William Fuller, secretary.

State Federation Meeting.

The meeting of the State Federation at Lowell, by invitation of the Middlesex Women's Club, offers a delightful program.

It will be held in the First Congregational church on Merrimack street, Lowell, Wednesday, April 13. Subject, "The Practical Value of the Study of History."
The morning session begins at 10 o'clock.
The essays will be on "The Worth of History" by Rev. Francis Hornbrooke of Newton, and "What New England offers to a Student of Local History" by Rev. Edward
G. Porter of Lexington. During the noon intermission an opportunity will be given to visit the Lowell Textile school. The afternoon session opens at 2:30 p. m.
The paper will be, "How to study History," Miss Elizabeth Thompson of South Brain-tree. All members of the clubs forming the State Federation may attend this meeting. The yellow tickets will be necessary for admission to the church. At 12 o'clock a luncheon will be served in the vestry of the church, the tickets for which will be twenty-five cents each.

All members of the Newton Centre Women's Club who will attend and will take luncheon tickets, are requested to report to Mrs. F. E. Anderson, 34 Gibbs street, Newton Centre, on or before April 6. Clubs will be responsible for the number of tickets reported. Train leaves Boston at 9 a. m. and returning leaves Lowell at 5:10 and 5:22 p. m. The round trip, special rate, will be $1. MARY S. ANDERSON, March 25, 1898. Cor. Sec'y of N. C. W. C.

of his paper, in which wheels will not be mentioned at all."

chair to light the gas.

MASONIC MINSTRELS.

DRAW CROWDED HOUSES FOR THREE NIGHTS AT MASONIC HALL.

The Masonic Minstrels have every reason to feel satisfied with the result of their efforts to please the people of Newton and incidentally to increase their building fund. For three nights, this week, Temple Hall was filled to its utmost capacity, with enthusiastic audiences, and if every number was not encored, it was because the length of the program did not permit of repetitions.

The Newton Mandolin and Guitar club proved a great attraction, and its selections before the drawing of the curtain
and between the events were many of them
so pleasing as to draw out hearty applause.

The drawing of the curtain disclosed a great array of burnt cork artists, and Capt.
Davis, the master of ceremonies, was the only exception, his face being made up in a striking resemblance to President Mc-Kinley, which the audience recognized with applause.

The bones were rattled by Messrs. J. E.
Heymer, A. S. Bryant, G. M. Angier and
the tambos by T. E. Stinson, E. B. Bowen and G. F. Skelton. Messrs. Stinson and Bryant leading in the very valuable characterizations, and the others coming in a close second. The jokes were mostly new and the local hits were all appreciated.
The singing was unusually good, and the audience could hardly refrain from joining
in some of the popular choruses.

The opening number consisted of "a medley of selected bits, mostly old, adapted selected, arranged and stolen," by Mr. C.
J. Buffum. Among the songs were "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground," by the

CHAS. J. BUFFUM.

Dalhousie quartet. Messrs. Hunting, W.
T. Rice, Bustin and Ulmer; "Do Not Happy Day," Bros. Morton and Jordan;
"Just Tell Them," G. W. Ulmer; "Sweet Rosy O'Grady," Masters E. H. Robinson, R. S. Harlow, G. C. Buffum; "Wise-Men," Messrs. Woodbury, Morgan,
Moore and Wood; Ben Bolt; J. E. Morse;
"Sweetest Story," W. T. Rice; "Brown
October Ale," H. M. Walton; "Slumber
Song," L. S. Brigham; "Swanee Ribber," Dalhousie quartet; "Mamie," H. W. Colby;
"Paradise Alley," E. P. Hatch and G. F.
Skelton; "Last Hope," by G. F. Hunting.
By request, during the singing the audience
remained seated and refrained from tears,
the management announcing that those who would be needed later, which was correct, except that the tears were not of the real salt sea kind.

The first part consisted of "Come Along,
Sinners," A. S. Bryant; "On the Banks of the Wabash," E. H. Bustin; "Aunt Loo's Surprise," by the composer, J. E. Heymer;
"Queen of the Earth," E. L. Jordan; "I Don't Care," E. B. Bowen; "Clang of the Forge," G. W. Ulmer; "Enjoy Yourselves,"
"I Love You in the Same Old Way," Hugh Campbell. Finale, introducing various elements in the character of the well-known, but much maligned Masonic Goat, by T. E. Stinson and full chorus.

The original words of choruses in Medley, and verses in "Goat" song, were by Mr. Charles J. Buffum.
The musical numbers were interspersed with minstrel wit. Capt. C. E. Davis as master of ceremonies was in his element,
while Alderman J. E. Heymer, Ed. Bowen,
the well-known manager of the Newton Athletic Association, Sid Bryant, "Ned" Stinson, George M. Angier, and G. F. Skelton at the ends handled Newton men and things without gloves.

The finale of the first part was a masterpiece, composed and arranged by C. J. Buf-
fum. It took the form of a tribute to the Masonic goat, in which Mr. T. E. Stinson introduced the various phases of the subject, assisted by the full chorus.
The windup was a patriotic selection,
introducing the Cuban and American flags.
The effectiveness of the finale was shown by the rounds of applause with which it was greeted.

"Mammy's Pickaninny," by Mr. Frank Horace Wheeler, was the first number in

JOHN E. HEYMER.

the olio, which formed the second part of the entertainment. This was followed by
"Boy Wanted," a hashed-up mess by J. E.
Heymer, "an epigrammatic, humorous and economical sketch," with the following cast: "M. T. Barrel, a mean man of means," C. F. Johnson, Jr.; "O. A. Ghost," silent partner, G. M. Angier; boy, J. E. Heymer.
This number was all that its title implies, and proved one of the most roaring of farces.

Mr. C. J. Buffum won deserved applause with his rendering of "Crocodile Love Song."
The song and dance of Horton S. Allen and Wm. F. Rice was one of the hits of the performance. Mr. Allen being the colored lady, and their dancing was so good that the audience broke the rule and succeeded in securing a repetition.

The entertainment was brought to a close by another sketch, "A Quiet Night in the Newton Hospital," in which Sidney Bryant was the particular star. The cast
was as follows:
Dr. Pulmonick, M.D., D.D.—NG H.P. Dearborn Nurse (of the worst) Sid Bryant
Colored gent, Mr. Kilburn
Patient No. 1, Mr. Coxeter
Patient No. 2, Mr. G. Rich
The first scene represented the doctor's office, and the second the hospital, and it was anything but a quiet night.
The performance was given under the management of Charles J. Buffum, manager and musical director; John E. Hey-mer, stage manager; Frank Horace Wheeler, accompanist; L. S. Brigham, secretary.

The circle was composed of H. S. Allen, A.
Davidson, J. E. Morse, T. H. Tyler, Jr., H.
M. Walton, J. W. Fisher, G. P. Rice, David
Bates, H. E. Woodberry, F. R. Moore, E.
S. Kilburn, E. A. Wood, A. S. Kilburn, A.
Plummer, J. S. Coxeter, D. H. Fitch, F. A.
Shelton, J. A. Potter, J. E. Heymer, A. S.
Bryant, G. M. Angier, L. S. Brigham, E.
L. Jordan, F. M. Morton, H. W. Colby, E.
P. Hatch, C. E. Davis, C. F. Hunting, W.
T. Rice, F. H. Bustin, G. W. Ulmer, H.
Campbell, G. F. Skelton, E. B. Bowen, and
T. E. Stinson.

Pi Eta Theatricals.

The annual "spring function," the comic opera by the Harvard boys in the Pi Eta Society, is drawing near and bids fair to be as popular a feature of the season as it was last year.

The boys have been busy for several weeks rehearsing "Spontania," as the coming opera is to be called, and have given considerable amusement to the few favored spectators who have been able to gain admission to their secret rehearsals. It is surely a comic sight to see the students, grave seniors even, dancing around the stage in their shirt sleeves, working with the perspiration streaming down their faces, as though their lives depended upon the results, and pretending to hold on to the imaginary skirts which they will don
when they appear in public.

They are being trained this year by Mr.
Edward E. Rose, a member of the society back in the eighties who can boast of being the man to start the Castle Square Theatre upon its road to success. He is assisted by Norman H. White, another graduate of the society who took the part of Simple Simon
in the earlier trials of that name a year ago. The dancers and "fair damsels" are being taught grace by two professional dancing teachers from the Boston Theatre,
who are accomplishing wonders in rounding off the clumsy actions of the boys.

Spontania was written by Howard Conoley, '99, and the music was composed by John A. Loud, '98, whose music in Foul's Gold, from 1891, was popular in Newton.
The libretto is full of life and snap and the music is bright and catchy and sure to take the audience by storm. Many of our Newton boys belong to the Pi Eta Society and several of them are connected with Spontania. Mr. F. L. Holmes who played the part of the Jew last year, has written a
"topical" song which is sure to make a hit.
Arthur Hollis has a prominent part in the cast, and W. L. Barnard is likely to bring down the house with a song which has been the hit of the last year, has written a
"topical" song which is sure to make a hit.

The boys are going to give Spontania or the Dream of C. Van Brunt in Bray's hall, Newton Centre, on Patriots' Day, April 19,
and their friends are going to give them a rousing welcome when they come. The first few rows will be reserved this year so that any who prefer to pay a trifle extra to have a front seat reserved for them, instead of standing in line and taking their chances on getting a good rear seat, may do so.
The price for reserved seats will be $1.50,
floor seats $1, balcony admission 50 cents.
Tickets may be had at almost any drug store, from friends of the students, or may be obtained at the above prices on application to L. W. Redpath, 51 Hastings' St., Cambridge.

Cuban Relief.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—
I beg to hand you herewith memorandum of contributions received by the Newton Cuban relief committee during the past week, and I will thank you if you will give publication of the same in this week's issue
of your paper.

It is hoped that any one having in mind
to forward, either clothing, food or medicines through the committee will please deliver the same as early as convenient, in order to secure prompt despatch to the sufferers by steamer sailing at an early date. The supplies now in the committee's hands will doubtless be forwarded next week.

—It is thought that a hall would be very desirable at the Williams building and one accessible to the village is certainly needed. Why would it not be a good idea to build an annex to the present well arranged building, having a single storeyed brick hall connected with the main building at the rear and running at right angles to it towards the east, thus forming a court, where would be a fountain and trees and convenient seats. The latest idea of a perfect school building is not to have it high in the air, but as near the ground as possible and to make all about it artistic and attractive. The expense of this would be but little more than to make over the present building, which is quite complete as it is.

NONANTUM.

—Miss Ethel Kay of Sweet's court is ill at her home.

—Mrs. Gallant has removed from West street to Fuller's block on Dalby street.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting last Sunday evening at the North Evangelical church was led by Gen'l Sec'y P. F. Parker of the Y. M. C. A.

—Mrs. Jeremiah Meany of West street died Monday evening at her home, after a seven weeks' illness. Death was due to pneumonia. She was well known here, and had a large circle of friends. A husband and one child survive her.

The entertainment in the North Evangelical church Tuesday evening furnished several solid hours of amusement for a large and enthusiastic audience. At 6:30 an old-fashioned supper was served in the vestry. Later the large company gathered in the main body of the church and enjoyed the representation of Prof. Hornblower's singing school given under the direction of Mr. E. L. Bacon. The program was made up of well chosen numbers, including solos, duets, quartet singing and comb choruses. The costumes of the participants were especially suited to the occasion, and were made doubly effective by the splendid scenic arrangements. The interior of the old school was portrayed with good effect, and the entire performance may be said to have been very creditable. Among those who took part were the Misses Roy, Weldon, Butterfield, Frye, McCannan, Gallahan, Forknall, Foss, Bartlett, Covington, Marshman, Stiles, Robertson and Mrs. Forknall. These gentlemen also contributed to the evening's program: Messrs. E. L. Bacon, Herbert Butterfield, Harold Green, Frank Foss, Louis Mayell, Robert Blue, Everett Forknall, Ellis Ward, E. —At the Nonantum Club last Friday evening was held an entertaining smoke talk which attracted a large number of club members and guests. The principal speakers of the evening were Mr. John T. Beale and Mr. R. Forknall.

—Thomas O'Brien, for over half a century one of the best known and highly esteemed residents of this place, died last Saturday at his home on Chapel street.

The funeral services were held Monday morning at the Church of Our Lady, Rev. J. F. Gilfeather officiating. The interment was at Calvary cemetery, Waltham.

—Rev. Daniel Greene has resigned his position as a member of the board of directors of the Newton Associated Charities. The board has been filled by the election of Mr. R. Forknall. Those residents of this place who desire to renew their lots or obtain new ones may apply to Mr. Forknall.

—Complaint has been heard of late regarding the number of school boys who gather every noon at the corner of York and Pearl streets. The actions are said to be causing residents of the neighborhood some annoyance, and bicyclers and pedestrians have complained that the youngsters throw stones as they pass by. The matter will be called to the attention of the police.

Photographs at the Library.

A large collection of photographs of the paintings and sculptures in the various galleries and churches of Europe has been received at the library. Many of the photographs are already mounted, the others will soon be mounted, catalogued and ready for use. The selection has been very carefully made by a friend of the library who is especially fitted for such an undertaking by years spent in the study of art, and who for the past year has been visiting the galleries and photographs of Paris, Florence, Rome, etc. Her aim has been to represent the different schools of painting so as to meet the needs of art students, clubs, schools, and individuals interested in pictures, sculpture and the fine arts generally.

The library has been able to make this acquisition from the income of the "Jewett Art Fund," and the collection will contain upwards of twenty five hundred photographs. These with about five hundred photographs of sculpture purchased some years ago form a very valuable addition to the resources of the library. Portfolios have been provided for the convenient transportation of the pictures, as they are to be circulated among those interested in art. These photographs can be seen at any time at the library on application to Miss Thurston.

PICKED UP.

Strange how people's taste differ. The High School Band, which never fails to make a favorable impression every time it is heard, is said to be unpopular with a majority of the school band members. Notwithstanding this the young musicians have accomplished some excellent results, under Bandmaster Flockton's direction, and their playing has become one of the most popular features of the school entertainments and drills. Wednesday afternoon at the public declaration of the senior class the well played selections were loudly applauded by their admirers.

From all appearances the knight of the road firmly believes that "spring has come." Over at the Nonantum police station where all who apply to the police for lodgings are kept for the night, there has been a marked decrease in the number of guests that are booked nightly. Monday night, this week, but seven applied, while less than a month ago, nearly thirty were lodged. Those in charge of the explanation that while the transients never mind fault with their Nonantum quarters, they prefer the open air, that is, when the night winds are not too chilly. In the summer, rainy nights and thunder storms are likely to drive them under shelter, but as a rule, "Farmer Green's hang-out," which means sleeping in a hay stack, is generally more to the liking of these "Weary Walkers."

The board of associated charities has begun the distribution of the lots in the Nonantum potato patch. There is said to be several applicants already, and it is doubtful if any part of the farm will go uncultivated. For the past two years the work has been carried on very successfully, with results that have been most satisfactory to the members of the Associated Charities, and the lot owners.

Among those things, which have made a noticeable and rapid advancement during the past few years, is the sale of New York Sunday papers in the different villages. The number of these that are disposed of weekly is said to almost double those of a year ago. The demand has been unusually large since the war scare began, and the newspapers have profited correspondingly. It is probably evident by this time however to the "constant readers" of those lurid journals, that the fact of its being in a large paper doesn't add materially to the truth of a Key West or Havana despatch.

Today has seen the revival of those antiquated practices which may lay claim to the name, but can hardly be called jokes, that delight the small boy, and amuse his seniors, that is, those who have little else to occupy their time. The old empty purse trick, the hat-covered brick, and the "kick me" sign have been resurrected and forced into service once more. The same people who laughed last year and each year before, chuckled again today, while the wiser ones pass by wondering why the fool-kicker doesn't get in some effective work instead of making April 1st his greatest holiday.

Wonder if some of the Boston & Albany engineers forget Newton, and only realize that it is on the map in time to check their trains half way to Newtonville. There are a number of these knights of the throttle, who seem to take particular delight in drawing their trains way beyond the Newton station, and compelling the passengers, who naturally wait idly in front of the station building, to walk 100 yards or so towards Newtonville. This nuisance is particularly felt by ladies, who are thus compelled to wait until the smoker, or wait for the next train. One of the principal offenders against public convenience is the engine driver on the train which arrives at Newton at 7:13 in the evening. Twice during the last week the train has run so far by the station that its rear end was almost under the Centre place bridge. It is about time this practice was stopped, even if the running time does suffer.

How many people have anxiously inquired about the watering carts during the past week. If they did it on the street corners they have asked no more questions for their mouths have been choked with rising real estate, and further remarks have been postponed until home is reached. It may be cold comfort to some to know that the streets are to be watered next week, but a good many sufferers are beginning to doubt if any streets will be left by that time. Even Watertown is ahead of Newton this year in the matter of street watering.

Already workmen have begun preparations for the re-opening of Norumbega Park at Auburndale. While known only to the amusement loving public for one season it has become one of the most popular outdoor summer attractions in or around Boston. The success of the park is due to the careful management, which has won for the park a reputation equal to that of any first class amusement enterprise. Among other new features this year, it is said, will be a typical log cabin and trader's home, seen last week at the Sportsman Show in Boston.

Thin Blood

Where the blood loses its intense red—grows thin and watery, as in anemia, there is a constant feeling of exhaustion, a lack of energy—vitality and the spirits depressed.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is peculiarly adapted to correct this condition. The cod-liver oil, emulsified to an exquisite fineness, enters the blood direct and feeds its every corpuscle, restoring the natural color and giving vitality to the whole system. The hypophosphites reach the brain and nerve centres and add their strengthening and beneficial effect. If the roses have left your cheeks, if you are growing thin and exhausted from overwork, or if age is beginning to tell, use SCOTT'S Emulsion.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. All druggists; 50c. and $1.00. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

A LITTLE SUFFERER

Face, Hands and Arms Covered With Scrofulous Humors—How a Cure Was Effectuated.

"When five years old my little boy had scrofula on his face, hands and arms. It was worst on his chin, although the sores on his cheeks and hands were very bad. It appeared in the form of red pimples which would fester, break open and run and then scab over. After disappearing they would break out again. They caused intense itching and the little sufferer had to be watched continually to keep him from scratching the sores. We became greatly alarmed at his condition. My wife's mother had had scrofula and the only medicine which had helped her was Hood's Sarsaparilla. We decided to give it to our boy and we noted an improvement in his case very soon. After giving him four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla the humor had all been driven out of his blood and it has never since returned."

—The monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club was held in Bray's small hall, Friday morning, Mar. 25. Mrs. George E. Spalding was in charge of the music, which was very enjoyable. The lecture of the morning was by the president, Mrs. Alvah Hovey, the subject, "Glimpses of Egypt." The subject of Egypt and Palestine was of particular light to Mrs. Hovey, as it had been the dream of more than a score of years and now had come its charming realization. A party of thirty-seven left Hoboken February of last year on board the Steamer Egypt. Six days journey brought the party to the Azores, then came the frowning fortress of Gibraltar. A day at Pompeii, a quiet sail by Rhegium on the Italian shore, by Syracuse on the Sicilian shore, by Messina, on they sailed to Port Said in Egypt, an ideal journey, the entire length of the Mediterranean. Egypt has been described as "a donkey ride and a boating trip interspersed with views." The Egypt of the maps is not the Egypt one finds. The real Egypt of the old monuments and buried temples is only a fraction of the great space occupied by the country of Egypt. The desert with its undulations of sand like the waves of the sea, the silent-footed gaunt camels in bright colored trappings or in sombre gray and brown, are ever interesting. On the left of the rail road from Port Said to Ismailia was the famous Suez Canal. Two hours ride from Ismailia brings the party to the famous Delta of the Nile, out of the desert into the richest garden fields. Cairo, the fairy city of the East, was visited. Its citadels, mosques and tombs charmed the beholder. A visit to the site of Heliopolis, six miles north of Cairo, was one of the pleasures of the trip; a day spent in visiting the Giza pyramids is worthy of mention. If German Egyptologists mistake not, not less than 55 centuries look down upon the traveller from the great pyramid of Cheops. A little to the south rises the head of the Sphinx gazing eastward. For waiting for a dawn that has not yet risen. An excursion to Memphis and the Sakkara Pyramids was most interesting. Chief among these latter pyramids is the Step Pyramid, the oldest building in the world, 2000 years before Abraham was born. To crown a day already so rich in memories came a beautiful Nile sunset, the twilight deepened, and when the party reached the little wharf at Cairo, it was already dark. The circulation of many fine photographs added greatly to the enjoyment of the lecture.

Thorpe of Newton Centre, a member of the Boston Browning club has for the past month been interpreting Browning for the Monday Club of Newton Highlands in a most profitable and delightful manner. She is so fully in the atmosphere of Browning's thought, has grasped so intelligently the lessons he has for us, that she is able to interpret him for others with wonderful clearness.

—The house on Floral avenue, belonging to the Lane family of Brighton, is probably the oldest house in this place. It formerly stood fronting on Centre street, near its junction with Boylston street, and was there for a long term of years of the late Maney Thorne. In stage coach days this was one of the halting places, and was also a recruiting station in the war of 1812. We hear that it is soon to be removed again to another site.

—The rehearsals for the operetta "Golden Hair and the Three Bears" are progressing uncommonly well and much interest is being shown, both among the youthful actors and the prospective audience. It is hoped that a large congregation will greet the forcible and eloquent secretary, the distinguished son of a distinguished father, Mr. H. P. Ayer will be the soloist at this service.

—The Monday club celebrated "Gentlemen's night" in the Highland Club Hall, March 24th. The hall was beautifully decorated with yellow and white bunting, daffodils and plants. After the address of welcome by the Pres. Mrs. Pliny Nickerson, a humorous poem was read, and Rev. J. Henry Wiggin was introduced. The subject of his address was, "The Boston of My Boyhood." His reminiscences were given in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. Tewksbury's sweet songs, with Miss Edith Nickerson, accompanist, added much to the evening's enjoyment. Mrs. McIntyre was chairman of the committee of arrangements. Mrs. George May and Mrs. Samuel Shaw poured coffee, and the first department of the committee of ladies who acted as hostesses, and a delightful social hour was enjoyed by all who were present. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. S. C. Cobb Chester street. Subject, "Current Events."

NEWTON CLUB.

A game has been secured with Yale by the management of the Newton Club N. A. A. nine to be played on the Cedar street grounds. Altogether the schedule arranged for the nine is the best which has ever been offered Newton patrons of the national game.

The ladies were given a delightful whist Tuesday afternoon as a fitting close to the season of matinee entertainments. More than 150 were present. Progressive whist was played at 30 tables. At one o'clock play was brought to a close, and the prizes were distributed as follows:

Mrs. Charles Somers first, Mrs. E. H. Saxton second, Mrs. George Curtis third, Mrs. Alice H. Stewart fourth, Mrs. Warren Kyle fifth, Mrs. Florence Crane sixth, Mrs. W. G. Wolfe seventh, Mrs. C. A. Sawin eighth, and Mrs. Winthrop Coffin ninth. Informal tea followed the whist.

The Golf Clubs.

All of the golf clubs of the city are busily preparing for the season's play. The Newton Golf Club, on Centre street, has lengthened its course and improved it in many ways, and will have its formal opening on April 19th. At Chestnut Hill and Braeburn, improvements have been in progress for some time. But perhaps the greatest activity has been shown on the Newton Centre course on Institution Hill.

Here men have been busy all winter blasting out rocks and removing trees, and now the course is completely smoothed, the surface of the course, laying out and mowing new greens and making other improvements. It is safe to say that the course will be fifty per cent. better than ever before, and with its artistic clubhouse and beautiful location, will be more popular than ever. The popularity of the game does not diminish. It is said that each of the five clubs in the city has reached its membership limit, with the exception of the Newton Centre Club, and that is near it. Those who wish to learn the game will probably soon fall on the list. Otherwise they will have to go on the waiting list elsewhere or form a new club, and it is doubtful if even Newton can sustain more than five golf clubs within its limits.

A Great Improvement.

Cold storage as a preventative, as well as an effectual exterminator of moths and other insects that infest and damage fur and woolen articles, will strike the average man and women as carrying science to a point where demonstration is necessary.

A fire proof vault fitted with appointments to secure a low temperature—20 to 30 degrees Fahrenheit, and perfectly dry—has been established in the Boston Storage Warehouse corner of Massachusetts and Westland avenues.

This department is composed of fire proof vaults with a refrigeration system that keeps the temperature below the freezing point, and as claimed, retain instead of evaporating the natural oils in the wool for furs.

The plant is the most complete in the world. It has been said "the proof of the pudding is in the bag."

"Warehouse receipts will be given with a guaranty against insects, fire and theft," is the way Gen. Man. F. W. Lincoln puts it.

Amherst College Senior Dramatics.

The Amherst College seniors will present William Gillette's "All the Comforts of Home" in Associates hall, Newton Centre next Tuesday night. The boys have been carefully trained by a well known instructor in dramatics and an interesting entertainment is promised. The four feminine parts especially are taken with great skill and the whole play is bubbling over with fun. The company includes students and towns of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey and New York. The alumni and friends of Amherst in this vicinity are working hard for the success of the performance.

Livermore, Melrose; Henry Wood, author "God's Image in Man"; H. W. Dresser, editor Journal Practical Medicine; Rev. Helen Van Anderson and Rev. Dr. Danker."

(From Truth.)
Professor—How would you punctuate this sentence: "Miss Wood, a pretty girl of 18, walked down Fifth avenue."

Young student—I would make a dash after "Miss Wood."

RECORD OF THE ARIEL.

Bay Window on Wheels That Flits Through Pennsylvania Coal Regions.

Flitting through the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania in a bay window on wheels at 40 miles an hour has been the occupation for 25 years of Conrad Bower, engineer of the Ariel. This little engine consists of a closed car about 25 feet long. The front half is like a glass bay window, with four large, comfortable revolving chairs upholstered in leather. The rear half contains the motive power that propels this fawn colored, trim little car all along the Reading railway, from Philadelphia to the coal regions and from New York to Williamsport, wherever the officials of the company desire to go. For 19 years Engineer Bower ran the Gem, a similar engine, up to 1873, and then took charge of the Ariel.

"The Ariel," said Engineer Bower, "has carried many distinguished men, including railroad presidents, statesmen, foreign noblemen, the Vanderbilts, General Simon Cameron, Judge Packer and Mr. Walter, the editor of the London Times, who, by the way, paid our little bay window a nice compliment in his paper when he got back home. I did not keep a register or autograph book. The head officials might not have liked it. You see, sometimes leading men come through here on private business, and they do not wish to be known."

During the Mollie Maguire riots the Ariel was much in demand. At that time President Franklin B. Gowen of the Reading railroad, who took the lead in the prosecution of the murderers in the coal regions, did a great deal of quick traveling from his office in Philadelphia to the coal regions, 90 miles away. He went up and down the road almost daily for months, using the Ariel always, with Engineer Bower in charge. Those were dangerous days for the Reading railroad's president, as there was no telling what deviltry of the Mollies would lead them to wreck the Ariel and kill the man who had determined to destroy their organization. Said Engineer Bower:

"Mr. Gowen was one of the bravest men I ever met. Cool headed and shrewd, he knew no fear. In daylight or darkness he took his seat in the Ariel, and away we went. He never drew the curtains of the bay window, but sat fully exposed as we flew up and down the road. I never knew him to carry a revolver. Frequently I took Mr. Gowen out into the gloomy mining patches. We stopped at some out of the way place here and there and picked up a strange man who rode with President Gowen some distance, in close conversation, and then left the Ariel as mysteriously as he had appeared. I must have carried that strange man 20 different times, but it was not until the great murder trials began in the coal regions that I knew he was the famous detective McParlan, who did Mr. Gowen's secret work among the Mollie Maguires. At one time I waited at Locust Gap while Mr. Gowen was at Sunbury. While waiting Pat Hester came to the Ariel and spoke a while; but, getting no information from me, he left. In the round up of Mollie Hester was arrested and hanged."—Reading Letter in New York Sun.

Bell Alarms this Week.

Saturday afternoon at 2:38 o'clock an alarm was rung in from box 62 for a fire in a house on Hillside road, Newton Highlands, owned by Mrs. Ann M. Cobb and occupied by Rev. Charles A. Reese. An inmate of the house had been developing pictures, and the fire is thought to have been caused by the explosion of chemicals. Damage $100.

At 7:35 o'clock Saturday night box 91 was pulled in for a fire in a hay stack on the Joliet street estate on Boylston street. Cause unknown. Loss $30.

Box 35 was sounded at 6:35 o'clock Wednesday night for an incipient blaze in the office of Dr. Cody on Washington street. Cause, defective lamp. No damage.

No expense has been spared in the fittings and decorations, with every facility and fitting rooms, so that every lady may be afforded the lady customers of the firm, and the changes have been admired by a large number.

The enterprise of the firm commands the admiration of all its patrons, for it has not only placed the concern entirely in rapport with the needs and conveniences of the public, but it has also materially contributed to the business life of the city.

FOUR HUNDRED WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

MEETING OF THE ALDERMEN MONDAY EVENING—LARGE VARIETY OF IMPORTANT BUSINESS—SEVERAL HEARINGS AND MANY MINOR MATTERS.

All but three members of the board of aldermen were present at the regular session of that body Monday evening. Vice-President Knowlton called the meeting to order at 7:30 o'clock. For about two hours and a half there was enough business of more or less importance to occupy the attention of the members.

The discussion was not especially interesting, as nothing of vast importance came up for consideration.

HEARINGS.

A petition for a sewer in Warwick road was the first to command the board's attention. Mr. Williams represented the owner of nine lots on the street, and favored the petition. Mr. Hackett, another resident, also urged the board to act favorably. Hearing closed.

A hearing followed on the proposed removal of the electric car tracks on Washington street, Newtonville, from the present position to a point nearer the truck house.

President Parker of the Newton & Boston street railway said the tracks had been laid in accordance with the plans of the city engineer. It was thought that the present position was the best place and the one most adapted. The mistake, it had been hinted, was in leaving the engine house in its present position. The only way of obviating all existing danger was to remove the engine house.

Mr. Putnam, who lives opposite the engine house did not think the changing of the tracks would make any great difference. He went on to explain how he thought the difficulty might be overcome.

At the close of his remarks the hearing was closed.

The next hearing was on the petition of the Newton & Boston Street Railway for location of additional tracks on Walnut street from Mills to Homer street. President Parker told how the company wished to obviate delays, and furnish its patrons with better service.

President A. D. Clavin of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway said his company, while not directly interested, favored the scheme.

The next hearing was opened by President Parker, who in his third address to the board, told of the plan of his company to build a turnout on Walnut street near Watertown street. The scheme was to better the service, and improve the running time. The hearing was immediately closed.

The Newton Street Railway Company was given a hearing on its petition for a location in Lexington street, Auburndale, from River to Auburn street. Treasurer Smith appeared for the company and stated that it was prepared to contribute $7000 to the cost of widening Lexington street.

Mr. J. B. Goodrich representing the gas company, warned the board against the duplication of poles that might occur on Lexington street if the board should see fit to grant the location.

Mr. P. A. McKellar, Albert Plummer and William Plummer appeared in remonstrance. E. F. Miller also objected in a communication to the street railway committee. The remonstrants thought the tracks, if laid on Lexington street, would prove a menace to public safety and lessen the value of real estate in that vicinity. Further argument was advanced much on the same line as that which has been at previous hearings on the same petition.

The hearing was immediately closed.

PETITIONS.

City Engineer Woods presented a report on the proposed separation of the street and railway grades on the south side, an account of which will be found in another column. The report was placed on file.

A number of petitions for sixth class liquor licenses were received and referred.

G. F. Stone and others protested against the encroachment by the Newton & Boston Street Railway on land off Woodward street, Ward 5, which they claimed was originally laid out for a sidewalk and therefore should not be occupied by street railway tracks. Referred to the street railway committee.

Mrs. A. L. Denison was granted permission to withdraw her petition for a sewer on Webster street.

Hugh Monaghan's petition asking that he be appointed a private sewer layer was referred to the highway committee.

Several junk dealers sent a communication to the board asking that the matter of granting licenses to handle junk have the careful consideration of the board. They were anxious that the petition be given exclusively to residents of the city, and noted at fraudulent actions on the part of non-residents who had obtained this permission.

J. H. McAdams' petition to move a building from Floral avenue to Boylston street was referred. A protest against the grant was received and filed.

A petition was received bearing the names of about 500 prominent citizens asking that the minimum wages of the highway laborers employed by the city be $2 a day.

Alderman Whitlsey said as the matter of fixing salaries had been so fixed at the meeting previous, he thought the proper person to consider the matter was the mayor.

There were other suggestions from different aldermen, and finally the matter was referred to the mayor and highway commissioner.

The mayor's communication, in which he stated that the appropriation of $1200 for preparing plans for the separation of south side grade crossings had been exhausted, and recommending an additional $500, was referred to the finance committee.

The mayor also recommended an additional appropriation of $3000 for the completion of the Bullough's pond parkway. Referred to the highway committee.

F. A. Day was appointed an assessor.

Mr. H. H. Parker's petition for a coal shed on Webster street was granted.

Wm. Lowe asked permission to erect a building containing a store and tenement on Chestnut street, Ward 5. Referred to the highway committee.

C. F. Eddy and others asked that a portion of Cheesecake brook be covered. Referred to the highway committee.

Jarvis Lamson asked for a concrete sidewalk and was referred to the highway committee.

E. H. Tarbell asked that gravel sidewalks be constructed on Bowdoin street. Referred to the highway committee.

E. H. Spear asked for permission to conduct a hack business and operate two carriages. Referred to the license committee.

Hearings were ordered for April 18th on the petitions for telephone wire conduits in Washington, Park, Elmwood and Austin streets.

As an amendment suggested by Alderman Potter the matter will be considered by the committee of highways acting in conjunction with the committee on street lights and poles.

The gas company petitioned for a change of the location of the poles on Lexington street. On this petition a hearing was ordered for April 15th. The telephone company asked for the right to use the gas company's poles on Chapel, Green and North streets. Hearing ordered for April 15th.

Three communications were received from the school board. The first asked that $2000 be appropriated and added to the amount to be expended for completing the furnishing of the High school building.

Also that a sum of money be appropriated for the painting and decoration of the interior walls on the same building. The school board also asked that a two-room addition and hall be added to the Williams school building at Auburndale. These communications were turned over to the public property committee.

The petitions of E. L. Smith for gravel sidewalks, and of Middlesex road residents for a concrete sidewalk on that thoroughfare were referred to the highway committee.

The trustees of the Trinity Episcopal church at Newton Centre asked permission for a concrete sidewalk on that thoroughfare between the corner of Centre and Homer streets. This was granted.

COMMITTEE REPORTS AND ORDERS.

The license committee reported on that portion of the mayor's inaugural referring to the granting of sixth class liquor licenses to druggists. In its report the committee said that the necessity of careful scrutiny, was fully recognized.

The claims committee, through its chairman, recommended that Messrs. Lunt, Jones, Walling and Neary be granted damages on claims on their petitions claiming damages.

The same committee reported that the claim of A. A. McGinnis had been satisfactorily settled.

The committee on the journal reported recommending the approval of the records of last meeting. The report was accepted.

The ordinance committee reported on a slight change in the committee rules. The report was accepted.

The highway committee reported on the petition of D. R. Emerson and others who asked that shade trees be placed on the south side of the new Washington street. The committee favored the idea, and an order authorizing the street commissioner to begin the work was adopted.

The same committee reported favoring the petition of Elwell and others, who asked for a concrete sidewalk.

The West Roxbury & Newton street railway company was granted a location in Edman, Parker, Boylston and Cypress streets on condition that the company contribute land for the widening of the streets to a width of 70 feet and bear the cost of the reconstruction of the roadways.

It was voted to defer the consideration of the order appropriating $13,000 for the purchase of the old bank building at Newton for use of the police department.

The order authorizing the chairman to appoint a committee of three to investigate all unsettled claims for land damages throughout the city, in cooperation with the city solicitor and the mayor, was the cause of a short debate.

Alderman Baily thought the committee would have to spend considerable time, and that the matter could be as well settled by the mayor and city solicitor. He knew last year's committee had given a great deal of time to the matter.

Alderman Ivy thought the proposed order would have the desired effect, and that such a plan would bring about the best results.

Alderman Potter said the committee did not contemplate any great work. The order had been presented at the mayor's suggestion.

A vote was taken which resulted in the adoption of the order. Vice-President Knowlton then appointed Aldermen Potter, Ivy and White to serve on the committee.

The telephone company was granted the right to construct conduits on Centre street and Centre place.

The order for granting the Newtonville & Watertown Street Railway additional track location on Walnut street near Watertown street, was the cause of some delay. The plan of the location, it was thought for a time, had been lost, as it was not on file in the city clerk's office.

Alderman Baily took the opportunity to criticize, in a general way, those city officials who neglected their proper duties.

For a time it seemed rather warm in the vicinity of some city officials.

Col. Kingsbury explained that the plan had left his office, and he was not responsible for it.

Alderman Baily thought that it must be in the possession of the city clerk, the clerk of committees or the city engineer. He was not backward in offering his opinion regarding the matter. A vigorous hunt was made, and after the clerk of committees and city engineer had been sent after the plans were found. They had been in plain sight all the time.

Alderman Whitlsey offered an amendment to the city ordinance regarding the duties of the city messenger, that his work might include the supervision of the new police station. Referred.

The Boston Elevated railway company was granted attachments on Washington streets, Nonantum street and Brooks street.

Action on the orders for relocating the street railway tracks on Washington street, near the engine house, was deferred until next meeting on Alderman Potter's objection.

Orders for the laying of a sewer on Warwick road, and connecting hose house 5 and 6 with the sewer were adopted.

The water commissioner was authorized to lay water mains in Chesley road, Furber lane and Ripley street at an expense of $945.

A hearing was ordered for April 18th on the petition of Highland avenue residents who asked for a concrete sidewalk on that street.

TO ENDORSE THE PRESIDENT.

Alderman Alvord presented a resolve endorsing President McKinley's present attitude in the Cuban affairs, and moved that a copy be sent to him. Mr. Alvord spoke further in support of this.

Objection was raised by Aldermen Dana and Lyman, and Alderman Alvord decided to withdraw his resolve.

At 10:45 o'clock the board adjourned.

THE HIGH SCHOOL BATTALION.

SKILL AND EFFICIENCY OF NEWTON'S BOY SOLDIERS SHOWN AT THE ANNUAL INDOOR DRILL SATURDAY AFTERNOON AT NEWTONVILLE—FIVE HUNDRED ADMIRING RELATIVES AND FRIENDS WITNESS THE WORK.

Admired by fathers and mothers, enthusiastically applauded by class mates and friends and inspired by the music of a truly military band, it was little wonder that the boy soldiers of the Newton high school made such a creditable showing as that seen at the annual indoor drill in the drill hall at Newtonville, last Saturday afternoon. Not for a moment did the hundreds of spectators forget however, that the skill so well displayed, was the result of Col. George H. Benyon's careful training, and the untiring efforts of each battalion member.

Like many of its predecessors this year's drill called out an attendance which fully tested the seating capacity of the building. The space reserved for spectators was filled by nearly half a thousand. Among the prominent guests were members of the city government, members of the school board, and twenty officers of the Lasell seminary battalion. The officers of the high school athletic battalion acted as ushers.

The afternoon's program began with a concert by the band, under the direction of Mr. John M. Floetson. Several well rendered pieces were given, and greeted with rounds of applause.

Next came the setting-up exercises under Capt. Hollings' command. The maneuvers of the battalion in this were quite up to the standard.

That always impressive ceremony, the salute to the colors, followed, commanded by Capt. Whitney of Co. D.

The battalion in drill, under Capt. Joslyn of Co. B, was next shown the work of the members to splendid advantage. Every movement was made with true military precision, and did not fail to receive the warm appreciation of the audience.

The signal corps was then drilled by Lieutenant Stevens. Several messages were successfully transmitted by telephone, telegraph and signals.

The junior prize squad drill, the next feature of the program, was equal only in interest to that of the senior squad. It certainly must have been very difficult for the judges, Major M. D. Clement, 5th infantry, and Capt. E. R. Springer of Co. C to select the best drilled men, and surely only men of experience in this direction could be qualified. The juniors marched on the floor under Lieut. Frye's command, and were put through the manual of arms.

After two rounds the prize winners were found, and their names later announced.

The artillery detachment, commanded by Lieut. Barnard, was unusually interesting. The handling of the cannon, with such accuracy as shown by the artillery, would have been creditable to regulars.

The senior squad, drilling for the Fiske medal, under Lieut. Elliot, gave the judges no easy task. It required the most careful scrutiny of the gentlemen, and for a time looked as though a several hours drill would be necessary.

The battalion parade, which never fails to prove the crowning feature of the afternoon's drill, under Capt. Waters' charge. At its close the prizes were awarded by Capt. S. E. Howard of West Newton.

Previous to announcing the prize winners, Capt. Howard made a brief speech saying he was proud to be the prize winner, witnessing the annual indoor drill, and had always found it a great pleasure. He thought the work of the battalion showed the results of great care and painstaking during the past year. While watching the maneuvers he was reminded of the days he had spent in the regular service. All these motions made him think that at this time when war seemed imminent, and preparations for it were being made in every direction, the drill was of great importance. It was anything but play. "Thirty-seven years ago," said Capt. Howard, "young men of your age inspired by true patriotism, swore to support the flag, and fought in its defense. They were no older or stronger than you. Being fired with a martial spirit they were prepared, and when the time came they were called upon and marched to the front. So if you come and now I am sure quite probable, I am looking into the faces of those young men, who will go from Newton to sustain the honor of old glory. Whether in war or peace do your duty wherever you are placed. I say that the Newton high school battalion will be found at any time prepared to do their duty with all their whole heart."

There have been several squads drill here, but never have I seen a better one, and it is quite surprising to see the efficiency that you have attained in so short a time."

With a few closing felicitous remarks Capt. Howard announced these winners: Junior prize squad, Howard medal, Private Reese, first, Privates Ballouay, Wise and Putnam, honorable mention.

Senior prize squad, Fiske medal, Corp. Vail, first, Corp. Rolfe and Daniels, and Private Cronkite, honorable mention.

After the disbanded of the battalion the floor was cleared and dancing enjoyed. The floor was under the direction of the battalion officers. The roster of the company is as follows:

Co. A, Capt. H. B. Hollings, Lieut. Palmer, 1st Sergt. Mandell.

Co. B, Capt. H. A. Joslyn, Lieut. Frye, 1st Sergt. Harold Greene.

Co. C, Capt. A. Waters, Lieut. Elliot, 1st Sergt. D. V. Hoves.

Co. D, Capt. P. H. Whitney, Lieut. Woodbury, and 1st Sergt. A. W. Logan.

The Circuit League.

The Circuit League has one more week after this, for the clubs to battle for the championship, and the victory will be between the Arlington and the Newton Boat Clubs, the former having a lead of two games which is not a safe lead however, and the Newton club may come out ahead. Last week Buntin of the Boat Club reached first place in the individual averages, with Wardwell of the B. A. A. second, and Linder of the latter club, who led at the beginning of last week, fell to fourth place. Knight, Coffin, Langley and Fitz of the Boat club all have averages of 150 and over, and Moore and Gorton of the Newton Highlands are also on the list.

OVERWORKED WOMEN.

Letters to Mrs. Pinkham From Women Who Have Been Helped From Sickness to Health.

The ordinary every-day life of most of our women is a ceaseless treadmill of work. How much harder the daily tasks become when some derangement of the female organs makes every movement painful and keeps the nervous system unstrung!

The following letter from Mrs. WALTER S. BANTA, Sparkill, N. Y., tells the story of many women, and shows them how to get relief:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot thank you enough for all Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to you I had suffered for years with falling, inflammation and ulceration of the womb; my back ached, and I was so much distressed I could scarcely walk. I was a burden to myself and did not care whether I lived or died."

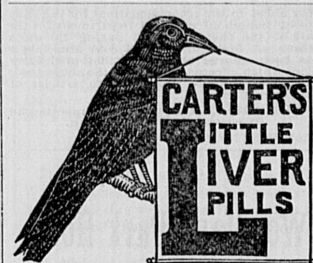

"I have taken five bottles of your medicine and it has done wonders for me as all my friends can testify. I can now do my own work, and do not know how to express my gratitude to you for the good your medicine and advice have done me. I owe my life to Mrs. Pinkham."

Mrs. Pinkham's counsel offered free to all women who need advice about their health. Her address is Lynn, Mass. Mrs. P. H. HUTCHCROFT, Kellerton, Iowa, tells here in her own words how Mrs. Pinkham helped her:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was in a very bad condition before I wrote to you and began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did not know what to do. I suffered terribly every month, when on my feet would have such a bearing-down feeling, was very weak, womb was swollen, back ached, appetite was very poor, also had trouble with my head. I have taken several bottles of your Compound and cannot say enough in its favor. It helped me more than all the doctors."

THE HUNNEWELL CLUB.

ITS HANDSOME NEW BUILDING OPENED TO MEMBERS—ITS APPOINTMENTS SURPASS EXPECTATIONS, AND IT IS ONE OF THE FINEST CLUB BUILDINGS AROUND BOSTON.

The new Hunnewell clubhouse was opened to members Saturday evening, and some 150 gathered to inspect the new home of the club. Expression of pleasure at the beauty of the interior, the excellent taste displayed in the furnishings, and the spaciousness of the new quarters, were heard from every member. In fact it is difficult to see where the builders, or the furnishing committee, could have improved upon their work.

After all had inspected the various apartments a meeting was called in the upper hall by Mr. Edward W. Pope, the president, who made a brief address, giving the figures of the expenditures, and some description of the Hunnewell Hill Club, from which the new club started. The new building was constructed by the Messrs. Stanley, and with the agreement that it should be leased to the club for five years, at a stated sum representing five per cent of the estimated cost. But the Messrs. Stanley had more than kept their part of the agreement, having expended much more than the sum it was estimated the building would cost. They have added many things not thought of at first, as they had a great pride in making the clubhouse as perfect as possible, and they generously gave the club the benefit of it, as it would have only to pay the rent first agreed upon. At the end of the five years, the club had the option of buying the building at its first cost, and also the lot adjoining, at 50 cents a foot. The furnishing committee have labored hard as you see by the results, and they have kept the expenses down to the lowest possible limit, the contractors doing the work at about cost, on account of their wish to please the club and the city, where they had so many patrons. The limit of membership is 200, and there are now 187 members, and the few vacancies will probably now be speedily filled, as the secretary has already had several applications.

The furnishing cost about $7,000, and to provide for this there are some $4,000 from entrance fees, and the rest is to be provided for by $50 notes at 5 per cent, which the club is to retire by lot at any time it has a surplus. Already over 50 of these notes have been taken, and those who wish to take the rest can now have an opportunity. It has been decided to limit the number any one member can take to two, although several have offered to take more, and one gentleman offered to take a dozen or twenty. The formal opening of the club would be held on April 13th, but will hereafter be open to the members. The income of the club would be increased by rentals of the hall and the ladies' parlors, and the hall has already been rented for three evenings this month.

Mr. Pope's remarks were received with applause, and a resolution expressing the thanks of the club to the Messrs. Stanley was passed.

The furnishing committee, President Pope, Mr. Kendall and Mr. C. W. Hall were also given a vote of thanks.

A resolution was passed expressing the sympathy of the club with Ex-Mayor Hibbard, who has always taken such a great interest in it, and hoping that he would soon be able to be present and enjoy it.

Mr. Stanley made a short address in response to the resolution of thanks to him and his brother, and said it had been a matter of pride with them to make the house as perfect as possible. He closed with a humorous and apposite story.

During the evening the first string on the new bowling alleys was anxious off to Mr. Chas. A. Haskell, and the second to Mr. F. O. Stanley. The first game of billiards on the new tables was bid in by Messrs. T. W. Trowbridge and F. A. Webster, the first game of pool by Messrs. R. U. Clark, Jr., and N. C. Whittaker.

THE NEW BUILDING.

The new building is of the colonial style, and is three stories in height. The entrance is on Eldridge street, and the ladies' entrance on Church street, from which a stairway goes direct to the ladies' parlors and to the hall above. In the basement are the bowling alleys, kitchen, dressing and toilet rooms. The main hall is divided by Ionic columns in two parts, each 16 by 20, and finished in ivory white. The flooring throughout the building is quartered oak. In the main hall are heavy carved chairs and seats built in here and there, and upholstered.

At the right of the entrance is the smoking room, 18 by 25, finished in quartered oak, with furniture of the same material, upholstered in leather, and the hangings of rich red velvet. The walls are tinted in red, and there is a wide fireplace with carved mantel reaching to the ceiling. On the left of the entrance is the library, corresponding in size to the smoking room, with a row of well filled bookcases and handsome furniture upholstered in leather. In the central part of the hall is the clerks' office, and at the end of the hall is the billiard room, 35 by 35 feet, with two billiard and two pool tables. Along the sides of this room are broad seats upholstered in leather. Handsome fire places are at the ends of the hall.

A broad stairway leads from the hall to the second story, with a large landing half way up, which is made very attractive by the soft green hangings at the windows with glass cases and upholstered to match the hangings. At the top of the stairway is another broad seat, commanding a view of the upper hall and the stairway.

The ladies' entrance is at the left, 25 by 34 feet, partially divided by a beam and Ionic columns. The dado, cornice and architraves are of colonial design, as is also the mantel at the broad fireplace. The wood work is finished in white, and the walls are tinted a delicate old rose. The furniture is of the Louis XVI design, covered in green and rose silk tapestry. The draperies are imported satin damask, soft green in color, with Brussels lace for curtains. The rug is of English willow of the same color. A grand piano occupies the farther side of the room.

Connected with the room is the ladies' reception room, 18 by 20 feet, the style of finish being similar to that in the ladies' parlor. This reception room connects through a hall with a dressing room, and also with a hallway leading to the Church street entrance.

At the right of the upper hall is the banquet room. The style of finish in this room is similar to that in the ladies' parlor, though the walls are tinted electric blue. Also connected with the second hall is the card room, which is connected with the banquet room with broad sliding doors, so that the two rooms may be thrown into one.

A spacious pantry with sinks, ample closets and a dumb waiter running to the basement, adjoins the banquet hall.

On the third floor is the assembly hall, with seats for 400, and a handsome stage with dressing rooms on either side. The chairs are especially comfortable, with cane seats and backs, and the hall will be a popular place for dances, lectures and theatricals, and has already been engaged for several nights this season.

The bowling alleys in the basement are the great attraction for many members. They are four in number, of the most approved pattern, and having an open space of ten feet wide on one side, the entire length. There is also a spacious raised platform for spectators. Adjoining the bowling alleys are dressing and bath rooms, and the basements also contains the boiler room, kitchen and pantry.

The furniture was especially designed and made for the club by Doe, Hunnewell & Co., Mr. J. M. Quinn of the firm being a member of the club, and the window draperies and lace curtains were also imported for the club by the firm. Mr. Quinn gave his personal attention to the furnishing, and the artistic effects are due to his advice and the good taste of the three members of the furnishing committee, who have received many congratulations on the success of their labors. Every detail shows the same careful attention, and all the ornaments and even the auditions seem especially made for the place they occupy.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N.Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same hundreds of communities, and ever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; Lacroix & Genest, Concord; J. H. Billings, Newton; Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands.

IN FAVOR OF PEACE.

NEWTON SENDS MESSAGES TO THE PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS.

The sentiment in Newton does not endorse the jingo views of Senator Lodge, and people here do not believe in war for the sake of war, which our junior Senator has been advocating for so many years.

At many of the churches last Sunday, resolutions endorsing the policy of President McKinley were adopted and telegraphed to him.

The First Baptist church of Newton Centre sent the following: "To William McKinley—The First Baptist church of Newton Centre desires to express to you today its deep sympathy and strong endorsement of your effort in behalf of suffering humanity to peacefully adjust the strained relations between this country and Spain."

"We believe that we express the unanimous sentiment of the Christian men and women of New England, and of the country, when we urge and pray that every justifiable effort consistent with our honor as a nation may be made to avert the devastating effects of war. May God bless you and those associated with you in your effort to accomplish this beneficent end."

The telegram was signed by Rev. E. Y. Mallen, the pastor, and A. W. Smith, the clerk of the church. Copies of the telegram were also sent to the senators and representatives of Massachusetts in congress.

The standing committee of the First Unitarian church, West Newton, at the close of their service adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, in the present crisis between the United States and Spain the able and dignified conduct of the president in his effort to maintain peace should be heartily endorsed by all lovers of our country:

"Resolved, That this committee heartily approves the action of the president in the Cuban matter, and expresses its confidence in his continued discretion and patriotism."

George Hutchinson was instructed to send these resolutions to President McKinley and to Representative Charles F. Sprague.

At the Second Congregational church, West Newton, the position of the president was endorsed by a rising vote of the church and similar action was taken at the New church, Newtonville.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY TRUSTEES.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Newton Free Library, Tuesday afternoon, the following resolution was adopted, and copy at once telegraphed to President McKinley and Speaker Reed:

"The Hon. William McKinley, President of the United States; the Hon. Thomas B. Reed, the Hon. Charles F. Sprague, on the part of the trustees of the Free Library of Newton, Mass., hereby express their grateful appreciation of the courageous stand of the national administration to secure peace with honor; and they believe that they express the sentiments of a very large majority of the voters of Newton and of Massachusetts."

E. B. HASKELL, President.
JULIUS L. CLARKE, Secretary.

RESPONSE FROM CONGRESSMAN SPRAGUE.

In response to a telegram sent last Sunday by Mayor Cobb of Newton to Congressman Charles F. Sprague, on the subject of the endorsement of President McKinley's Cuban policy, the following letter was received Tuesday morning:

"The Hon. Henry E. Cobb, Mayor of Newton, West Newton, Mass.—My Dear Sir: I have received your telegram assuring me that the people of Newton will sustain me in the effort to obtain a peaceable solution of the Cuban difficulty, and I have felt that this would be their attitude. I have believed in the President's policy from the first, and have deprecated the threatened, hasty, and, to my mind, ill-judged action by Congress independent of the President."

"The President deserves the support of every true citizen in his efforts to solve the questions now at issue between this country and Spain without war if possible, and he should be allowed to act as he sees best to accomplish that end. Should he fail, after conscientious efforts, and recommend a change in policy, he should receive equally loyal support."

"I most earnestly hope a peaceful solution will be found, and shall do all in my power to support the President in his efforts toward that end."

Yours very truly,
CHARLES F. SPRAGUE.

Newton District Nursing Association.

The circulars sent out some days ago are meeting with a generous approval, and on or before the first of May it is expected that at least one nurse will have begun her duties. In view of the fact that three of the physicians have stated that jointly they could find enough work to engage the entire time of two nurses, it is hoped that the subscription will continue and that this association may find itself possessed of sufficient funds to employ not only one nurse, but four or five.

There can be no better charity than the care of the sick in their homes, and while we are interested in the care of the Cubans, there ought to be no question that the citizens of Newton will supply at least an amount for their own sick equal to the amount subscribed for Cuba. There will be a demand for bed linen, clothing and other articles needed for the sick and such articles are respectfully solicited. If any person having such articles will send a postal to Mrs. Lewis R. Spence of Newton Centre, they will be called for.

Subscriptions in money should be sent to Mrs. John F. Heckman, Newton Highlands.

THE NEWTON SINGLE TAX CLUB.

IS PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE THAT THE EDITOR OF THE BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER WILL ADDRESS THE MEMBERS OF THE CLUB AND THEIR FRIENDS IN THE METHODIST CHURCH VESTRY NEWTONVILLE, ON MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 11, AT 7.45.

Truly great men by virtue of their altruism, their unselfish devotion, their courage and their faith in humanity, usually win the confidence and affection of mankind long before the truth for which they stand is apprehended, much less acted upon, by the great body of people.

This fact is conspicuously illustrated by Henry George. While steadily winning their way, his economic theories have not only been misunderstood and treated with indifference, but condemned as socialistic, revolutionary, and untrue. Nevertheless the man has ever been honored and beloved by all who knew him, and in his last and consummate act of self sacrifice he received an apotheosis such as has been accorded to but the rarest of men.

The intelligent and dispassionate study of such a leader, his purposes, his ideals, his convictions, his achievements, becomes a matter of supreme interest and profit, quite regardless of our attitude toward his theories, and the people of Newton are to be congratulated in that the opportunity to hear such a study of Mr. George will soon be granted them. Rev. M. C. Ayres, well known to all our citizens as the Editor of the Boston Daily Advertiser, will speak on Henry George and his new book "The Science of Political Economy," in the vestry of the Methodist church, Monday evening, April 11, under the auspices of the club.

The intelligence, sincerity and candor which characterize all of Mr. Ayres work will give unusual weight and authority to his remarks. He will not say on this pertinent and interesting subject, Mr. Ayres is not an advocate of the Single Tax doctrine, nor a believer in free trade as Henry George was, but will speak from the standpoint of one who appreciates Mr. George's extraordinary ability, high character, and the wonderful influence which the author of "Progress and Poverty" has obtained upon vast numbers of thoughtful people in all ranks of life.

PICKED UP.

It is whispered about the corridors at City Hall that licenses will all be renewed this year. Inholders, whose license simply serve as a cloak for carrying on a business in fruit and cigars on Sunday, which might just as well be limited to weekdays, are likely to be the first to find their privileges abridged, especially in view of the fact disclosed by the recent police investigation, that only one of the alleged waiting rooms in Wards One, Two and Three, holding a license to keep open on Sunday was complying with the letter of the law. Certain druggists are also said to be on the anxious seat. In this connection one high authority suggests that the city should have an unlimited number of prescriptions for the ardent to thirty souls on Sunday might well be compelled to take out a license. This druggist's license question has been labored with before by the city authority, but to very little purpose, and it remains to be seen if the united wisdom of the successor to the West Newton Lyceum is capable of reaching more satisfactory results. There are, it is estimated, druggists who abuse their privileges, but the fact remains that the great majority of Newton druggists conform to the law, and drawing the line under the present remarkable attitude requires the abilities of a very Daniel.

That new police station matter for Newton seems to be one of the perennial subjects of debate for the board of aldermen, and may soon usurp the place of that hoary chestnut of the debating clubs "resolved that capital punishment is unjustifiable." The order for the purchase of the old bank building has again been laid over, and it is hinted that this action was taken because the friends of the measure were unable to muster a sufficient number of votes to secure its passage.

Newton churches are proverbially up-to-date, a fact which was evidenced by the pronounced stand many of them took last Sunday in support of the President's Cuban policy. As usual Newton was in the lead in expressing itself on an important public matter.

Did you get April fooled? If this question is embarrassing you need not answer. And by the way the New York Journal's war news seems on the whole to belong to just this season of the year.

If President McKinley has seen any of those telegrams sent from Newton this week he can feel satisfied as to the opinion of its residents. An attempt was made at the board of a democratic meeting, Monday evening, to pass a resolution endorsing his position. It called forth some debate, but was finally defeated.

Building operations are reported to be quite brisk throughout the city. The amount of money expended on new houses annually in this city is said to equal, and in some cases, exceed the amount put out in any city of its size in the state.

The April holidays of the school children are nearing the end. However this week of rest in the schools has disclosed the teachers and their pupils, yet the mothers are glad it doesn't last any longer. Next Monday will see all the schools filled again and the scholars taking up their lessons once more with brighter spirits.

Among those many pleasant duties that fall to the happy lot of a police patrolman is the delivering of water bills. For the past week the officers in all of our wards have been spending several hours each day in this work, thus greatly reducing the city's bill for postage and envelopes.

There seems to be a difference in the mind of church going people (this of course means the majority of citizens) as to the proper name of this annual week of the Lenten season. A nomenclature committee has been made by the clergymen calling it Passion Week, while others in giving notices of their services call it Holy Week, naming last week as Passion Week. To say the least the reading of the notices printed side by side in a local paper is certainly confusing.

Newton Education Association.

There will be a meeting of the Newton Education Association at the chapel of the Channing church, Vernon street, Newton, Wednesday evening, April 13th, at 8 o'clock. This meeting will be in charge of the committee on manual training. Sloyd work will be explained and samples of work done in the Hyde school will be shown by Miss Edith A. Matteson, instructor.

This subject is one which interests all parents, especially at this time. The public are cordially invited to this meeting. At 7.30 there will be a business meeting of the association. A nominating committee to select officers for the ensuing year is to be chosen. All members are requested to be present at this meeting.

There is so much trouble coming into the world," said Lord Bellingbroke, "and so much more in going out of it, that it is hardly worth while to be here at all." If a man and a philosopher comes to this conclusion, what must be the natural conclusion of the thousands of suffering women who undergo untold torture in bringing their babes into the world?

Philosophy of this kind is based upon gross ignorance. The fact is, that there is no necessity for the severe pangs undergone by the average woman. If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the majority of women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can always be remedied. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sure, speedy and permanent cure for all disorders of this description. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic. It banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good."

"I suffered fourteen years," writes Mrs. Mary J. Stewart, of Box 45, Saratoga, Santa Clara Co., Cal., with female weakness, nervousness and general debility. I tried everything to no avail. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and "Golden Medical Discovery" cured me."

The names, addresses and photographs of hundreds of women cured by Dr. Pierce's medicines are printed by permission in the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It's free. For a paper-covered copy send in one-cent stamps to cover mailing only. French cloth binding 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Every woman needs a great medical book. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser fills this want. It contains over 1000 pages and nearly 500 illustrations.

THE DEBT LIMIT.

We are talking about building new school-houses in Newton, two new engine houses, buying the old bank building for a police station, and making a number of other extraordinary expenses, as if we had an unlimited fund to draw upon. All these things would have to come from outside of the regular appropriations, of course, and as the new Bigelow school would cost about $100,000, the engine houses $10,000 each, or $20,000, the police station probably $14,000, here is an expenditure of $134,000. The changes at City Hall and the Pierce school, which is being made over into a court and police station, will cost some $20,000, and several additions to school buildings in various parts of the city are urgently called for and would cost at least $20,000 more. This would make some $174,000, and then there should be a margin for unforeseen expenditures, which always come, so that we might please the extra sum needed this year at $200,000.

So far there is no difficulty and everything is encouraging as to the liberality of the city government and its readiness to provide what the citizens want.

But the trouble is that a careful study of the city's financial condition shows that we are within $42,000 of our debt limit, and the law is such that this limit can not be exceeded.

This is a rather surprising statement, in view of the expenditures that have been so freely demanded on all sides, but facts are generally discreditable things, especially those relating to debts and past expenditures.

Since we have only $42,000 to spend, there are two things that might be done. One for every department and every ward to make a grab and get all of this small sum that they can, and the other to keep the balance intact, in order to provide for any unforeseen emergencies that might arise, such as a fire in any of the city buildings, for instance. If this $42,000 is expended and a fire should occur, or a destructive flood such as have occurred in past years, or if war is declared and Newton was called on to contribute something, if one or any of these things should happen, and we had spent up to the last dollar of our debt limit, we should be in a very embarrassing situation.

We have lived rather rapidly in the past few years, with our new High school and other school buildings, our boulevards and street widenings, and our expenditures in other ways, all for the good of the city, yet the debt limit has got uncomfortably near, and it looks as though we should have to either retrench or else something unpleasant will happen.

As regards the new building for the Bigelow school, urgently as it is needed, and until as the old building is for further occupancy, it looks as though we should have to put up with it for several years more, with the help of what repairs can be squeezed out of that $42,000.

In fact before any new debts are authorized it might be well to secure a statement from the city treasurer, as to just how much of a margin there will be, when the expenses now authorized are paid, and improvements now under way are completed.

Possibly the city fathers argue that as at various times during the year some $50,000 will be paid on the city debt, they can anticipate that, as it would raise the limit to some $90,000, but it is not business-like to anticipate income so much in advance, and under the new charter we were promised a strictly business-like administration. The new enterprises talked of by the city government would take several times all the borrowing capacity the city will have this year, and it is certainly a rather curious and surprising condition of things.

HAVING had an April like March, we are now having a March like April, according to the law of compensations in our climate. It was the warmest March in our climate in the history of the weather bureau, which only goes back 28 years. The next warmest March was in 1871, when the mean temperature was 42 degrees. This year it was 43 degrees, and for seven days the temperature touched 60 and above. Snow storms in April are not generally of much account, but the one of Saturday night, and the one of Tuesday were quite respectable affairs, and the thermometer has gone below the freezing point every night since April came in. It is not believed that vegetation was far enough advanced to be much damaged, but the hopes of an early spring have been badly frostbitten the past week.

The removal of the grade crossings in the south side of the city is made necessary by the plans for street railway extensions, and the difficulty in getting permission from the railroad commissioners for crossings at grade. It is desired to extend a street railway up Centre street, and another street railway is desired to run through Oak Hill to West Roxbury. There are only four important crossings at present, Langley road and Centre street in Newton Centre, Walnut street and Boylston street at Newton Highlands. The estimated cost is $752,000 for removing these crossings, but a large number of new streets would probably be called for. In view of the financial condition of the city, it will be several years before the city treasury is in any condition to allow of such an undertaking, desirable as the improvement might be.

THE L. A. W. division for Massachusetts leads all the other states in applications and renewals for the first time within a year, and it is hoped that this year the division will secure at least second place. Every cyclist in Newton ought to join and they will find the small fee a paying investment, from the reductions they can secure. They will get the L. A. W. Bulletin every week free, which has much valuable information, and a new edition of the Massachusetts road book is promised this spring with all the routes brought up to date.

THE appeal for the Newton District Nursing Association is meeting with encouraging response, but still more contributions are needed to carry out the good work planned for, and it is hoped that all who can will contribute generously to the cause. An appeal in another column gives interesting facts about the need of such an association in Newton.

THE Newton Street Railway has refused the franchise Waltham recently granted it, for a location on Lexington street to the Waltham line, on account of the onerous conditions imposed. The Waltham aldermen will now offer it to the Lexington street railway company.

THE signs on Washington street to the effect that who enters here leaves all hope of damages behind are reminders that the street was put in order last year. If the signs were taken down, the taxpayers would carefully chip-in for all the expense involved.

Pi Eta Theatricals.

Newtonians should take much interest in the original burlesque to be presented in this city on Patriots' Day, April 19. The Pi Eta Society seems to be intimately connected with the Newtons in its interests, for very many of its members hail from Newton, and indeed many of our prominent citizens are graduates of this "Greek Letter Society."

By its undertakings of the past the society has shown itself to be one of the most active and enterprising organizations of the college, and to that quality are due the many successes which it has achieved in past years. The "Buccaneer," the "Alcayde," and "Fool's Gold" speak for themselves to those who have seen them; those who have not will soon have the privilege of seeing the Buccaneers reproduced on the professional stage.

"Spontania," as this year's play is called, is now almost ready for production; by careful training during the past few weeks it has gradually formed itself out of a terrible state of chaos into a well planned and well executed burlesque. It is a college burlesque in every sense of the word and is overflowing with wit and merriment from start to finish. The curtain is run up on a Harvard lecture room, in the midst of an interesting lecture on Hysteria, followed by a quick, dark change to the Kingdom of Spontania, a mythical island midway between Egypt and Greece. To this island, by means known only to comic opera, the Harvard professor goes and immediately causes trouble. The professor has written a history of the world and he finds the people of Spontania several hundred years behind the present time in history, and has considerable trouble in getting them to live according to what he has predicted for them in his history. This is the central plot and the story around which are drawn several counter-comedy plots.

The production is full of brand new scenic effects fresh from the brush, red fire, electric lights, etc., all of which assist wonderfully in making the play a success. There is plenty of life and action, and the story is rapidly told, while the spectacular effects and costumes are clever and elaborate. The jokes on the "war clouds," the Spanish-American situation and the battleship Maine incident are rich and pointed. The finale is in every sense a climax, and as the curtain falls the king roars to the skies in a cloud of red fire.

Some of the specialties which made a hit with the "under grads" who slid by the doorman and saw the rehearsal were a topical song called "We never stopped to think of what was coming," "Chlorinda," a coon song with a "cake walk" accompaniment, which will certainly make the biggest hit of all the negro melodies of the year, and a dance by a quartet of four pretty maids.

The society, by reason of having so many Newton boys among its members, made the experiment last year of electing this year, Newton is represented by Tom Nickerson of West Newton, formerly of Newton Centre, Arthur Hollis, son of ex Alderman Hollis of Newton, R. W. P. Brown, of ex Harvard Newton, and W. L. Leeson of Newton Centre and "Johnny" Ball of Newton Highlands. J. L. Knox and T. W. Redpath of Newtonville are on the executive staff.

ON BEACON HILL.

THE ILLUMINATION OF THE STATE HOUSE DOME—CITY SOLICITOR SLOCUM'S WORK—SENATOR HARWOOD'S TAXATION MEASURES—THE GYPSY MOTH APPROPRIATION.

Beacon Hill, April 6.

The engineering department of the state house is now busy devising a complete system of illuminating the dome of the Baldwin state house, to carry out the scheme of Miss Clement, who appeared before one of the committees a few days ago and stated that the idea first came to her when at the World's Fair. The scheme seems to be a good one, though there are some obstacles in the way of having the electric lights working all the year round, particularly in icy weather, when the dome is too slippery to permit the attendants to climb out upon it and change the bulbs which have burnt out. Another hearing was given Tuesday and a report is daily expected.

The house had a great debate on Monday over a bill to reduce the number of liquor licenses in Boston to one for every 1000 people instead of having one for every 500 as at present. The vote was in favor of the measure, 76 to 56. Of course Mr. Pickard voted yes, and Mr. Hayward was paired in favor. This is the only clearly advanced step in temperance legislation of the year, and it must be confessed that the path to statutory prohibition is a long one if the progress continues on this ratio. But the temperance cause would distinctly gain through such a law, for the police board, in order to meet the demand for licenses would have to mass them in the city proper, which even then would have no more, probably, than now, while the suburban districts would be relieved of their baleful presence.

Mr. Slocum can congratulate himself and the river valleys that after all that has been attempted by Senator Roberts of Chelsea, the scheme for a high level sewer can go in the lines which he has advocated. The house rules committee refused to admit the bill which Senator Roberts prepared, providing that the inquiry into the matter should be made by the state board of health, instead of by the metropolitan sewerage commission. Under the rule, the Roberts bill now goes over to the next general court, but long before that begins operations, the sewerage commission will have completed the preliminary work.

The indefatigable Newton city solicitor has put in good work in many directions this year. One of his latest appearances has been in opposition to the new Cambridge bridge, if Newton is to be compelled to pay a share of it. Another bridge bill which is to cause some debate is that for the rebuilding of the Malden bridge over the Mystic river, which, owing to the fact that Charlestown held both banks of the river for ferry purposes two hundred years ago, lies entirely in the limits of Boston. Those who dissent from the favorable report on the Cambridge bridge bill, as pay for the rebuilding do so on the ground that Middlesex county, which is doubtless greatly accommodated by the bridge, should meet a share of the expense. Of Newton since 1832, when he first started in the manufacture of hosiery, in a small way, near what is now Benis station.

He afterwards built a factory on the site now occupied by the Nonantum Worsted company. Chapman street, the building being a part of those now occupied by that company.

In 1881 he built his present factory on Morse street, and in 1883 he added the silk unit to his factory, and has been a very successful maker of underwear. In 1882 he wished to be relieved of a part of the responsibility and the Thomas Dalby Company was formed, and he filled the position of treasurer until a few months ago, when he withdrew, and his son-in-law, Mr. Smith, who had been secretary, was also made treasurer. Mr. Dalby was one of the largest stockholders, and his death, following so soon after that of Mr. Smith, is a great loss to the company.

According to his expressed wishes the business will be continued as heretofore, the company being firmly established and having a large circle of regular customers, and the principles he followed will be a guide to the new managers, who have grown up under his direction.

Mr. Dalby was born in Leicester, Eng., in 1824, and came to this country when a young man. His present large business has grown from small beginnings, but was built up by industry and honest methods to its present success.

lates the employment of minors in manufacturing and mercantile establishments has been reported favorably, with no changes which have not been agreed to by the gentlemen who drew them; the bill which codifies the tramway laws, is the biggest piece of patchwork which I have seen for a long time.

The printed bill submitted as a ground-work was used, to be sure, but many whole pages were cut out, many new pages interleaved, while there was scarcely a paragraph which did not have sentences added or eliminated. The whole scheme of state parental schools is struck out; with it went the seven trustees of such schools, and the idea of state control of county truant schools. With "county" substituted for state trustees, and so on, there would be difficulty in recognizing the original report or bill. If there is any virtue left in the measure, other than what was in the law before codified, certain members of the education committee have missed their mark. Of course Judge Kennedy, who objected to any change in the present system of county truant schools, will be pleased, but as I have before said, it will hardly do to judge all schools by the excellent one at North Chelmsford.

Mr. Hayward must be pleased that the legislature has agreed with his committee in favoring the full $200,000 this year for the gypsy moth committee. Work has already started up as a consequence of the appropriation.

Mr. Marden of Newton, cashier of the treasury department, has been having one of his busy days recently, paying off state employees. On pay day they form a line reaching outside the office and down the corridor, and the line not only contains young lady stenographers and clerks, watchmen and messengers, but dignified commissioners as well.

MANN.

Death of Thomas Dalby.

Newton people were much surprised to hear of the death of Mr. Thomas Dalby, which took place at the home of his daughter in Chicago on Monday. It was not generally known that he was seriously ill. He started for California the first of January, in accordance with his custom for the past nine years, but was taken ill in Chicago and remained five weeks with his daughter there. Then getting better he continued his journey. In California he had a relapse and his daughter went on and brought him back to Chicago, and Miss Carrie Dalby of Newton went on to meet him. He had stood the journey very well, but was taken worse soon after, and did not rally. The physicians said his disease was asthma of the heart.

The body has been brought on to Newton and the funeral services will be held at his late residence, 37 Morse street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at the Newton cemetery.

Mr. Dalby leaves a widow and five children, three of whom live in Newton, Thomas A. Dalby, Miss Carrie and Mrs. White. Mrs. Horne of Ohio and Mrs. Craig of Chicago. One daughter, Mrs. Smith, died about a year ago.

Mr. Dalby had resided in Newton for over forty years, and was well known and highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a business man of the old school, and noted for his strict honesty in all business dealings. He had been a resident of Newton since 1832, when he first started in the manufacture of hosiery, in a small way, near what is now Benis station.

He afterwards built a factory on the site now occupied by the Nonantum Worsted company. Chapman street, the building being a part of those now occupied by that company.

In 1881 he built his present factory on Morse street, and in 1883 he added the silk unit to his factory, and has been a very successful maker of underwear. In 1882 he wished to be relieved of a part of the responsibility and the Thomas Dalby Company was formed, and he filled the position of treasurer until a few months ago, when he withdrew, and his son-in-law, Mr. Smith, who had been secretary, was also made treasurer. Mr. Dalby was one of the largest stockholders, and his death, following so soon after that of Mr. Smith, is a great loss to the company.

According to his expressed wishes the business will be continued as heretofore, the company being firmly established and having a large circle of regular customers, and the principles he followed will be a guide to the new managers, who have grown up under his direction.

Mr. Dalby was born in Leicester, Eng., in 1824, and came to this country when a young man. His present large business has grown from small beginnings, but was built up by industry and honest methods to its present success.

SONG TO FOLLY.

I saw six eggs within a nest
And loved the sparrow as she flew,
Ah, Miss Folly, love is best!
I'll build a nest with you.

I saw the pollen from the pine
Go seeking up the windy hill
And thought its fate as hard as mine
Unless it had its will.

Why, Folly, every lovely flower
Is just a woman, too, and waits
Until the bee, the wind, the shower,
Shall bring their happy freight.

When all the world is full of spring,
And hymns, hymns, all, oh!
Is all the song the creatures sing
You shall not answer no.

—P. H. Savage in Chap Book.

PETRIFIED ARTICLES.

A Huge Tree That Is Slowly Sinking Into The Earth.

Warda and the surrounding country are noted for petrified articles of various kinds. I have on exhibition a petrified rock about 2 feet long and 1½ feet wide. It weighs 45 pounds and is without a doubt a shoulder blade of a mastodon. It plainly shows the socket in which the bone of the leg revolves. It was found several years ago by a party while fishing in the bed of the Colorado river. Within three-quarters of a mile from Warda there is a petrified tree, supposed to have been a post oak. It is about 20 feet long, and at the thick end of the trunk it is about 2 feet in diameter, while at the top it is over a foot in diameter. When first observed, about 18 years ago, about half of its diameter was above ground, but owing to its great weight it is slowly but constantly sinking. All around in this part of the country a person can find specimens of petrified wood of many varieties.

The writer has observed stumps and parts of stumps plainly showing traces where they had once been burned, and now they are solid rock. It seems as though untold quantities of petrified wood could be found under the ground, for if a person will make an examination of the banks of the local creeks, gullies and ravines he can find pieces of petrified wood sticking out of the banks on every side. The writer in examining some specimens in the surrounding creeks found several pieces of petrified wood protruding from the banks, which, although petrified, was so brittle that it could be broken to pieces with the hand. The cause of this appears to be a lack of some kind of acid necessary in the course of petrification to make it solid. One of the most curious and at the same time one of the most perfect specimens that the writer has observed is what is supposed to be a petrified stomach. It plainly shows a quantity of petrified acorns and other ingredients which cannot now be distinguished. It is supposed to be the stomach of a hog or some other prehistoric herbivorous animal. The writer has also noticed two other very beautiful specimens, the one being a prehistoric shell, known by the Latin name of Nautilus lineatus, and the other a common pear.—Galveston News.

Wonderfully Good Sight.

The Duchess of X—once went to Greenwich to see the marvels of the observatory. It was a lovely night, and for the fair duchess' benefit the great telescope was duly leveled at the dazzling field of stars.

"What is that star?" she said, pointing to a very bright one.

"Oh, that's Aldebaran, a star of the first magnitude."

"Is it very far off?" asked her grace.

"About six or seven light years, your grace."

"What is a light year?"

"Merely an expression which one uses to convey an idea of the distance which light travels in a year. Roughly speaking, light travels at the rate of 190,000 miles in a second, and there are about 31,000,536 seconds in a year. In one year, therefore, light travels about 6,901,840,000 miles. The expression 'light year' includes these figures."

"And is that star all those millions of miles away?"

"Yes, your grace, as nearly as we can calculate."

"Then, all I can say," remarked the duchess, "is that you must have wonderfully good eyes to make out that star's name at that distance, even with this big telescope. It really most marvelous!"—London Tit-Bits.

Du Maurier and Keene.

With all my admiration for Leech it was at the feet of Charles Keene that I found myself sitting, besides which we were much together in those days, talking endless shop, taking long walks, riding side by side on the knifeboards of omnibuses, dining at cheap restaurants, making music at each other's studios. His personal charm was great, as great in his way as Leech's. He was democratic and so was I, as one is bound to be when one is impecunious and the world is one's oyster to open with the fragile point of a lead pencil. His Bohemian world was mine, and I found it a very good world and very much to my taste—a clear, honest, wholesome, innocent, intellectual and most industrious British Bohemia, with lots of tobacco, lots of good music, plenty of talk about literature and art and not too much vitriol or drink. Many of its denizens that have become Royal Academicians or have risen to fame in other ways; some have had to take a back seat in life; surprisingly few have gone to the bad.—George du Maurier in Harper's Magazine.

Nicotine.

An English scientist has made some interesting experiments as to the effect of nicotine upon the lungs and heart. He has arrived at the conclusion that a man of easy going nature can smoke a great deal without much injury to himself, while a nervous man will damage his health seriously by smoking much. A man who takes plenty of exercise in the open air may smoke with impunity, while he who sits much at a desk must beware of the fatal fascinations of "My Lady Nicotine."

In the Rhetoric Class.

"Miss Kerliff, in the sentence 'Daniel Webster stood there like a great oak tree' point out the idea the author was trying to convey. In what respect could Daniel Webster be said to resemble a 'great oak tree'?"

"Well, he might have been rooted to the spot."—Chicago Tribune.

"Tiger eye is a peculiar crystallization of quartz. Formerly very rare and costly, large deposits have been found in the western states of America and in South Africa, so that many common articles are now made of it."

Louis XVI might have escaped from France had he not delayed on the journey to feast on pigs' feet.

THE JOKE WENT ASTRAY.

And a Couple of Innocents Endured All the Suffering In Consequence.

We had amused ourselves at the expense of a certain commercial traveler staying at our hotel, and in return the traveler endeavored to play a trick on us.

It happened that when we struck the hotel it was so full that we had to engage rooms on the second floor. There were four of us, so we engaged rooms Nos. 95 and 96, with the proviso that we should have choice of double bedded rooms on the first floor as soon as they were empty. On the day of revenge our goods and chattels were moved down to the first floor, rooms Nos. 35 and 36. And that night a strange thing happened. We were sitting quietly at supper when we heard a violent ringing of about ten bells and a yelling and shouting from up stairs. Our party of four gazed at each other inquiringly, but no body volunteered an explanation.

A commercial traveler sat in the room, and he looked across at us with a startled air and turned pale. We went out to reconnoiter.

There was a huge gouty old gentleman in pyjamas at the head of the stairs, and he was shouting for the manager. He had turned into a bed that was crammed full with lumps of coal and brushes and crockery and combs and broken biscuits. The number of his room was 96. While he was telling his tale there was some commotion in 95. The door flew open, and a couple of men rushed out, using very discreditable language. They had a similar story to tell and similar complaints to make. It was disgraceful, intolerable. So it was for one of the best hotels in the provinces.

Of course the manager called me aside and blamed me for everything. I protested my innocence, but I don't think he believed me until the chambermaid put in a word or two.

"It wasn't Mr. Roberts' party, sir. It was Mr. Fred (the commercial traveler). I saw him coming in and out of the rooms, and I looked in afterward, but couldn't see anything wrong."

Poor bagman! He had meditated a revenge deed and dire, but it had missed fire. I will draw a veil over what the manager said to him and another over what the traveler said to us. But it is a great relief in the morning, with the gouty old gentleman and to echo his sentiments—"Life of Arthur Roberts."

The Great Pie Question.

Once heard talked over between two respectable ladies, says Colonel T. W. Higginson in The Atlantic, some disrespectful remarks of mine on the American pie. I had said in a lecture that the average pie of the American railway station was "something very white and indigestible at the top, very moist and indigestible at the bottom and with untold horrors in the middle." I had given this lecture at Fall River, Mass., and was returning by way of the steamboat to Providence, when I heard one of my neighbors ask the other if she heard the lecture.

"No," she answered, "I didn't. But Miss Jones, she came home that night, and she flung her hood right down on the table and says she, 'There, says she, 'Mr. Jones, I'm never going to have another of them mince pies in the house just so long as I live,' says she. 'There was Sammy,' says she, 'he was sick all last night, and I do believe it was nothing in all the world but just them mince pies,' says she."

"Well," said the other lady, a slow, deliberate personage, "I do suppose that their kind of concomitants ain't good things."

Here the conversation closed, but Mr. Weller did not feel more gratified when he heard the Lath footmen call a "boiled leg of mutton a swarty" and wondered what they would call a roast one than I when my poor stock of phrases was re-enforced by this unexpected polysyllable. Instead of wasting so many words to describe an American railway pie I should have described it more tersely as a "concomitant."

Genius and Soap.

There was a sign nailed to the door of the business office which attracted general attention, and yet at a casual glance there did not appear to be anything remarkable about it. It simply said:

"WANTED.—A good business poet; good salary to the right party. Apply within."

"The sign is all right," explained the manager. "We want just what it says—a good business poet—none of your geniuses, but a fellow with grit and get up in his composition."

"And what do you want with him?" he was asked.

"A good deal," replied the manager. "We're manufacturing a new brand of soap, and to compete with others we've got to have poetical advertisements that will catch the public ear. The last poet we employed was a dreamer and wrote odes to our soap which were too classic to be popular. What we really need are brisk, breezy, catchy couplets like this:

"There's life and hope
In Johnson's soap.
Just give it rope, etc."

"We've had 70 applications for the place this morning, but the right man has not arrived yet. We'll get him, however, before the day's over."—Atlanta Constitution.

The Language of Animals.

"It just occurs to me," said Mr. Glimby, "that the language of animals depends not upon where they were born, but upon their kind. All of a kind speak in the same tongue, no matter where they come from. Thus, strolling down a South street wharf the other day, as I love to do, to look at the ships, I was barked at by a dog standing on the deck of a Norwegian ship. And this dog did not bark at me in Norwegian, but in its own universal dog language, which I could readily understand."

"And it was certainly an agreeable sound. It brought the far north country near and made it seem homelike. It made the whole world home, for it brought to me the fact that nature and the lower animals speak to us in familiar tones everywhere. It is only the tongue of man that is confused."—New York Sun.

Nursery Rhymes.

The old, merry rhyme "Girls and boys come out to play" is said to date back to the time of Charles II, in whose reign "Lucy Locks, lost her pocket" is supposed to have had its origin. "Sing a song of sixpence" is traced back to the sixteenth century. "Lusty cat, pussy cat, where have you been?" is of the Elizabethan period. "Little Jack Horner" is probably as old, and "London bridge is broken down" is of unknown antiquity.

Great Actress.—No, but they will after they see me.—Detroit Journal.

VISIONS OF SLEEP.

EVENTS FORESHADOWED AND RECALLED IN DREAMS.

How a Bank Clerk Found the Explanation of a Small Deficit—The Assassination of Mr. Percival Was Vividly Foretold in a Dream.

The peculiar condition of the mind in dreaming, though doubtless determined by certain mental laws, appears not to be traceable to any laws which are at present fully understood. Dreams of the commoner kinds, however, seem to be referable to some of our waking states and follow the train of thought and feeling with which we have been previously occupied. Recent events and recent mental emotions mingle into a continuous series or, combined with old events, take possession of us when asleep and produce impressions, which, though often fantastically unreal, are manifestly occasioned by some reality which had antecedently affected us.

Among the most curious and unaccountable of dreams are those consisting of the revival of old associations, respecting things which had entirely passed out of the memory, and which seemed to have been forgotten. Dr. Abercrombie relates an instance which came under his knowledge. A gentleman was at the time connected with one of the principal banks in Glasgow and was at his place at the teller's table, where money is paid, when a person entered demanding payment of a sum of £3. There were several people waiting who were in turn entitled to be attended before him, but he was so anxious to get the money, that he was impatient and rather noisy, and, being a remarkable stammerer, he became so annoying that another gentleman requested the teller to pay him his money and get rid of him. He did so accordingly, but with an expression of impatience at being obliged to attend to him before his turn, and thought no more of the transaction.

At the end of the year, which was eight or nine months afterward, the books of the bank could not be made to balance. Let's settle it according to custom. I will abide by it if you will, and, both agreeing, they left it to Corn to say what the custom was. Dolph scratched his head, but finally ruefully said, "Well, I don't exactly like that. So far as I am concerned I don't like to abide by the custom, for the custom is that whenever two fellows want a chattel mortgage drawn they come in here, and when the work is done they usually get into a quarrel as to who should pay for it."—Kansas City Journal.

IN MEMORY OF ONE CORN.

He Was a Western Lawyer Who Dearly Loved a Joke.

Among the early day settlers of Smith county, of whom Judge Dick Pickler wrote in his Christmas reminiscences, was Attorney Dolph Corn, who has been dead for a score of years. Corn was a splendid lawyer, but almost a failure in the practice. He knew no more the value of money than a child. He loved his family, and so long as they were happy and contented he was beyond the reach of care. He was bubbling over with humor and simply could not be serious for a moment. He was willing to lose a case at any time rather than forego the pleasure of amusing his friends with a witticism.

Mr. Corn once ran for county attorney and held joint debates with his opponent. At one of their meetings this opponent hinted broadly at one of Mr. Corn's weaknesses as follows: "If any man here to-night can say I ever took fees on both sides of a case like some one I could name, let him now stand up and say so. If any one can say I ever swindled a client or that I have ever been guilty of a dishonest action, let him now say so."

Then it came Mr. Corn's turn, and he responded as follows: "It is perhaps true that I have taken fees on both sides of a case, and it is a source of great regret that some other lawyer does not move into the country, so I won't have to attend to both sides. Gentlemen, it may also be true that you know something of me that would not sound well if told. If such is the case, I want to say that you will do me a kindness to keep quiet about it until after the election is over."

This story of the election so struck the humor of the voters that Mr. Corn carried the township by a practically unanimous vote. "On one occasion," says Judge Pickler, "two men came in Corn's office and had him make out a chattel mortgage, and then the old question arose as to who should pay for it. One said, 'You get the mortgage and should pay for what you get.' The other said: 'You was to give the mortgage. How could you deliver it before it was executed?' Finally one said, 'Let's settle it according to custom. I will abide by it if you will, and, both agreeing, they left it to Corn to say what the custom was. Dolph scratched his head, but finally ruefully said, 'Well, I don't exactly like that. So far as I am concerned I don't like to abide by the custom, for the custom is that whenever two fellows want a chattel mortgage drawn they come in here, and when the work is done they usually get into a quarrel as to who should pay for it.'—Kansas City Journal.

The Wonderful Yogi.

Dr. Peebles tells some tall, strong stories of wonderful yogis in The Humanitarian.

One of these yogis came one day to surprise Peebles. He did. The yogi said he could hypnotize an inanimate object. "Make the book lying on that stand move," said the incredulous western man. "Pointing his long, bony finger to it, he exclaimed: 'Come! Come!' The stand trembled; the book fell upon the floor and slid to his feet."

"While in Madjura," the good doctor goes on, "I spent considerable time in casting out demons—that is, in demagnetizing and dispossessing those hypnotically influenced by the ignorant, demoniac denizens of the invisible regions, known, among other names, as pitris, bhutas, manes, pisichas, demons, devas, etc. Certain eminent physicians conclude that the majority of the insane are in some way the subject of hypnotism, of obsessing demons."

The yogis are queer ducks. If you want to be one, you get into a quiet place and fix the thought on the point of the nose ten minutes, then on the bridge of the nose ten minutes. Then close the ears with the middle fingers, pronouncing audibly 12,000 times the sacred syllable "om," or put the left ankle on the right side of the chest, and say, "Now I can move any object in this room by my will." Reflecting a few moments, I said, "Command those peacock plumes up there to come to you." Focusing his thought, his will, upon them, they leaped at his bidding from the case and, sailing around the room, fell at his feet. Other objects were moved in a similar manner. This was genuine white magic.—Humanitarian.

Hocus Pocus and That Sort of Thing.

I saw a Hindoo out in the open street take three good sized balls, larger and heavier than hens' eggs, and commence tossing them up in the air, catching them as they returned. Soon his hands were motionless, but the balls kept ascending and, so far as I know, are ascending still. They did not return. Were they dematerialized by some invisible psychic power? Such is my opinion.

During my stay in Madras there came down from a mountain a genuine psychic and seer. He was truly a venerable mystic. In a bungalow on a bright sunny day, 3 o'clock p. m., a dozen present, this old yogi burned incense, repeated some mantras and said in substance, "Now I can move any object in this room by my will." Reflecting a few moments, I said, "Command those peacock plumes up there to come to you." Focusing his thought, his will, upon them, they leaped at his bidding from the case and, sailing around the room, fell at his feet. Other objects were moved in a similar manner. This was genuine white magic.—Humanitarian.

Westminster Abbey Customs.

Burial in Westminster abbey is not, of course, a question of money, but there are certain fees charged for interment within that ancient pile. Formerly the fees amounted to £150 or £160. Dean Stanley introduced many reforms in the scale of charges, with the result that the maximum cost is now £114 8s. 2d. It may, however, be £20 less.

The variations in the cost arise in connection with the contribution demanded for the fabric fund, which is £20 or £30 or £40, according to the place of interment. Other items in the bill are £34 2s. 2d. for fees to the dean, canons, choir and vergers and £31 2s. on account of silk scarfs, hatbands and gloves to the clergy, choir and vergers, which were formerly provided by the undertaker and charged in his account.—Westminster Gazette.

Eating Holes in Glass.

Here is the plan pursued by an optician when he wishes to bore holes in glass. A drill bore heated to a white heat is dipped into quicksilver, whereby it is excellently hardened and sharpened by grinding on a whetstone. If the drill thus prepared is moistened with a saturated solution of camphor and oil of turpentine and the bore hole is kept rather moist, glass may be drilled like wood.—New York Times.

Those who are compelled by us hate us as if they hated themselves, while those who are persecuted by us love us as if they had received a favor.—Xenophon's "Anabasis."

The annual rainfall in Hawaii is so great that if the rain fell all at once it would submerge all the land under 12 feet of water.

INDIANS FURNISH ARGUMENT

Are the Good Qualities of Ability Industry and Conduct of Value to the State?

I have been greatly interested in examining a paper kindly sent me by a friend, entitled, "The Red Men, His Present and Future," published at the Indian industrial school, Carlisle, Pa., containing a report of the school, to the committee of Indian affairs, for the last quarter of the year 1897. On the last page is a table containing 68 names of different tribes, with the necessary statistics concerning the Indian youths from each tribe. The table gives data concerning 237 girls, and 263 boys, who were out at service in homes and on farms, together with their rating as to ability, industry and conduct. They are classed as excellent, good, fair, bad. Of the latter class there are but three, all boys. Of the 237 girls, over 12 per cent, and of the 263 boys less than nine per cent are marked excellent in ability. In industry 16 per cent, of girls, and 10 per cent, of boys receive the same mark, while in conduct the highest credit mark gives 30 per cent, to the girls, and 10 per cent, to the boys.

This result need not seem surprising as far as industry and behavior are concerned, for in representatives of a savage nation in which the women are required by long custom to perform all the work while the men give attention to hunting and war, such a result would be but natural. It is difficult, however, to account for the 25 per cent, more of "excellent" ability in the girls than in the boys. The question naturally presents itself, are these qualities, ability, industry, good conduct, of value in a state, or nation? Are they requisite to a good government? And yet should these same young Indians of both sexes, become citizens of the United States, those having the lowest record of these necessary qualifications, be admitted to full citizenship, and have a vote in shaping the affairs of government, while those having the higher percentage, through no fault of their own, must rank in political privileges with foreigners, paupers, lunatics, idiots, criminals and wild Indians. Is it right? Is it wise? Many of them, in their own tribe, could sit in the councils of their nation, but under this constitutional government founded on the declared principles that "All laws derive their just power from the consent of the governed," and "that taxation without representation is tyranny," they would be debased and degraded, because they are "nothing but women." E. C. Clifford.

Suffrage and Office-Holding.

At the recent hearing on Woman Suffrage, Mrs. Arthur Gilman, of Radcliffe College, said: "With suffrage must inevitably come the holding of office. We must be mayors, and senators, and governors; and then who will take care of our homes and children?"

Did Mrs. Gilman ever know a man to be made a mayor, a senator, or a governor without his own consent? A man whose business duties are incompatible with the cares of office does not become a candidate. A woman would be no more compelled to be a senator because she had full suffrage, or a mayor because she had municipal suffrage, than she is now compelled to become a member of the school board because she has the school vote.

Those estimable ladies who fear that if women could vote they should be torn from their homes and installed in gubernatorial chairs against their will, should take comfort from a little story that is now going the rounds of the papers. The governor of a Southern State, a man not noted for piety, met an old negro who was a strong believer in the doctrine of election and predestination. The governor asked him if he thought that he (the governor) was elected to be saved. The old man answered cautiously, "Well, sah, I neber heard yet of any man being elected dat wasn't a candidate!"

Mrs. Gilman told of a distinguished man who met a pretty child on Boston Common, and asked the nurse, "Where the child is that?" The nurse answered, "Why, sir, it is your own; and I live in your house and take care of it." Mrs. Gilman asked, "Will it be possible, when women vote, for some woman to meet her own child on the Common and not recognize it?" Those stories of exceeding absent-mindedness are often told of some profound scholar than of the statesman, who has to cultivate the gift of remembering faces. The alleged incident therefore is not so much an argument against letting them go to Radcliffe College, and immerse themselves in Greek and Hebrew. Thirty years ago it would have served very prettily to adorn an address against collegiate education for girls.

Alice Stone Blackwell.

More Testimony From Colorado.

A member of the Political Equality Club of Poplar Ridge, N. Y., wrote to her cousin, John H. Allen, A. M., superintendent of city schools, Canon City, Col., asking him to give to her club his observations on the practical working of woman suffrage. He wrote:

I esteem it an honor to give you the information you desire. I write not from a local or provincial point of view but from a broad knowledge of woman suffrage in Wyoming and Colorado.

All the political parties are more careful to put up honorable, competent men for office, because they know a woman, as a rule, will vote only for a clean man and a man suitable for the office.

Instead of profanity, low talk, etc., at the polls, they are now decent and orderly on account of the refining influence of the presence of women.

Of the nominees, a much larger percent, of the best are elected, because a woman's conscience, generally speaking, has more influence on her politics than a man's has on his.

By woman suffrage moral questions are advanced; for instance, the temperance question. We have voted against out of Canon City. I am satisfied that we could not have done it without woman suffrage.

It is no way "takes a woman out of her sphere," nor does it in any sense detract from womanly graces. Last Tuesday my wife went to the polls and voted, and so far as I can judge, was just as much of a lady afterwards as before.

THE ENTERTAINMENT CLUB.

SECOND IN THE SERIES OF THE SEASON'S PERFORMANCES GIVEN IN THE CHANNING CHURCH PARLORS, WEDNESDAY EVENING—TWO BRIGHT COMEDIES ENJOYED BY A LARGE AUDIENCE.

With the successful production of those very merry comedies "Per Telephone" and "Mr. Bob" in the Channing church parlors, Wednesday evening, the Entertainment Club may be said to have added to its list of triumphs, and delighted a large audience of admirers. The plays were perhaps the best that could have been chosen, and that the actors fully appreciated the possibilities of their parts was clearly noticeable.

Both pieces were given under the personal direction of Mr. Clifford A. Bentley, who is certainly deserving of considerable credit for their smoothness. The stage was in charge of Mr. Henry Emery to whose efforts a large portion of the success is due.

The casts were made up of some of the best talent that the club possesses, and the honors should be evenly bestowed.

In "Per Telephone" Miss Letitia Mason, as Nan Cuzzin, was particularly pleasing, and by the reading of her lines showed the result of careful study. Miss Alice L. Mandell, as Mary Halcome, was equally good and won a generous share of the applause. Miss Elizabeth Calloway, as Nora, captivated the audience with her typical make-up and brogue, and her fear of the telephone was so naturally portrayed that the audience felt quite in sympathy, although laughing at her discomfort.

Mr. John Allen, as Guy Harling, was seen to good advantage, and his work made a very favorable impression. Mr. Frank H. Burt, as Ned Austin, handled this difficult part in a most satisfactory manner. As the lover of Miss Halcome he was earnest and manly, and his work was perhaps the best in this line.

In "Mr. Bob" the ladies' parts were in most competent hands. Miss Eudora Daniels, as Rebecca Luke, made a most charming old lady, though her love for cats did not seem to meet the approval of her friends. Miss Alice E. Davis, as Katherine Rogers, and Miss Fricilla Alden, as Marion Bryant, presented their parts with perfect ease, and in such a manner as to meet the hearty appreciation of the audience.

Miss Florence W. Hills, as Patty, made a most convincing young maid, and her comical manner was quite fetching. Mr. Ralph W. Angier portrayed the part of Philip Rayson with a spirit and dash that made his character one of the most attractive of the male parts. Porter E. Brown, as Mr. Robert Brown, kept the audience in continual mirth with his humorous speeches and clever play.

Mr. George H. Daniels, as Jenkins the hatter, brought out the best point of this part and acquitted himself admirably. The music for the evening was furnished by the Newton Mandolin and Guitar Club.

At the conclusion of the play the performers, and those who assisted in the plays, together with several guests, were entertained in the supper room. Informal remarks were made by different members.

Americans are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 6000 patents, or more than one-third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering. J. W. Vangor, of Oakton, Ky., says: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family for several years, and find it to be the best medicine I ever used for colic, cholera, stomach and bowels. For sale by E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; Lacroix & Genest, Nonantum; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; J. H. Green, Newton Highlands.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE.—Stuart Robson follows Mr. Bell at the Tremont on the 11th, when Mr. Thomas' latest work, "The Jackline," will have its first representation in Boston. This play was suggested by O'Neil's popular story of the same title, and is described as an ideal pastoral comedy of life in the mountains of North Carolina, a heretofore dramatically unexplored region. The harmonious blending of the efforts of these two prominent American writers has created an American drama that is said to be of exceptional character. We are told that, says Mr. Robson, previous efforts were perfected with such subtle appreciation, and that it is a portrait entirely worthy of the veteran actor that he is. From all accounts, both play and actor have scored a signal success wherever they have been seen in conjunction. Mr. Robson's engagement is for two weeks only.

Those Dreadful Sores

They Continued to Spread in Spite of Treatment but Now They are Healed—A Wonderful Work.

"For many years I have been a great sufferer with varicose veins on one of my limbs. My foot and limb became dreadfully swollen. When I stood up I could feel the blood rushing down the veins of this limb. One day I accidentally hit my foot against some object and a sore broke out which continued to spread and was exceedingly painful. I concluded I needed a blood purifier and I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. In a short time those dreadful sores which had caused me so much suffering, began to heal. I kept on faithfully with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time my limb was completely healed and the sores gave me no more pain. I cannot be too thankful for the wonderful work Hood's Sarsaparilla, has done for me." MRS. A. E. GILSON, Hartland, Vermont.

An elderly lady living at Fordham Heights, a part of New York City, and who was known to be a warm advocate of Ripans Tabules for any case of liver trouble or indigestion, said to a reporter who visited her for the purpose of learning the particulars of her case: "I had always employed a physician and did so on the last occasion I had for one, but at that time obtained no beneficial results. I had never had any faith in patent medicines, but having seen Ripans Tabules recommended very highly in the New York Herald, I concluded to give them a trial, and I found they were just what my case demanded. I have never employed a physician since, and that means a saving of $2 a call. A dollar's worth of lasts me a month, and I would not be without them now if it were my last dollar." At the time of this interview there were present two daughters who specially objected to their mother giving a testimonial which should parade her name in the newspapers, but to this the elderly lady argued: "There may be other cases just like mine, and I am sure I take great pleasure in recommending the tablets to anyone affected as I was. If the telling about my case in the papers enables some other person similarly affected to be as greatly benefited as I have been, I see no objection." And the daughters, familiar with her case and knowing how earnestly she felt about the benefit she had received from Ripans Tabules, decided that their mother was quite right.

SUICIDE AT NEWTON CENTRE.

MR. JOHN DOBBIE, A DRY GOODS MERCHANT OF THAT PLACE, FOUND HANGING IN THE BASEMENT OF HIS STORE.

Mr. John Dobbie, 45 years old, ended his life, yesterday afternoon by hanging himself in the basement of his store in Bray block on Institution avenue.

It is thought that Mr. Dobbie committed suicide shortly after noon, though the body was not discovered until about 3 o'clock. Just before that time his wife called at the store to obtain from her husband a ticket book to Boston.

On being informed by the clerks that he was down stairs she descended to the basement and was horrified to find his body suspended from a waste pipe attached to one of the rafters. Help was summoned and the body was cut down by Dr. West.

The physician found that life had been extinct for some time. Medical Examiner Meade of Watertown was telephoned for and viewed the remains.

Mr. Dobbie had been a resident of Langley road for several years. He was for many years connected with the firm of Hogg, Brown & Taylor of Boston. Last September he purchased the dry goods house formerly located at the corner of Forest and Chester streets, and moved a short distance up the street, and was for many years the residence of the Whittemore family.

His suicide is supposed to have been caused by his despondency over business affairs. Trade had been quite dull, and of late he had been heard to express himself as discouraged.

Mr. Dobbie had no children, and his home life had been unusually happy. He was a member of Home Lodge, No. 108, I. O. O. F., and of Garden City Encampment 82, I. O. O. F. At the 25th anniversary celebration of the former organization in Newton Highlands, Tuesday night, he was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

He made a fortune of over a million which was later at swept away, through an unsuccessful deal growing out of Sherman's march to the sea. He was an expert in the cotton business and was the oldest cotton speculator and merchant in Boston. He was a member of the famous Hancock family, of which John Hancock was a member. ## SOUTH SIDE GRADE CROSSINGS.

PLANS FOR ABOLISHING THEM ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE CITY.

Plans for the abolition of grade crossings on the circuit line of the Boston & Albany Railroad on the south side of Newton have been made by engineer H. D. Wood of Newton, and presented to the city government. He considered Newton Centre, Newton Highlands and Chestnut Hill, leaving out the crossings at Newton Lower Falls and Newton Upper Falls. In the section considered there are ten crossings, eight of the number being at grade. Langley road, Centre, Walnut and Boylston streets are all main thoroughfares. Institution avenue and Cypress street he recommends being considered together. They are overhead crossings.

The grade of Institution avenue is about 8 per cent, and therefore the tracks cannot be raised at this point. At Langley road the grade is 5.3 per cent, and prohibits a depression of the street. At the Walnut street crossing there is a steep rise in the grade of the tracks from the west, which prohibits the depression of the street level or the raising of the tracks without considerable damage to property in the square.

In view of all these facts, he recommends that the tracks be depressed. At Langley road the cut would be 9.12 feet and the grade of the street would be raised five feet, and the old grade be reestablished at Beacon street.

A question of stations is a complex one. If the tracks are moved ten feet toward the south at Newton Centre the present station can be utilized by placing platforms between the station and the tracks. At the Centre street crossing the depression would be about 5.8, which is about one foot above the high level of Crystal Lake, Paul and South Meadow brooks would have to be lowered, but the question of drainage can be satisfactorily adjusted.

At Newton Highlands the tracks would be depressed 11.8, and the station treated as at Newton Centre. The proposed changes entail no damages in Lincoln street. The crossing at Rogers street is to be abolished in favor of a new street to be cut through Lake avenue to Centre street. The plans call for the closing of Cook street and the extension of the depression about 700 feet below this crossing.

At Boylston street it is proposed to depress the tracks 52 feet, and raise the street about ten feet. It will touch grade again at Hartford and Centre streets. Quite extensive land damages are anticipated in Hartford street, and much difficulty in the matter of drainage. It is recommended that Floral avenue be turned into Centre street instead of into Boylston street. The proposed depression of the tracks is about a mile and a half in length. There is little ledge work, and little retaining wall necessary. It is expected that the work will be easy to construct, and temporary tracks can be laid upon the level without much trouble. The principal retaining wall will be required at Albany avenue, Newton Centre. The bridge at Cypress street can be lowered four or five feet, and at Institution avenue two feet. The engineer recommends taking the entire triangle at Newton Centre bounded by Station road, Beacon and Union streets, and moving the Circuit Block, as such a plan would be the most satisfactory way of settling the matter.

Estimated cost of work by B. & A. R. R. $495,000
Estimated cost by City 257,000
Total $752,000

Of this under the general act, relating to separation of grade crossings, the share of the city to pay in final settlement would be ten per cent.

Cost of the city 87,500
Commonwealth pays twenty-five per cent. 437,500
Total 525,000

day afternoon for an incipient blaze in a chamber in the second story of Mr. Bever-fire was caused by the crossing of electric wires on a gas jet, causing an explosion and igniting the woodwork. Electricians were

—David A. Haley and his boisterous actions in the square about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, was the cause of considerable excitement, which attracted a crowd of over 200 people. Haley left the West End corner at Park street and was walking along Washington street, near the junction of Centre street, when he slipped and fell.
John Wheeler and two companions, who were passing at the time, assisted him to his feet. Naturally enough they quired if he was hurt, whereupon Haley without any reason struck Wheeler and one of his friends a powerful blow in the face.
Wheeler was livid with anger, and for a time
there was a lively mix-up between Haley and Wheeler. The latter's companions took to their heels at the appearance of Mounted Patrolmen McAleer and Compton. The officers interfered and placed both Haley and Wheeler under arrest, charged with disturbing the peace and drunkenness. In court yesterday morning before Judge Kennedy Wheeler pleaded guilty. On the first count he was fined $5 and on the second
he was fined $5 and on the second the case was placed on file. Haley was

—The Newton Minstrel Company presented a first class entertainment amused
a large audience of friends and admirers in Armory hall last evening. The affair took the form of a concert and dance, and was thoroughly enjoyed by over 300. The first part was a minstrel circle. Opening with an introductory overture the following numbers were rendered and made up the first part: 1. "Don't mention her Name,"
J. McLaughlin; 2. "I'll Make that Black Girl Mine," W. O'Neil; 3. "Let By-gones songs were especially well given, and the audience showed its thorough appreciation of the actors' work by frequent applause.

Local hits were plentiful and caused no end of mirth. The second part was equal in excellence, and well received. Those who contributed were E. C. Ward, baritone solo-

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY WINS.

The most interesting event in the state legislature, this week, was the defeat of the telephone bill on Monday, by the close vote of 77 to 84, not including pairs. The telephone people had evidently made good use of their time since the bill was introduced. The outline of the situation was given by Mr. Mead of Lexington, who closed the debate. He said he had used a democratic paper to help him on this bill because no metropolitan republican paper would support it as strongly as he wished. A tremendous social and corporation pressure has been put upon the House to make members vote against the bill. The New York companies are organized to evade our anti-stock watering laws and issue stock at par, which they cannot do in this state. The American Bell telephone is the head of the combination. Mr. Addicks of Delaware used it as a pattern for his operations with gas companies. This bill is really in the interest of the republican party, for the corporations ought not to have such immense power against the mass of the people. Something must be done to improve the relations of labor and capital, or the republican party will be buried out of sight in 1900. Special agents from Worcester, Springfield and all over the state are here against the bill. Solicitations from owners of stock and their friends beset the members. The amendments were not friendly. Telegraph companies were not included because it was desired to eliminate their opposition. Better take one thing at a time.

This treatment of the gas and telephone business by the present legislature will probably prove troublesome for the Republican party as it lends significance to the charge that it is too much under the control of rich corporations, and as for the telephone company, the bill was such a moderate one, that it is a matter for surprise that it labored so hard to defeat it. More radical action will probably be proposed next time, and public sentiment will be so strong that the lobby will not be able to defeat it.

THE DEBT LIMIT.

In reply to the article of last week, in regard to the city's being within $42,000 of the debt limit, it is urged that some $50,000 of debts will be paid off at different times during the year, which will raise the limit to about $100,000, and that the assessors can be depended on to increase the city's valuation sufficiently to give us some $30,000 more.

In regard to this latter, however, at the rate the city is now going, there will be enough extra appropriations to take that up, so that it might as well be left out of consideration. In our plans for borrowing to pay for new police stations, hose houses, school houses, and the other things which are urgently demanded by some one.

With all that can be borrowed by the end of the year there will be just about enough to pay for a new building for the Bizzell school, and this is more urgently needed than any of the other improvements that have been advocated.

The question is whether Wards One and Seven will have influence enough to secure it, or whether this is a point that can be borrowed will be scrambled for by all the wards, and the money frittered away in small jobs here and there, by a log rolling process.

Wards Two, Three and Five have all had handsome and expensive new schoolhouses, though the need was not so imperative as in the case of the Bizzell school, and the representatives of those wards might be expected to help the men from Wards One and Seven if the matter was presented in a judicious light.

It would seem as if some arrangement could be made, so that that white elephant of the fire department, the ladder truck, need not be dragged to every fire. It is not needed once in a hundred times, a light wagon containing common ladders would be of much more use, and the truck horses would be spared dragging the heavy truck up our steep hills. On Monday, at the small fire in the old Farlow house, the truck horses were completely exhausted before they had reached the head of Franklin street, and there would have been no need of the heavy ladder even if the house had been on fire. The continued use of such an unwieldy apparatus in a city such as Newton is needless cruelty to men and animals.

The question of the day was tersely stated by Representative Dubuque of Fall River, in the debate over the Telephone bill on Monday. It is whether "the legislature is to control the corporations or the corporations are to control the legislature."

All quasi-public corporations ought to be put under state supervision, and we are sorry to see that both the Newton Representatives voted against the bill.

The bill for the raising of Judge Kennedy's salary to a rate that will bear some comparison to what the police court judges in other cities receive is on its way through the legislature and bids fair to be ready for the governor's signature before many days. It is a measure that certainly ought to pass, as the business of our police court has more than doubled since the present salary was established. The fact that no criticism is heard of the conduct of our police court, shows how satisfactorily the business is conducted, and it is very rarely that the higher courts find occasion to overturn any of Judge Kennedy's decisions.

The water carts came off second best in their contests with the dust, such windy days as we have had this week. The winds dry up the roads so quickly that the dust is flying almost before the water carts have finished with a short section of the street. Probably conditions will be more favorable when the March winds have done blowing.

It is said that another appropriation for the repairs at City Hall will have to be asked for, as the one already made is nearly exhausted, and no work has yet been done in the basement. It is the usual result when repairs are made on old buildings, the cost is more than the outside estimates, as so much more is done than was planned for.

Newton Hospital Aid Association.

A special meeting will be held at the Nurses' Home, on the Hospital grounds, on Wednesday, April 20th, at 3.15 p. m. The chairman of the building committee, Mr. D. R. Emerson, will explain the plans of the new building.

Dr. Horace Packard of Boston has kindly consented to speak on the progress of surgery and the changes in its appliances.

Another eminent specialist is expected to give interesting facts in regard to children's hospitals.

Mayor Cobb has kindly agreed to be present, if possible, and to address the meeting.

All members of the association are urged to be present, and bring their friends with them.

The Hospital and its new buildings will be visited after the meeting.

Boston Blend Coffee.

Under the above caption the Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Co. of Boston, have introduced to New Englanders and others who delight in a good cup of coffee, what is considered by themselves, and also all who have used the same, as beyond question the best article at a moderate price, that has ever been placed before the public, and fully deserving of their complete confidence. The Boston Blend coffee is a combination of South American, Central American and Mexican coffees, and in quality is really excellent, aromatic, rich in flavor and color and good strength. It is roasted and ground on the premises of the company and every particle of dirt and all impurities are removed, so that the berry in its burned and ground condition, is just what the purchaser receives, and nothing else. Every coffee lover should try Boston Blend from what we can learn regarding it, there will be no dissatisfaction with it.

Active Bicycle Thieves.

Already bicycle thieves have begun active operations, and this week the loss of four wheels have been reported to the police.

About 6 o'clock Wednesday evening two well dressed young men, hired a bicycle each from Mr. H. L. Thompson a Centre street, Newton dealer. As yet they have not returned. The young men are described as neat appearing fellows, wearing golf suits, and apparently 22 or 23 years old. The wheels were of the Pacific make.

Some time last evening an Orient bicycle belonging to Mr. J. E. Coleman was taken from Thorne's drug store at the corner of Lexington and Auburn streets.

John Morton reported the loss of a Mystic bicycle, valued at $40, which was taken from in front of the house 47 Hancock street, Auburndale, some time Wednesday evening. It was later recovered by Patrolman Quilty.

Sloyd for the North Side of the City.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC—

The decision of the school board to put a sloyd plant into the Pierce school and to employ a teacher to instruct the children of the north side was welcome news to hundreds of boys and their parents. Word of the wonderful success of this system on the south side under the capable instruction of Miss Edith Matteson had gone across the city, and the installation of the shop in the new Pierce school has been awaited with eagerness, not to say impatience. Now let the good work go on at once. Every week of this training lost to the boy is a loss of mental power, of physical aptitude, of readiness of hand and brain working together, and of moral discipline superior to any other form of it, offered to him in his school life. Experience is our warrant.

Mr. Maynard's Class.

The fifteen members of Mr. Maynard's class on Birds enjoyed a novel sight last Saturday. As some Savanna sparrows were being observed a flock of about fifty horned larks came pitching downward, seemingly out of the clear sky, and alighting on the ground, ran about, almost at the feet of the delighted observers. These birds were seen in Newton in the morning, and thus the opportunity of seeing them was thoroughly appreciated. Many other birds were also seen.

The class for to-morrow meets at laboratory at 1.15, and goes to Prospect Hill, Waltham. Those who desire can meet at corner of Brookside avenue and Washington street at 2.10 or at Waltham at about 3.

Spontania, Pi Eta Theatricals.

So many of the Pi Eta play company live in Newtonville that it has been decided to give the performance in Temple hall, Newtonville, instead of in Newton Centre, as was first proposed. This change will make it very convenient for the wards on the north side of the city.

The play throughout is characterized by its life and snap, and by its pretty costumes and "make-up." Spontania has already been given twice in Pi Eta's cosy theatre in Cambridge, and all who have seen it have been loud in its praises. Both evenings have been well attended, but a larger house than ever is expected tonight in Boston.

"Spontania" is rapidly making a name for itself, and can be called a very worthy rival of the Cadet Theatricals in Boston.

THE HUNNEWELL CLUB.

FORMAL OPENING OF THE NEW CLUB HOUSE—A BRILLIANT RECEPTION WITH MUSIC AND DANCING.

The new Hunnewell Clubhouse was formally opened, Wednesday evening, with a reception for the members and the ladies of their families, and the handsome new building proved the centre of attraction for this part of Newton.

The rooms with their artistic decorations and furnishings were made more attractive with potted plants and handsome bouquets of flowers, while the columns were wreathed with smilax and asparagus vine.

Music was furnished by the Newton Mandolin and Guitar Club, which was stationed on the stage of the assembly hall during the reception, and by Baldwin's cadet band, stationed behind palms on the broad landing of the main stairway between the first and second story. For the dancing, which followed from 10 to 12, the Cadet band took its place on the stage of the main hall.

The rooms presented a very attractive sight during the evening, with the handsome costumes of the ladies, the floral decorations and the artistic furnishings, with the brilliant lights and the music.

The reception was held in the main hall, the receiving party consisting of President E. W. Pope, and Mrs. Pope, and Vice President Geo. H. Agry and Mrs. Agry. They stood on a handsome rug at one end of the hall, and the guests were presented by the following ushers:

Messrs. Lewis H. Bailey, W. H. Barker, Edgar Billings, H. S. Allen, H. D. Corey, H. W. Crowell, J. F. Crosby, H. E. Damon, F. A. Gay, Loring B. Hall, W. E. Holmes, E. M. Hallett, J. Anderson Lord, F. H. Loveland, F. M. Elms, H. G. Lapham, R. E. Mandell, T. C. Phelps, H. G. Pratt, H. G. Powning, E. T. Ryder, W. G. Soule and Herbert Stebbins.

From the reception hall the guests were conducted through the building by the Chief Marshal, Hon. H. E. Bothfield, and his aids, Messrs. D. B. O. Bourdon, J. F. Bothfield, Edward Bothfield, J. F. Bothfield, Lewis E. Coffin, Wiley S. Edmunds, Charles E. Eddy, David W. Farquhar, Charles W. Loring, Edward Mohl, C. O. Tucker, T. W. Trowbridge, E. P. Tuttle, J. K. Taylor, and J. E. Whitman.

The following committees did effective work in providing for the success of the reception:

On music, E. S. Hamblen, F. A. Weatherbee, W. R. Bradley, on decorations, J. M. Quimby, George Agry, Jr., on refreshments, A. W. B. Huff, Mitchell Wing, C. B. Coffin; on the press, J. T. Allen and W. F. Bacon.

The general committee in charge of the arrangements were Messrs. J. Edward Hills, Walter H. Holbrook and Charles A. Haskell, and to their efficient labors much of the success of the affair was due.

Refreshments were served in the banquet hall and card room, which were thrown together for the evening, making one large and commodious room.

The whole affair was admirably managed, so that there was no crowding, and the new building proved ample in accommodations for the number of guests, which were necessarily limited to the club membership. The affair marks a very important event in the history of Newton proper, as it furnishes a social centre which has so far been lacking in this section, and will add to the attractions of Newton as a place of residence. It is planned to have the entertainments for ladies as important a feature as they are in the Newton Club, although of course but little will be done this spring, as it is so nearly the end of the social season. The clubhouse is open to the ladies on Monday and Wednesday afternoons, and Tuesday evenings, when they have the privileges of the clubhouse, and special parties on those dates will become a feature of the club life. The Social Science Club will probably use the banquet hall for their meetings, as that has been decided to be the most conveniently arranged for the purpose, and other ladies' clubs are considering plans for the regular engagement of some of the rooms for their weekly meetings.

One special object of interest at the reception was the presentation of a book by Mr. F. H. Halsey, presented to the club by ex-Mayor Hibbard, which has been hung over the mantle in the library and proves a great addition to the attractions of the club house.

The guests at the reception included nearly the entire club membership, and among those present were:

HOW DOES IT SEEM TO YOU?

It seems to me I'd like to go Where bells don't ring, nor whistles blow,
Nor clocks don't strike, nor gongs don't sound,
And I'd have stillness all around.

Not real stillness, but just the trees!
Low whisperings, or the hum of bees,
Or brooks' faint babblings, or stones
In strangely, softly tangled tones.

Or maybe a cricket or katydid,
Or the songs of birds in the hedges hid,
Or just some such sweet sounds as these
To fill a tired heart with ease.

If 'twere't for sight and sound and smell,
I'd like a city pretty well,
But when it comes to getting rest,
I like the country lots the best.

Sometimes it seems to me I must
Just quit the city's din and dust,
And get out where the sky is blue,
And say, now, how does it seem to you?

—Eugene Field.

THE SANTA DIAVOLO.

Twenty years ago the name and face of Captain Cephas Brown were as well known to the navigators and officials of the Erie canal as the guard lock at Penedon itself. He had been born and brought up on the canal and sailed on it all his life. Every starting post was an old friend, and he knew every foot of the towpath between Buffalo and Albany and often was heard to say that you could put him down blindfold anywhere on the canal, and he could tell exactly where he was.

His boat was always the first one down in the spring and the last back in the fall, and he never knew what it was to have to wait for a load for his well known reliability and perfect integrity made him a favorite with the shippers.

His invariable fairness and generosity caused him to win the respect and good will of his competitors, and so highly was his word esteemed that the saying, "Well, Captain Brown said so," left no room for further argument.

For these reasons the account of an experience he had one night on the canal, and which he has related here, certainly deserves at least the careful consideration of all fair minded and unprejudiced people.

There were very few boatmen who begrudged Captain Brown his success and almost constant good luck, for no one was so ready to assist a person as he, and many a poor canaler had to thank him for helping him out of a tight pinch. One of the few exceptions was Captain Jonas Crapp, commonly known as the pirate from the sinister expression of his face, who was intensely jealous of Captain Brown and tried in every manner to circumvent him.

That he was a man of enterprise and determination, however, there was no doubt, and he had the record of making faster time than any one else on the canal.

No one knew much about him or his antecedents except that, from what was gathered from odd scraps of conversation, he had once sailed in Chinese waters. Owing to his surprising and obliging manner he had few friends and was cordially disliked by most men on the canal.

He had the faculty of picking up the most villainous looking characters to form his crew that could possibly be found outside the state prison. He very seldom hired them for more than one or two trips, so every little while he had a new collection of ruffians.

Both captain and men were of such forbidding appearance and unsavory reputation that no one would have been surprised to have heard of them, some fine day as having hoisted the black flag and held up boats on the canal.

The Santa Diavolo, as the white letters on the stern of Captain Crapp's boat indicated, was its name, differed somewhat from the majority of those seen on the canal. It was painted entirely black with the exception of a narrow streak of red just above the water line, the bow was made higher and usual and came to more of a point, the yellow painted dragon as a figurehead, which, according to some, bore a remarkable resemblance to the captain himself.

These two men, Captain Brown and Captain Crapp, although dissimilar in almost every respect, had this in common, that they were singularly fortunate in all their ventures and never had to wait for a load.

The firm of Sparks & Jones, at that time one of the largest shipping houses in Buffalo, used to give them most of their work, especially in cases where extra care and dispatch were necessary.

Early in October, 1875, the firm telegraphed to both men, who happened to be in New York at the same time, that on the 15th of the month, 12 days later, they would have a special load at greatly advanced rates, and whichever one got back first could have the contract.

Captain Brown was unable to get a tug to tow him up the river at the time he was ready to return, which was the means of his rival getting 24 hours' start of him and at the same time making it almost certain that the latter would succeed in securing the coveted cargo.

Although regretting this unavoidable delay, Captain Brown did not allow it to disturb his equable temperament, knowing full well that a load would be waiting for him at the other end, if it were less remunerative than the one referred to.

He left New York with a mixed cargo and made an uneventful trip up the river and canal, although somewhat delayed by disagreeable weather, not an unexpected occurrence at that time of the year.

When he reached Rochester, he learned that Jonas Crapp had been murdered and his boat scuttled in Buffalo harbor.

It seemed that he had got the load and had made all arrangements to leave Buffalo about 4 o'clock the following morning, but Sparks & Jones having been informed that he had not passed through Tonawanda, made an investigation, with the result of finding the boat scuttled, the captain killed, and the crew, with some valuable plate that had formed part of the cargo, nowhere to be seen.

There was a great deal of mystery about the affair, and great excitement was aroused. It came out that besides the captain only two of the crew had passed the night on board. One was the cook, a Portuguese sailor, and the other an ex-miner from South Africa, who was commonly supposed to be a fugitive from justice and went by the name Ugly Pete, from a deep scar that extended from the corner of his mouth to his ear and rendered still more repulsive a countenance in which nature had originally left much room for improvement. The remainder of the crew had spent the night on shore and could explain their movements to the police, so the crime was supposed to have been committed by the two who had disappeared, but no clew as to their whereabouts had up to that time been obtained. The news of the tragedy was quite a shock to Captain Brown, for, although he had no special cause to mourn his rival's untimely end, still the dreadful manner of his death made him forget the latter's animosity to himself.

Proceeding on his way, he arrived at Lockport about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, where he was subjected to some delay owing to the boat ahead of him having met with an accident while going through the locks. Finally, shortly after 7 o'clock, the Polly Ann, as Captain Brown's boat was named, having climbed to the upper level, started at a good rate for Buffalo.

The day was in nautical phraseology nasty in the extreme. A drizzling rain was falling and a cold wind blowing from the west. The towpath was almost impassable, and the night was so dark that there was great danger of the driver falling into the canal.

The Polly Ann had reached that part of the canal a few miles beyond Lockport where it cuts through a rocky ridge, on each side the wall rising perpendicularly to a considerable height, which, together with the rushing water, the grade here being quite steep, gives this portion of the canal the appearance of a canyon on a small scale.

Captain Brown was steering and men tally anathematizing the prospect of having to put in a very disagreeable night, when his attention was directed to the headlight of a boat approaching him from the opposite direction. This was not an unusual occurrence, of course, and called for no comment, and the captain merely speculated as to what boat it might be. Slowly the two boats approached, and now the red and green port and starboard lights of the stranger became distinctly visible. As one of the hands came toward him Captain Brown exclaimed, "Say, Jerry, I'll swear I haven't heard about Jonas Crapp's murder I would say that this here boat that's coming down was the Saint Devil itself."

"Does look powerful like her," said Jerry.

When two boats meet each other from opposite directions, the law of the road, or rather canal, is that the up going has the right of way, the other steering out toward the right and allowing its line to become slack and sink, so that the former can pass over it.

As the two boats got nearer, however, Captain Brown noticed that this boat kept on its way and made no effort apparently to follow the time honored custom.

Every minute he expected to see the coming boat swerve to the right and every minute the boats kept getting nearer.

At last it was plain to all that there would be a collision. The captain yelled to the driver of the towboat to stop and called to his men to get some bumpers to break the force of the contact, but before they could carry out his orders the strange boat was upon them. Every one braced himself for the expected shock, but none came, for their boat passed right through the stranger as through a mist. Nothing was felt except that the air seemed chillier as they passed and an unpleasant, creepy sensation took possession of those on board the Polly Ann, and the blood almost froze in their veins, for there at the tiller sat Jonas Crapp, his face pale in death and a red gash across his forehead. Captain Brown could have touched him as he glided by, so near were they together. On looking after her she was seen to continue undisturbed on her course, and the white letters on her stern distinctly read "Santa Diavolo."

The story of the phantom boat got out and was charitably attributed to the crew having imbibed some of the liquor that formed part of their cargo, but no one could get a word out of Captain Brown on the subject, as he refused positively to have anything to say. An old friend of the captain, however, who relates the incident states that he admitted to him that the story was certainly true, but as he knew that no one would believe it he had thought it better to have nothing to say about it.—Buffalo Courier.

Coolness in Danger.

When Lieutenant Henderson was captured by the natives of the Gold Coast hinterland, they got into a fiery discussion as to how they would kill him. The victim listened awhile till he was weary of it. "Oh, well," he said, "I can't be bothered with your arguments! I'm very sleepy. Let me know when you have made up your minds." And off to sleep he went. The unexpected performance saved his life. His calm indifference persuaded Samory's men that they had to do with some one of immense importance. Unwilling to take on themselves the responsibility for his death, they sent him unharmed to Samory's court, in the Jim Inl country.

One again Lieutenant Henderson saved himself by a like exhibition of courage. He found Samory on a throne, surrounded by 4,000 warriors, yet when motioned to do homage on his hands and knees he did nothing of the sort. He simply sat on the throne beside Samory, shaking that monarch warmly by the hand. Thanks to this, and to nothing else, he was spared, and a representative of a great sovereign instead of a captive doomed to death. He talked to Samory of the queen and Samory talked to him. Thus a mission which might have ended, as so many African missions have ended, in a terrible silence and a suspicion of unspeakable horrors, did, in fact, end in a valuable basis of future relations between Great Britain and a Mohammedan power.

Commended to Kipling's Notice.

Another curious quibble very difficult for a plain soldier to understand is the following: A color sergeant had the honor to be promoted to sergeant on the 21st of January, but he was reduced to sergeant on the 21st of February. For the requisite number of years he had held the rank entitling him to a color sergeant's pension. He made inquiries as to how the reduction affected his pension, and, to his dismay, was informed that, as he would leave the service with the rank of sergeant, he would not be entitled to a color sergeant's pension, and as he would be sergeant only for a few months prior to discharge he could not have a sergeant's pension. It was elaborately pointed out that to earn a sergeant's pension a soldier had to hold the rank of sergeant for ten consecutive years. This man had held a higher rank for many more years than that, but there was the regulation in black and white. One thing alone was left for the miserable man to do. He went out and drowned his sorrow in drink, was reduced to corporal and after serving 21 years and distinguishing himself in two campaigns he left the service with a pension of eightpence a day—not the pension of a private.—Today.

Not an Unusual Thing.

Dixon—I don't believe young Shortleigh is half as extravagant as people say he is. Hixon—Perhaps not, but I've noticed that he has a suit of clothes for every day in the week.

Dixon—Is that so? Why, he always had the same suit on every day in a week.

Hixon—Well, that's the one.—Chicago News.

GOT AMPLE SATISFACTION.

The Man With the Carpetbag Squared Accounts With the Mean Man.

On the cars coming to B— was a stalwart man, going to New York to buy goods. He was not what might be called a stingy or close man, but he was a man who when there was a cent due him that swindling might deprive him of would sacrifice $50 to save the copper.

He had started in the morning without any breakfast, and when E— hove in sight he gathered himself up for a general skirmish for any and all kinds of provisions. He had a carpetbag with him, and, going into the dining room at E—, he deposited his carpetbag on one chair, while he took another at his side.

He was lost for about ten minutes, perfectly oblivious to everything save that he had a blessed consciousness of something very rapidly and agreeably replenishing his inward man.

About this time the landlord came round, ejaculating:

"Dollar, sir!"

"A dollar!" responded the eater. "A dollar! I thought you only charged 50 cents a meal for one, but what was I?"

"That's true," answered Meanness, "but I count your carpetbag one, since it occupies a seat."

Now, the table was far from being crowded, and the gentleman expostulated, but the landlord insisted, and the dollar was reluctantly brought forth, paid over, and the receiver passed on.

Our victim deliberately rose, and opening his carpetbag to the full extent of its contents, he said, as follows:

"Carpetbag, it seems you are an individual, a human individual, since you eat—at least I've paid for your eating, and now you must eat!"

Upon this he seized everything eatable that was carrieable within reach—nuts, raisins, apples, cakes and crust pies—and, amid the roars of the bystanders, the delight of his brother passengers and the commiseration of the landlord, phlegmatically went out and took his seat in the train.

He said he had secured provisions enough to last him to New York after a bountiful supply had been served out in the cars. There was at least $5 worth in the bag, upon which the landlord realized nothing in the way of profit.—Toronto Globe.

CACHES.

The Reliance of Arctic Travelers For Food on a Recent Journey.

An arctic expedition moving overland practically always intends to return by the same route. Even in these days of compressed foods the weight of several months' provisions for a large party is considerable. In caches it is, therefore, stored along the route several days' journey apart.

What is simply a hole in the ground is first dug, a matter of extreme difficulty at times. Then, painfully digging elsewhere, earth is brought to the surface and a quantity of this is dumped into the hole. Ice is melted and the water from it poured upon the earth, the entire mixture freezing in a few moments into a compact mass. This is the bottom of the cache. On it the provisions the party want to put aside for a future day are laid, so many pounds for each man, carefully calculated. There should be just enough to support life comfortably until the next cache is reached on the return, with two or three days' rations over for emergencies.

With stones, ice and snow the walls of the cache are now built up, water being poured over the snowy structure hermetically to seal it. It is a point of honor, among even the poorest natives, not to rifle a cache unless in cases of the direst necessity, but the provisions must be kept safe from the bears. Properly built the structure is impregnable, and it needs the work of pickaxes to tear it open.

It is marked by anything that the explorers can spare or find in the vicinity, generally by a staff of wood. In Siberia the tooth of a mammoth is not infrequently used. Despite this precaution, however, many caches can never be found again.

If rendered provisionless in this manner, the party must resort to its guns and hunt for the musk ox, the white bear and the seal, which sometimes are in easy reach, more frequently not to be found at all. Game in these regions is never to be depended upon.—New York Tribune.

A Nihilist's Definition of Nihilism.

I was so fortunate as to meet an American in Russia, a man of high intelligence in bringing more of his people to this country than any other person. He had been a medical student in Russia, became connected with a nihilist plot, was suspected, arrested and sentenced to Siberia, but made his escape and came to this country five years ago. He at once took steps to become naturalized, and now, as Dr. C. C. Young, is an American citizen, intensely proud of his adopted country, enthusiastic concerning its institutions, particularly its liberty of speech, and is able to converse in excellent English wholly acquired since coming here.

"A nihilist," said Dr. Young, "is not an anarchist or even a socialist. He is merely one who desires with all his heart and above everything else in this world the liberty of speech and action that is the birthright of every living soul and which is guaranteed to every American by the constitution of the United States. Oh, you Americans should be the very happiest people on earth, for you have everything that the rest of the world is striving to gain!"—Rirk Munroe in Harper's Magazine.

The Truth of the Text.

"I hold to the Scriptural doctrine that it is more blessed to give than to receive," said the little man who is familiar with quackery.

"I confess that I have never been able to appreciate the force of that injunction," responded the big fellow who believes in looking after No. 1 above all others.

"Perhaps I should say that it is easier," continued the little man.

"Well, I don't see it," said the big fellow.

"You would if you were in my business," said the little man, "and doubtless he would."

The little man was a telegraph operator.—Washington Star.

A Great Day.

She (gushingly)—There are days when we seem more in unison with nature than at others, when our hearts seem to beat in accord with the sublime harmony of the universe. Have you ever noticed it?

He—Indeed I have. It is always that way with me on pay day.—London Tit-Bits.

Sidney Smith's wife was such a good cook that he calculated that during the course of his life he had eaten 48 four horse wagon loads more than was good for him.

IN WASHINGTON'S POCKETS.

Search Showed First President Did Not Use Gum or Cigarettes.

A man who had returned from a post which he held in a foreign country told a reporter an amusing story of something which occurred several years ago at the National museum. The gentleman in question was connected with the museum unofficially. He spent much time there, assisting to arrange the different exhibits. In this capacity he had a key which admitted him to most of the cases where the relics, etc., were kept. He knew the curators at the museum and enjoyed their full confidence. He said:

"One afternoon after the museum had been closed I was there with two or three of the other men connected with the place. I do not know just how the thing started, but we jokingly proposed to search the pockets of the clothes of George Washington, which were on exhibition. We had been arranging them or looking at them, I think, which suggested this."

"I asked if the old gentleman left any money in his clothes, or what he was in the habit of carrying about with him," one of us said, and the idea was carried out.

"There was nothing in any of the pockets but one. In the bottom of this, when it was turned inside out, was some brown, powdery substance, which had a most pungent smell. There was considerable of this, which was either tobacco or snuff, showing that the Father of His Country was most likely addicted to the use of it. I put it in a piece of paper and kept it carefully."

"The funniest part of it was that when I showed it to my little son on returning home he berated me soundly for taking part in a proceeding which he characterized as sacrilege in daring to violate the garments of so noted a person by putting my hands in his pocket."

"It was much better to do it after he was dead, my boy, for the old pick-pocket act while he was living," I declared.

"It proved conclusively to me that the immortal George did not possess the chewing gum or cigarette habit. If he smoked tobacco, he used it in a pipe. There was nothing of a dude about him."—Washington Star.

TOLD BY THE CIRCUS MAN.

The Big Giraffe's Usefulness In Carrying a Torch For the Callopie Player.

"In all night parades," said the old circus man, "we used to have a big 18 foot giraffe carry a torch, and there wasn't anything in the whole procession that attracted more attention. We had a torch made specially for him, with an extra long handle with a grip piece about midway of its length, which the giraffe held in its mouth. The handle was six or eight feet above the giraffe's head, so that he carried the big torch about 25 feet above the ground. The lower end of the handle was steadied by means of a strap made fast to it and buckled around the giraffe's neck."

"We had at that time a steam callopie, one of the first ever carried in a circus. I don't know but what it was the very first, and we used to have the giraffe, carrying the torch, march beside the callopie. You've seen men and boys marching alongside the band at night carrying torches for the musicians to see their notes by? Well, we had the giraffe march beside the callopie to light the music for the callopie player. In order to make the callopie outfit fit the giraffe we had a wagon built with a broad wheel base, so that we could safely carry the platform that the callopie stood on up high, but it looked as though we had the giraffe carry the torch for the player because that was the only way we could get the light up to him."

"You know, the callopie in those days used to get the people tremendous. The callopie itself was a great cart, but when you come to see the professor sitting up there on the platform playing away on the keyboard, with his gaze fixed on the music in front of him and every now and then turning over a leaf and then pounding down on the keys again so as not to lose the melody, all the while the giraffe was marching solemnly alongside him, holding the torch as near as he could, so that the professor could see the music—um-m! Well, the people used to just go wild over it, and I'm not so certain myself but what it was the greatest thing we ever taught the giraffe to do."—New York Sun.

The "Smartest Dog."

John N. Conover, the Livermore, has perhaps the most intelligent dog in all this country. He is a shepherd and is valued very highly by all the while. George Conover went out home with Mr. Conover one day, and upon his return related the following to a representative of The News: "Well, sir, John Conover has got the smartest dog I ever saw, and if he was mine I wouldn't take $100 for him. I was out at John's today, and it was raining. The dog was lying by the stove, and John said to him, calling him by name: 'This fire is about out. Go and get a stick of wood.' The dog sprang up, went hastily to the wood-house and returned with a stick in his mouth. Mr. Conover then remarked, 'Go up stairs and get my old hat.' The summons was obeyed, and in two minutes Mr. Conover was presented with his hat, but it was not the one he wanted, so he told the dog to take it back and bring another one, describing it, and this time no mistake was made. He then said to the dog: 'It is raining. Go and see that the cattle are in the field and get them to the barn.' The dog started with a yelp, and it was not long until he came in, satisfying his master that his orders had been obeyed."

Absolute Surrender.

A little child was one day playing with a very valuable vase, when he put his hand into it and could not withdraw it. His father, too, tried his best to get it out, but all in vain. They were talking of breaking the vase, when the father said:

"Now, my son, make your fingers try. Open your hand and pull your fingers out straight, as you see me doing, and then pull."

To their astonishment, the little fellow said, "Oh, no, papa, I couldn't put out my fingers like that, for if I did I would drop my penny." How many of us are like him! Held prisoners by our own desires.—Rain's Horn.

Ticket Clerk—I haven't time to talk politics.—New York Weekly.

The Parisians are credited with having found out how to make false eyelashes. They draw a fine needle threaded with dark hair through the skin of the eyelid, forming long loops, and after the process is over—it is said to be a painless one—a splendid dark fringe veils the wearer's eyes.

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

The Influence Which Mothers Exert Thereon.

The Outlook is constantly trying to impress upon women that the responsibility rests upon them to make everything in politics go right,—without the power the ballot gives. Under the heading, "Mothers and Public Administration," the Outlook says:

"Mothers cannot always see the close connection between the administration of public affairs and the welfare of their children. There has been it is true, a very great advance in this direction. Within five years this discussion of the administration of public affairs has often been found the most interesting topic at lunch parties and by groups of receptions and teas. The outlook for the future is very bright. It promises that the best mothers in the community will be familiar with the administration of those departments which most nearly touch the homes and those in them; that these departments will be closely and intelligently watched by mothers. When this day is fully come, the moral sentiment of the people will not permit of maladministration of public offices, nor will 'political pull' justify the appointment of any man unfitted to the office to which he is appointed. Effort have been made, through at least two of the trades-unions, to compel all janitors of all buildings heated by steam to pass such examinations as would entitle them to engineers' certificates. This movement has not met with the approval which it deserves; the accident in one of the public schools of Brooklyn quite recently proves conclusively that janitors of public-school buildings should be men whose qualifications for the important positions which they fill are beyond question. A man holding a license who is proved guilty of negligence can have his license revoked, and so be made to pay the penalty for his act. A man who does not hold such a license can be punished only by dismissal, probably to secure a similar position, jeopardizing the lives of many people. The public school in Brooklyn just referred to escaped what might have been a great catastrophe. Fortunately, but three children were injured. One of the boilers in the basement of the school exploded. There were three hundred children from five to eight years of age in the several classrooms on the floor immediately above. When mothers demand that the lives of their children shall not be jeopardized, and demand it so forcibly as to compel the authorities to pay due regard to their demand, all janitors in public-school buildings will hold engineers' certificates, or the steam-heating apparatus will be placed in charge of men holding such certificates."

It has been said with truth that "the only day of judgment the average politician fears is election day." Just how mothers are to "compel the authorities to do their duty by the children, without the ballot, is a question that Dr. Lyman Abbott has not yet made clear to us. But he is building better than he knows. The more mothers are led to look into the details of public administration, through his exhortations, the more they will come to see that they need the ballot, for the sake of their children.

A Plea for Equal Suffrage.

In a republic such as ours, there must always be national issues to divide the people. The din over the battle between metallic standards has subsided. There is one question, however, towards which the minds of the thinking people of the United States seem to be turning, a question that lies deep-set in the foundation of American institutions: the elective franchise—how, and by whom shall it be exercised, and what means shall be best adopted to keep it intelligent, pure and patriotic.

The elective franchise should be conferred by reasonable and just rules, and not merely by arbitrary laws. There is no difference in the allegiance that a man owes to the general government for that which is due from a woman. It would be ridiculous to say that red-headed men should vote, and that black-headed men should not vote; and yet, this is no more absurd than to say that a man should vote and a woman should not. The color of the hair is an accident of birth, so is the distinction of sex.

We, everywhere, hear declamation against class legislation and we wonder why class legislation is any more objectionable than sex legislation. There are, manifestly, only two qualifications that should determine the right to vote: intelligence and virtue. The principal objections to the extension of the elective franchise to woman, are based on the claim that it would remove her from her proper sphere, and that it would tend to degrade her by contact with things immoral and impure; good is not competent to contend with evil—the good will overcome the evil, but the evil will overcome the good. This argument is striking of one white flag of truth, virtue and justice, before the black flag of political piracy.

Ninety years ago, woman's sphere was limited to the home, the church, and a few occupations outside. To-day there is not a legitimate business in the United States that does not number women in some of its many departments. It is possible that the opponents of woman suffrage are waiting until woman goes generally into the business of keeping saloons and running gambling houses, before considering her competent to vote in matters of civil government?

All political parties concede that two dangers threaten the elective franchise: one, the ignorant, foreign vote; the other, the corruption of the ballot by bribery, coercion and other destructive methods. Surely, an antidote for these would be the exercise of the franchise by intelligent American-born women. The survival of the fittest can only be found in a contest where there is a fair field and no favor. Throw open the franchise to the good and the bad of both sexes, and in the end there will be a survival of the fittest.

Hon. Charles McKenzie

NEWTON CLUB.
The athletic committee has met with a satisfactory response to its call for entries
for the round robin base ball tournament.
The members, who supplied fun for themselves and the crowd last year by their efforts as amateur ball tossers, are anxious to eclipse their former exploits on the diamond, and those who were out of it last year are equally anxious to show what they can do. Altogether the tournament promises to be a marked success.

Saturday night's entertainment brought out an unusually large crowd of club members and their guests. The feature was Dr.
J. C. Bowker's lecture on Spain, which was replete with interesting information in regard to a country now in everyone's mind, and was superbly illustrated with more than 100 stereoscopic views.

Now that the assembly season is over club members and their families are looking forward to the outdoor concert season.
These concerts are one of the most popular features of the club season, and the program this year promises to be unusually interesting.

The season of formal social events was brought to a close Wednesday evening,
with the April assembly, which was postponed from the sixth. This being the first clubhouse function after Lent, the attendance was unusually large, nearly 150 of the dancing set being present. Dancing was in order from 8 to 12, and at 10, supper was served. The floor was under the direction of the assembly committee.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE.—It is rare that an actor, after having achieved so pronounced and enduring a success as that which has attended the name of Stuart Robson with
"The Henchman," proves so fortunate as to accomplish another equally as great; and yet, if one may judge from the reception accorded "The Jacklins," the prediction
is not ventured that the new play will yet win for the great comedian as much in the way of fame and fortune as the earlier work has. "The Jacklins," which Boston
playgoers are now enjoying at the Tremont Theatre, is from the facile pen of one of the foremost of dramatic authors, Mr.
Augustus Thomas, and owes its origin to Ole Reed's most widely read novel. The story is of absorbing interest, though it can in no wise be called "sensational." Mr.
Robson has achieved an undisputed success
in the principal character of "Lem" Jacklin,
an old southern farmer, a roly-poly
unlike any he has undertaken. He displays a fine, delicate tenderness and a depth of pathos for which his warmest admirers could hardly have given him credit.
He has long been known as a master of comedy, eccentric and otherwise, but in his new play he has revealed to a new field,
and has won new laurels that many will deem the brightest with which he has been crowned during his long career on the stage. The Tremont Theatre is especially fortunate in being the scene of his latest and greatest triumph, and it is to be regretted that his engagement continues no longer than the 23d inst. He is supported by a company without a perceptibly weak point, and all the actors that may be supposed to demand any particular ability are taken by exceptionally clever people.

Nonantum Boys' Club.
The Nonantum Boys' Club has just closed
a very successful year under the efficient and inspiring superintendence of Mr. J. B.
Stewart of the Boys' Institute of Industry, assisted by Mr. Charles Worth and by an able corps of teachers.

Of the hundred boys who were enrolled on November 1, there has been an average attendance of sixty-five, which has crowded the room generously provided by Mr.
Henry W. Wellington. Throughout the winter classes have been carried on in capacity, cobbling, wood-carving, mechanical drawing, and other trades and vocations. The number entering the classes had to be limited, and a petition has been signed by one hundred boys asking the committee in charge to reopen the club next year with increased facilities for manual training classes.

A large, well-lighted room has been open
every evening, supplied with games, books and papers. Every week an entertainment of special interest has been offered, and thanks are due to the young people of the Nonantum New church for superintending most of these.

The interest of the boys has been rivalled
by that of the girls in the Saturday afternoon sewing class, and sixty of them have signed a petition asking for the formation of more classes.

The Athenaeum, Dalby street, Nonantum,
will be open this week Saturday afternoon,
April 16, and friends are invited to examine the work of the classes. Cars leave the Newton bank fifteen minutes before and fifteen minutes after the hour; cars leave Newtonville square ten, thirty, and fifty minutes after the hour.

More detailed information concerning the club will be furnished by Mr. Charles A. Haskell, of Sargent street, Newton, the clerkman of the committee, or by Mr. A. R.
Weed, Park street, Newton, the treasurer.

Y. M. C. A.
President McKinley's "delay policy" embodied in a Resolve presented by Rep.
Thrasher was vigorously assailed by the Young Men's Congress last Wednesday evening.

The meetings next Sunday afternoon
will be unusually interesting. Rev. C. E.
Holmes, pastor of the Methodist church,
will speak to boys at 3 o'clock, and Rev. H.
J. Patrick of Newtonville will address the men's meeting at 4 o'clock.

The first dress rehearsal for the Hayseed Karnival will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. Juniors, seniors and business men are all requested to attend in rural costumes.

gress next Wednesday evening, promises to be a lively one. Rep. Thrasher's Cuban Resolve is yet before the House.

among the business men just now. Dr.
Reid, C. O. Tucker, F. A. Day, C. W. Loring and J. A. Gilman, make an invincible battery and infield.

few of the attractions to which all are invited next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Admission free.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is a strengthening food and tonic, remarkable in its flesh-forming properties. It contains Cod-Liver Oil emulsified or partially digested, combined with the well-known and highly prized Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, so that their potency is materially increased.

What Will It Do?

It will arrest loss of flesh and restore to a normal condition the infant, the child and the adult. It will enrich the blood of the anemic;
will stop the cough, heal the irritation of the throat and lungs, and cure incipient consumption. We make this statement because the experience of twenty-five years has proven it in tens of thousands of

BABY'S SMOOTH, FAIR SKIN

A Grateful Mother Writes this Letter—

Tells all about Her Troubles when Baby Broke out with Scrofula Sores.

"At the age of two months, my baby
began to have sores break out on his right cheek. We used all the external applications that we could think or hear of,
to no avail. The sores spread all over one side of his face. We consulted a physician and tried his medicine, and in a week
the sores were gone. But to my surprise in two weeks more another scrofulous looking sore appeared on baby's arm. It grew worse and worse, and when he was three months old, I began giving him
Hood's Sarsaparilla. I also took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before the first bottle was finished, the sores were well and have never returned. He is now four years old, but he has never had any sign of those scrofulous sores since he was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for which I feel very grateful. My boy owes his good health and smooth, fair skin to this great medicine." MRS. S. S. WROTES, Farmington,

—The Dedham road race drew a large number of Newton wheelmen to that town, and it was a very interesting event. The finish was remarkably close, as the winners came back in a bunch of twenty or more, and the difference of a second or so was all the spectators could see of the finish. There were eight entries from Newton. A. G. Vachon, C. B. Knapp, W. J.
Bowman, Robert Newton, L. G. Leonard,
W. L. Bowen, J. Peterson and C. W. Fos-

Mrs. Rice retains all her faculties. There is only one member of the family surviving, Ebenezer Hyde of Coldwater, Michigan, who is 83 years old. Mrs. Rice has remarkably good health, needing a physician's care but twice in half a century.
Her parents lived to be 80 and 86; the children to be 74, 76, and 81.

The twentieth anniversary of Channing Convent, an Arcadium, was held at last Friday evening in Whitman hall,

ment weather, there was a large attendance of members and their guests. An entertaining program furnished by Mrs.
A. Norris and Mrs. J. Van Buskirk, vocal soloists, and Mr. A. Frank Swift, initiator and reader, delighted the gathering and called forth considerable applause. Supper, prepared by Mrs. Swift, was a most interesting and enjoyable affair, followed
under the direction of the officers.

—The Hunnewell Club observed Patriots' Day with a ladies' night, and a large company gathered at the club house in spite of the rain. At 9 o'clock all assembled in the main hall, where Vice President Agry introduced the program. In a pleasant speech, in which he apologized for taking the place of the Pope of the club, who was unable to be present. Mr. Weston made a very interesting address on the important events commemorated by the day, the battle of Concord and Lexington, the characters of Adams and Hancock, and repeated some incidents of those stirring times, which he had been told by his grandfather. He alluded briefly to the events of the civil war connected with the day, and closed
with an eloquent reference to the present crisis. Mrs. Ralph Emery sang "The Lost Chord," and was accompanied on the piano
by Mrs. Haywood, the song receiving enthusiastic applause. Mr. H. M. Greenough was next introduced by Mr. Agry, and read "Paul Revere's Ride," the famous poem which introduces the events of the first Patriots' Day, and for an encore gave a thrilling short story by Cable, which delighted the audience. The exercises were brought to a close by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Mrs. Emery, the audience joining in the refrain, led by Mr.
Blakemore. The members and their guests

treasurer.

—A very attractive bazar and apron sale
was given in Association hall, Y. M. C. A. building, Wednesday afternoon and evening, by the Young Ladies' Aid Society.
The prettily decorated booths were in charge of the members, and the affair
proved unusually successful.

occupy their new home at the corner of Pearl and Emerson streets.

—Newton was captured on Patriots' Day
by the Middlesex County Christian En-

every street car and crowded the streets

rung for their benefit and Mr. Barrell gave an interesting organ recital, which was

went to him on Tuesday, and his father arrived yesterday, just after his death.
He was born in Newton, and had been at Peabody for two years. The funeral notice will be given later.

—Co. C, 5th regiment, M. V. M., the Cladfin Guard, underwent its annual inspection at Armory hall, Wednesday evening.
The company turned out with full ranks,
under command of Capt. Ernest R. Springer, with results exceedingly satisfactory, in view of the fact that only a short hour's notice of the inspection was given. The inspecting officers were Col. Souther of the governors' staff and Maj. Clements of Waltham.

—Last evening the Unitarian Club of the Channing church observed "ladies' night,"
with an informal reception in the church parlors. There was an unusually large attendance of club members and their guests,
and as a social event the affair was very successful. The rooms were prettily decorated, and music was furnished by mandolin and guitar players. At a business meeting these officers were elected: J. L. Caverley, president; F. H. Burt and H. C.
Hardon, vice presidents; John F. Crosby, secretary; Harris Johnson, treasurer.
Several important committees were appointed.

—Mr. M. H. Haase's new store in Associates Block, Centre street, is a great attraction to that section, and well worth a visit from those who have any kind of furniture to be repaired, or wish to order mattresses, pillows, matting, or special designs in furniture. Mr. Haase has built up a large trade in Newton by his skillful and artistic work, and as his business outgrew
his former quarters on Centre place, he had to seek larger quarters. He gives personal attention to all orders, and those in search of artistic coverings, or odd squares for sofa pillows or special pieces of furniture will be sure to find something novel
and artistic in his stock.

—Already a good deal of interest is manifested in the special election to be held

the ward caused by the death of Alderman John Sturges Potter. The names now most prominently mentioned for the position are those of John T. Langford, Reuben Forknall and D. W. Stearns of Nonantum. Messrs.
Langford and Forknall were cautious candidates last fall, but were defeated, and D.
W. Stearns was defeated at the polls by Alderman John E. Bristol, running as an independent candidate. An effort is also being made to induce J. R. W. Shapleigh

PAY OF CITY LABORERS.

There was an interesting hearing before the board of Aldermen, Wednesday evening, on the petition of the city laborers
for an increase of pay to two dollars per day.There is a good deal to be said in favor of this petition. Newton pays its city officials on a liberal scale, and it is hardly fair to make an exception against those who perform manual labor. In the case of others, the arguments over that rents are high in the city, that it is an expensive place in which to live, and therefore we should pay salaries in proportion. All these arguments are as good in the case of the city laborers as in the case of city officials.If the city laborer has to rent a house or tenement, he has to pay more than he would pay in most other cities; if he owns a little place, it is assessed up to the limit,
and he has to pay his full share of the city
expenses.Men of greater wealth can dodge the assessment in many ways, and escape paying taxes on a large part of their possessions,
while the man of small means, who owns his little home, has all his possessions in sight, and can not evade his taxes.It is right for a city to set a good example in this matter, and pay a good price to men on whose prosperity so much depends. We hear a good deal about the return of prosperity, but it will never return until wages are increased, and the buying capacity of the people enlarged. Prosperity must begin at the bottom, to be real
and healthy, and all these corporations that are cutting down wages, and at the same time paying enormous salaries and large dividends, make a great mistake.
They do so much to restrict the buying capacity of the people, and so restrict the market for their products.In the case of city laborers, one thing seems plain enough, and that is if there is any work to be done, and citizens of Newton stand ready to do it, they should be given the preference, over any outsiders
such as Italians or other foreigners employed by some contractors, even though they will work for less money. The latter are paid off and take their money out of the city, while the former expend it here, and so help Newton and Newton business.Men who receive good pay work better and accomplish more than those who are poorly paid, so that it would probably in the end be economy for the city to pay the highest rate to its day laborers. They have a long period of enforced idleness,
and many days, even in the busy season,
when work is impossible, so that there is no probability of their becoming too prosperous.

REFORMERS MUST BE ACTIVE.

The Newton Civil Service Reform Association, in the call for its annual meeting,
to be held next Monday, refers to the series of attacks in our State Legislature against the integrity of the civil service law. It was not so very long ago that some sanguine civil service reformers gave expression to their belief that the final victory over the corrupting spoils system
had been won, and that believers in honest civil service might lay down their arms and turn their attention to something else. But they have been undeceived, if they have kept their eyes open, for men who are in politics for what they can make out of it were never so active as at present. They may not attack the civil service law openly, but they plan to undermine it in every way they can think of, by measures
whose full scope is not apparent to the uninitiated.An honest civil service has now such a standing that the spoilsman do not dare attack it openly, but their attacks are all the more dangerous on that account. The various civil service reform associations
about the state have used to be more wide-awake than ever, to be able to expose the real nature of these attacks, and to defeat them. The Newton association has a result of which its members may well feel proud, and all believers in honesty in public office should unite with them, and so help make their work effective in the future.With such object lessons as are furnished
by the revelations of corruption, dishonesty, defalcation, and even worse, in New York city, Philadelphia, and Brooklyn, it is evident that all who believe in honesty in civil government cannot afford to sit by in idleness, while corrupt politicians steal and bribe in the most open manner, and then brazenly demand that honest men stand by them out of loyalty to party.The spoilsman have a direct interest in breaking down the civil service law, so that they may reward their creatures with an office, and pay them for their dirtywork out of the public treasury, and therefore they are always active, and need to be carefully watched. Their opponents must be equally active, and the most effective work can be done by such bodies as the Newton Civil Service Reform Association.The city improvement that is appreciated by the largest number seems to be the fine road bed on Washington street, which is alive with bicyclers at all hours of the day and early evening, and the stretch of two miles between Newton and West Newton is the finest riding in the city. There is a very general hope that the highway department will soon get to work on that part of the street between the West Newton bridge and the boulevard, which has been in bad condition for several years,
and it will probably be attended to within a few weeks. Now that we have got rid of the highway committee, thanks to the new charter, the old policy of fixing up all the little side streets on which the members had their dwellings, and through which only grocery and provision teams pass, will we hope be changed, and the important thoroughfares be attended to the first thing. If the appropriation holds out, it will be time enough to attend to the side streets when all the main streets are put in good condition, as the good of the greatest number is the motto to be followed in repairing city streets, as well as in other details of city government.PATRIOT'S DAY was observed in Newton
in a quiet way, and the prospect of a war with Spain did not interfere with the opening of the baseball season, when the Newton Club kept up its reputation of last year by defeating its opponents, thus starting off the season in good shape. The golf clubs also were out in force, the Newton Centre club having a very successful tournament, and the other clubs devoting themselves to practice until the rain interfered. In the morning great crowds went out to see the Marathon runners, and wheels were in evidence everywhere, from early morning until the rain began in earnest late in the afternoon. The cold wind and cloudy skies were a disappointment,
but the majority evidently did not mind a little thing like that, and made the most of the holiday.In discussing the national crisis President Tucker of Dartmouth college in his sermon on Sunday recognized that we are undertaking the serious work of attempting "to set another nation's house in order, to rebuke another's inhumanity, to secure freedom within the limits of our own territory." "Are we in the spirit to do this business?" he asked. "Have we a national conscience which can be made equal to the task?" And making haste to answer his own deep propounding, Dr. Tucker declared: "That I must believe, otherwise I cannot understand how God has put it upon us. I cannot believe that it is mere revenge or passion, which is stirring the heart of the nation."SPEAKER REED has earned the thanks of the country by defeating the Unions
of the United States Senate. The Forakers, Elkins, Masons, Gormans, and Quays in that body are not safe leaders for the country at any time and it is well that we have one man who can show them their place, even if it takes some usurpation of power to do it.
But the Senate has so declined in reputation by the notorious character of these men and others who might be named, that
the country is willing not only to forgive,
but to thank Speaker Reed, even though he has established a dangerous precedent.Now that the Telephone Supervision bill is killed for this year it is rather astonishing to see how the papers and legislators are coming out in favor of such a bill
another year. It is a very cunning dodge, and another year will find them pursuing the same tactics, opposing any bill that is presented, and then coming out in favor of supervision after all danger is over. In this way they keep "solid" with the Telephone people, and make the people believe (?) that they are not owned by any corporation.Boston and Cambridge would like to have Newton and other Middlesex towns taxed to help them build that West Boston bridge, although they once agreed to take entire care of it. Newton has bridges enough of its own to take care of, and it would be just as proper for Newton to call on Boston and Cambridge for help to take care of the Kenrick street bridge, for instance, as to ask us to help them out in this case.THE patriotism of the beer brewers does not seem to be ardent enough to withstand that proposed dollar-a-barrel tax, and they are organizing to fight it.A SPECIAL election has been ordered for May 24th to fill the vacancy in the board of aldermen and already several candidates are in the field.

Memorial Day.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—
Will you give space in your columns for a word in regard to Memorial Day and our Grand Army Men?Last year, if I remember rightly, the day was not fine, we had had rain the previous day and the streets were muddy, and Memorial Day itself was dark and lowery.
I remember that we saw the procession as it neared the cemetery gate, after they had had their march from Newton—and it seemed not right to me to have those brave
men, some of them quite along in years,
marching through the mud while younger men and those better able to endure the march were riding in carriages.My suggestion is this—if the city fathers
in making the appropriation for Memorial Day exercises feel they cannot have the expense of carriages for the City Officials and the Grand Army Men—our brave veterans—
will not some influential person start a subscription to raise a sum sufficient to furnish carriages for all the Grand Army Veterans?
I honor the veterans if they prefer to walk, if they would show the younger citizens that they are still ready to do their duty manfully and well—but should we allow them to use their strength and bear
the fatigue of the march, even if it is planned to make the route as short as possible?Will someone else say a word? This is but a suggestion, a thought that comes to one who honors our Grand Army Men.

Death of John Sturgis Potter.

Alderman John Sturgis Potter died Sunday morning at his home on Walnut Park,
after a severe attack of pneumonia, followed by Bright's disease. His illness was only of two weeks' duration and its fatal termination caused great regret. Mr. Potter was born in Boston in 1837, the son of John C. Potter a wealthy leather merchant, but his father removed to Newton
soon after, and built the handsome residence on Walnut Park, expending a large sum in laying out the grounds and making the estate one of the handsomest to be found at the time in the suburbs of Boston. He was known as the wealthiest resident of Newton, and his location in that section made it for many years the most fashionable part of the city. After his marriage to Miss Emily Woodward, Mr.
Potter occupied the house on Waban Park,
now the residence of J. L. Lawrence, but at the death of his father he moved to the family residence. He had one sister, Mrs.
Clarke, who died some years since.Then a young man he engaged in the boot and shoe business, and later was a member of the firm of Potter, White, Nute & Bailey. After retiring from this, he engaged in the electrical construction business, with headquarters on Commerce street, Boston, with which he has since been connected. He served as Councilman from Ward One in 1876, and also in 1897, and last fall was elected alderman-at-large from the ward. He has always taken a great interest in city affairs, and in public improvements, and it is owing largely to his efforts that the new parkway from Washington street to the Charles River was undertaken, and that section of the city made more attractive. He was a prominent member of Eliot church, and also of the Newton club. His home has always been one of the social centers of Newton,
where guests always found a generous welcome.He leaves a widow, one son and two daughters.
The funeral was held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from his late residence in Walnut Park. The officiating clergyman was Rev. W. H. Davis and Rev. Dr. Calkins. The pallbearers were Mayor Cobb, Alderman White, Col. I. F. Kingsbury, Mr.
Charles E. Eddy, Ex-Mayor Wm. P. Ellison and Mr. McKenney. There were present
a large representation of city government
members, city officials and friends.

Death of Daniel E. Snow.

Mr. Daniel Edwin Snow, a leading member of Eliot church, and one of Newton's representative citizens, died last Sunday evening at his residence on Waverley avenue, aged 71 years. He had been ill for nearly a year, though able to attend to his business duties until a month ago. At that time his condition assumed a serious nature, and since Mar. 17th, he had been under the care of physicians and nurses.
Death was due to Bright's disease.Mr. Snow was born in South Danvers, (now Peabody) Mass., Sept. 3d, 1826. He was the son of Mr. Anthony Snow, a well-known tanner of that place. He received his education in the public schools of South
Danvers, and shortly after his graduation, entered a dry goods store.At the age of 21 he removed to Boston to accept of a position in the Boylston National Bank. Since that time he has always been connected with that institution holding several offices. Six years ago he received the appointment of cashier, which position he held at the time of his death.In 1850 he married Miss Mary F. Blodgett of Boston, daughter of Mr. Luther Blodgett, one of the principal organizers of the Boylston National Bank.
Thirty-five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Snow removed to Newton, and since then formed a large circle of friends. For many years, Mr. Snow has held the position of treasurer of the Eliot church, and a trustee of the North Evangelical church. He was also identified with many philanthropic and charitable societies in Boston and throughout the state. He had been auditor of the American Tract Society for some time. He was a founder of the Boston branch of the Y. M. C. A., and had been connected with the Newton Y. M. C. A., since its organization.It is doubtful if the announcement of the death of any of its members has caused more general regret among the congregation of Eliot church than that of Deacon Snow's. As parish-member he has been held in high esteem, considered one of the most faithful church officers, and a prudent
and valuable leader among church workers.
In the Tremont National Bank, Mr.
Snow was regarded as a most trustworthy and reliable official.A wife, two daughters, a brother and sister survive him.The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the house, Rev. W. H.
Davis, officiating. Selections were given by a male quartet under the direction of Mr. W. H. Dunham. The pall bearers were Mr. Henry Endicott, representing the Tremont National Bank; Rev. Daniel Greene, representing the North Evangelical church; Mr. W. B. Hosmer, representing the family; Mr. John R. Fairbanks, representing friends; Mr. George C. Dunn, representing the Newton Y. M. C. A., and Mr. B. F. Bacon, representing the Eliot Religious society.At the close of the services the body was taken to the Harvard cemetery at Peabody,
Mass., where the interment was made.

Newton Civil Service Reform Association.

The following circular explains itself:
The annual meeting of this association
will be held at the house of the secretary,
No. 84 Highland street, West Newton, on Monday evening next, April 25, at 8 o'clock
p. m.A series of attacks made in our State Legislature against the integrity of the Civil Service Law makes it especially desirable that our activities be renewed and extended. We are therefore requested to furnish the secretary with the names of any friends of the cause who may like to join our organization.We have no source of income except the annual contribution called for at this time,
and all members and friends are earnestly invited to forward subscriptions to the treasurer, H. E. Bothfield.

missioned officers.The order tells them also to be prepared for active duty at a short notice. The signal for calling the company together, is given by the ringing of the alarm bell, which is located at Armory hall, Newton.Already the officers of Co. C. have begun

Lassell Notes.

The Symphony party on Saturday evening, escorted by Dr. Gallagher.

Now that spring is making itself so pleasantly felt, the students take more frequently the opportunity to attend the Sunday services of Boston churches. A considerable number enjoyed this pleasure on Sunday last.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Wheeler of Auburndale, widow of the Rev. Mr. Wheeler, so long missionary to Turkey, gave a delightful parlor talk to the Lassell Missionary Society, her subject being the work of Miss Barnum in the missionary school at Harpoot. Since Miss Barnum is a Lassell girl of former years, the talk seemed very appropriate and was of unusual interest. She was in Turkey at the time of the massacres which so outraged the sensibilities of the civilized world. Miss Luella Houghton, president of the society, presided at this meeting.

On Wednesday evening the Instrumental Club gave a most enjoyable concert. Through the good offices of Professor Jos A. Hill, the able instructor in piano, and president of the club, Mr. C. A. Redway of the Virgil Practice Clavier school, Boston, entertained most pleasantly, the audience assembled in the gymnasium by rendering with spirit and expression an interesting program.

The club has given several very good concerts during the year, relying chiefly upon the talent of its own members on such occasions.

Mrs. Mary A. Clafin.

The death of Mrs. Mary A. Clafin, widow of the late Wilbur F. Clafin, brother of Ex-Gov. Clafin, which occurred this week at West Newton, is a great loss to all who knew her and to the community in which she lived. One of God's noble women, generous and kind, sharing her beneficence to all who were needy and always in sympathy with every good work which came to her knowledge. Many there are who will ever remember her kindness and her memory, precious to those whom she has befriended. Her life, so unselfish, seemed to be lived for others. During a six year's residence in Omaha, Neb., she made many friends who will sincerely mourn her loss. A hospital started during her stay there will always remain a memento of her generosity and support. Her death followed a long painful illness during which loving hands and hearts administered to her needs as best they could. Her life work is ended, but her memory will long live in many hearts. S. L. C.

There are many active members of the post who today are in excellent physical condition, and fully prepared for active service.

THE RED SLIPPER.

It was a clear, warm day in April, with just enough breeze to temper the ardor of the sun. Most of the ladies who had ridden from Pasadena had laid aside their wraps, while they wandered with their easels around Eagle Rock. This rock is a fantastic pile of long, gone ages, which raises its solitary back some 40 feet into the air from the valley to which it gives its name, and is situated about five miles from Pasadena. It is peculiar in that it is all alone at its post of duty, no other rock sentinel being near.

From one point of view the rock presents an obtuse angle, and upon either face is a cave hollowed out by the action of water or the labor of other natural means. At a little distance the caves have the appearance of the spread wings of the national bird; hence the name.

It is possible that the natural contour of the caves has been intensified by the chisel of man, as there is a legend that one or both of the cavities, at least the more accessible of the two, was once inhabited by an old recluse, but this seems to have been after the brigands and banditti, who early infested the country, had been compelled to retire.

On the summit of the hill is a venerable adobe, in a poor state of preservation, like the old and lamented missions of the church fathers, now so attractive to all true lovers of California.

The legends that hang about this spot are responsible for christening the adobe retreat Robbers' Roost.

The party in due time gained the summit and carried away either a flower or a stone as a memento of the occasion, one of the more susceptible members capturing a piece of the old adobe.

Returning home flushed with the harvest of the day's experience and filled with the magnetism of the sun, the company stopped at the house of a lady friend.

Before there had been much time for conversation a gentleman of the party, whose bright black eyes, dark complexion and raven hair betrayed a trace of the Andalusian blood, with courtesy bowed, handed the surprised hostess a piece of the old adobe, saying, "A memento of our outing, senorita."

The blue eyes of the fair hostess opened wider as she questioningly took the crumbling relic. She was a comparative stranger in California and had never been in the section visited by her friends during the day.

She held the piece of adobe in her hand for a few moments, when suddenly she started at present by exclaiming, "Oh! and immediately she half sank into a chair. Passing her left hand across her forehead, she said half dreamily: "What a fine view! Why, it is indeed peculiar! I see as readily and as easily as though I were upon the spot, but my eyes are closed. The sun shines brightly, and I see a little plastered house on a hill. A great wide porch surrounds the house, which makes it look like a great bird with wide-spread wings, for I seem to be looking down upon the roof." There was a brief pause, when she again exclaimed: "Oh, how dainty! How sweet!"

By this time all in the room had gathered around the speaker, who, half reclining, half sitting, in a large easy chair, seemed like one entranced.

For a moment the hum of voices seemed to disturb Miss Alice, and she hesitated, but lightened her grasp upon the piece of adobe. "Hush!" commanded the dark-eyed gentleman. "Be quiet." Then lowering his tone he said gently, "What is it, Alice?"

A deep silence fell upon the company, which was broken by Alice.

"Oh, I see such a beautiful creature!" she continued. "She is like a fairy, but surely a human being. Her dark eyes are large and luminous, with long, silky, dark and delicately arched brows. Her cheeks are soft and plump like a peach ripened by the sun. Her lips, half parted, reveal two rows of dainty teeth. She moves like the breeze, quickly, but softly. Now she stands at the edge of the porch shading her eyes with one of her hands, upon the long, supple, graceful fingers of which sparkle rare and precious jewels. Yes, she is Spanish surely. Her short, silken skirts rustle in the air, and she looks with every motion. Her beaded bodice is of black velvet and over her shoulders is loosely thrown a black mantilla. Her little feet are incased in a pair of slippers with high red heels. Now she turns. Her eyes sparkle like diamonds. Oh, she is gone!"

"Ah! Come back, come back!" he cried in grief, quoted the funny man in the corner, with a long drawn sigh.

"Bo still!" hoarsely whispered his neighbor.

Miss Alice drew one hand across her forehead, clutched the fragment held in the other and continued, scarcely noticing the interruption:

"There is a company of men in the front room, which extends across the entire house. They are seated around a long table, eating and drinking. They are dressed gayly like Mexicans or Spaniards, and all are armed. Queer looking knives and daggers are scattered over the room, and some one seems to have given an alarm, for many of them are scurrying to windows or loopholes in the walls commanding a view of the road, from which a cloud of dust is rising."

Another pause and then Alice said: "Everything is black. I see nothing."

There was a rustle in the room as some of the ladies shifted their positions, and a murmur arose, which was silenced by a quick, sharp glance of the dark-complexioned gentleman, who raised his forefinger significantly.

Once more silence, and after a few moments Alice resumed: "Yes, I see now. It is night and very dark, but there is a faint light. Yes, it comes from the flickering rays of a lantern which seems to be opened and shut alternately. It is beginning to rain."

"These are the forms of two or three men, black and shifting. They seem to be standing on the edge of a deep gorge or canyon, and behind them the outlines of the back part of the little plastered house seem wavering and unreal. The men have picks and spades. They are digging a hole. The lantern is now on the ground. Its light rests on a large box. They are dumping trinkets and jewelry of all sorts into the hole. Many of the rings and pins are set with rare, sparkling jewels. A flash of a knife and the blade strikes a man under the arm. He falls backward down the chasm. Ugh!"

With the last utterance a shudder shook the speaker, and she stopped. The conversation now became general and animated, followed by discussion more or less earnest, the opinion prevailing that there is something mysterious in psychometry deserving attention and more careful investigation.

Two of the gentlemen of the party were impressed by the words of Alice, and from the love of adventure and novelty decided to visit the old adobe upon a tour of investigation.

vestigation. Probably the stories current about "Robbers' Roost," some of which they had heard, had fired their imagination and given the color of probability, or at least of possibility, to the words of their lady friend.

But whatever the motive it is true that the men at an early day secretly visited the ruins with pick and spade and, selecting a spot which seemed to answer the description in their mind's eye, began to dig for the buried treasure. But no gold, no silver or precious stones rewarded them.

Their search was not entirely without result, however, for, much to their surprise and delight, they unearthed the remains of a dainty slipper with a high heel, which, to their heightened imagination, was red.

Contenting themselves with the trophy, they returned to Los Angeles.

Some days afterward one of the men carried the slipper to Long Beach, at which place he had been informed, lived an ancient Mexican who was familiar with all the old legends of southern California.

He found the man to be a veritable patriarch, as wise as he is old and as gentle as he is wise, for he still lives, and, if rumor is to be credited, he will soon round the century post without signs of impending dissolution. But while the venerable Mexican was willing to speak he could talk but little English.

An interpreter was found, and with many digressions quite an interesting story was woven with the threads of memory and suggestion.

The aged man took the slipper carefully and tenderly. He examined it minutely, now brushing away some specks of dirt and now stroking it caressingly. He turned it over and over, especially examining the sole and the threads which in places still held it to the "upper." He remained silent a long time, but his thoughts evidently were busy.

"Yes, it is so, senor, the turn of the sole is the same. It was made by Mexican hands about the time I was a lad. It was probably worn by the divine senorita—she for whom more than one gallant has braved the ponchar and, as I believe, more than one has found an untimely grave on the mesa or in the canyon, for the jealousy of Morilla was quick to kindle and the reapings of his wrath as sure as the rising of the sun. Forthwith the piece of a duel, but all alike felt the descent of his vengeance. He was as handsome as the prince of darkness and twice as wicked, as graceful as the doe and as brave as the lion, cunning as the fox and wise as the serpent, chief of the marauding band that once held this section in fear and trembling—fear for their flocks and gold, trembling for their women—and yet, strange as it may seem, many were the acts of courtliness and generosity which the sometimes bowed upon the unfortunate and desolate. The "Robbers' Roost," to which I refer, was the last stronghold they possessed in their neighborhood."

"The senorita whose slipper you have found was said to be the niece of Morilla; but, I doubt not, they bore a more tender relation to each other. The senorita was as beautiful as the dawn and as proud as a queen. Her word was law with the robbers' chieftain."

"As the robbers grew bolder the situation grew more aggravating to the settlers. Still the Americans kept coming, the town kept increasing in population and as the city grew the settlers pushed more upon the ranches until at last the ranchers determined to declare war upon the banditti, thus stopping the predatory incursions. But it was a long time before any headway was made. Law was slow to make its way into the deserts, where the mountaineer was as much at home as the wild game, and he poised upon the peaks as secure as the eagle in itserie. Many times and oft the settlers organized search parties, but old Father Time was a better marksman than the Americans."

"One by one the bold outlaws fell a prey to their own passions, and, weakened by internal dissensions, they were driven farther into the mountains."

"One day in April the last remnant of the band was surprised at a cañon in broad daylight. Several of the banditti were killed and the divine senorita captured and held as a hostage. The settlers knew that Morilla would return if the maiden remained in the vicinity, so they lay in wait. In about a month he did return at night and, tying his horse in a eucalyptus grove, ventured into the adobe, which was guarded."

"He was taken prisoner, and without more ado a lasso was placed around his neck, the intention being to trample and drag him to death at the heels of horses. Providence ordained that he should meet his death otherwise. Morilla possessed a fine horse, a graceful, sensitive, nervous animal, fleet, but strong. His dappled, glossy coat was like silk, and his delicate neck, slightly arched under the restraining bit, indicated his fiery disposition, yet he was tractable to the firm hand of his master. Morilla loved his horse almost as much as he did the senorita, and it was of his horse that he thought when he saw his impending doom. He asked the privilege of a farewell caress of his beast. The men of that day were as fond of their horses as of their wives, and, appreciating the animal, they gave the desired permission. Morilla stroked and patted the velvet nose of his steed, and the horse gave evidence of almost human intelligence. At last Morilla threw his arms around the horse's neck, and drawing the animal's head downward, whispered something in his ear. Almost instantaneously the horse rose on his hind legs, and at the same time Morilla swung himself into the saddle. The horse fought like a demon, pawing the air with his fore feet, which were shod with light, but sharp shoes. Several men fell before his wild assault."

"In an instant he had broken through the crowd of armed men. Then like an arrow from a bow he shot down the steep road. The baffled ranchers were desperate and all pitted before their hot anger. They shot the horse under the rider, and Morilla's neck was broken by the fall."

"There was great rejoicing in the country at large because of the fall of the dreaded chief, but more than one heart was sad. People whom he had befriended mourned his departure."

"Tears stole from the eyes of the ancient man and trickled down his swarthy cheek. He was silent; then he slightly raised and gently stroked the slipper which he had retained in his hand and continued: "The senorita died young. Her heart was broken, and here you have brought me her slipper. Well, I, too, will soon pass beyond."

JUBILEE CONVENTION

HUMILIATION TO WHICH THE EARLY PIONEERS WERE SUBJECTED.

The Thirtieth Anniversary of the First Woman's Rights Convention Has Just Ended a Six Days Session at Washington.

The thirtieth annual convention of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association, which has just closed a six days' session in Washington, has been a notable gathering in many respects, and one which they may well call the hearts of the early pioneers with pride and rejoicing, they have been "the observed of all observers," the pride of the convention.

It has been a grand jubilee week in honor of the 50th anniversary of the first woman's rights convention ever held in the world, and also the 78th birthday of Susan B. Anthony, the honored president of the National Association and one of the early pioneers in the movement.

It was a great disappointment that Mrs. Stanton, the woman by whose brain the organized movement was planned and who was its impelling power for nearly half a century should be prevented from participating in person in the jubilee triumph, which is really the commemoration of her life work. Mrs. Stanton is in her 84th year, still in good health and in full vigor of her mental faculties, but sight has failed and she could not attend unless accompanied by one of her children, which was not possible at this time. Mrs. Stanton, however, sent a masterful address upon "Our Defects and Our Triumphs," which was read by Clara Bewick Colby.

When we contrast the position of women fifty years ago, when there were but seven occupations open to them and educational institutions were closed against them, with the present, when in almost every field of human activity, women are actively at work and with women sitting in the halls of legislation, the change seems marvelous and the outlook for the speedy emancipation of women from the prejudices of the past hopeful.

In these days of freedom, when hard by an occupation is closed to women, girls cannot understand the conditions of 50 years ago, when only seven occupations were open to women. Mrs. Stanton in speaking of the causes which led to this convention 50 years ago says: "Many events in my childhood, which I will not pause to relate, turned my attention to the laws and customs oppressive to women, but the impelling motive to action was the treatment of the women in the World's Anti-Slavery convention held in London in June, 1840. Societies from all countries were invited to send delegates. As American women had taken an active part in the Anti-Slavery struggle, and belonged to all the societies, some of them were sent as delegates, but were denied seats in the convention after the question was discussed one entire day. As silent listeners to masculine interpretation of laws and Bible the women delegates passed through a severe ordeal that day. Insulted and indignant they accepted the enforced silence, never to be forgotten nor forgiven by those who understood the depth of their humiliation. There sat women who were leaders in society, literature and reform, there sat Lady Byron, Mrs. Hugo Field, Mary Howitt, Amelia Ople, Elizabeth Fry, Elizabeth Pease, the wife of Wendell Phillips, our own Lucretia Mott and many other highly educated women, compelled to listen to the platitudes on woman's heaven ordained sphere. The opposition was led by English ministers. Those in favor of the admission of the women were George Thompson, Wendell Phillips, Henry B. Stanton, Geo. Bradburn, Daniel O'Connell and Wm. Lloyd Garrison. Garrison was claiming at sea, but upon learning that women were denied seats in the convention he refused to take his seat, and as a silent spectator in the gallery, watched the proceedings for twelve days in which he had come thousands of miles to participate. He said he demanded freedom for the slave because he was a human being and equal liberty for woman for the same reason. I never felt so insulted in my life, though I was not a delegate, I was a woman and appreciated the humiliation of sex on that occasion. The arrogant manner in which the clergy, Bible in hand, claimed God as their leader in this persecution, was as insulting to the deity as exasperating to women. Walking to our hotel, arm in arm with Lucretia Mott, I said, 'As soon as we return home we must call a convention to discuss the slavery of women.'

Soon after the return to America Antonette Brown, who had been ordained a minister in the Congregational church, was sent as a delegate from her church to a temperance convention of ministers and leaders. For two days and a half her admission was fought over and when she was finally allowed in, to clinch it her supporters gave her ten minutes in which to address the convention. As she went to the platform that body of good men broke into hisses and cat calls. For ten minutes, her allotted time, she faced a storm of hisses. For three long hours, until it was time for the convention to adjourn, she stood and in vain tried to speak a word. The reverend gentlemen continued their storm of hisses without cessation."

That was the last straw and Mrs. Stanton and Mrs. Mott determined to secure freedom for their sex. Seven women met at the residence of a Quaker in Waterloo, N. Y. The new papers of the day characterized their meeting as "a crime against social order," they said, "seven old maids had met to express their discontent that the Lord had created them women."

The facts were that all the women were happily married with families of children, with the exception of the two young daughters of Mr. McClintock at whose house the first meeting was held. A declaration of independence was formulated which demanded for women the right to earn her own living, the right to own property, the right to education, the right to speak in meeting, the right to sit in convention on an equality with men, and finally, after a struggle, a suffrage plank was inserted.

The demands of those women have all been won after many battles, except

HOSPITAL AID ASSOCIATION.

SPECIAL MEETING TO EXAMINE PLANS OF NEW BUILDINGS—INSTITUTION WILL BE PLACED ON AN EQUAL FOOTING WITH ANY SUBURBAN HOSPITAL IN THE STATE.

Some 150 members of the Newton Hospital Aid Association gathered at the Nurses home on the hospital grounds, Wednesday afternoon, at a special meeting held for the purpose of examining the plans for the new children's ward, surgical wards and operating theatre now in process of construction. Mrs. N. Emmons Paine, president of the association, presided, and near her were seated Secy Mrs. Heckman, Mayor Henry E. Cobb, Dr. Horace Packard, staff physician of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital, Dr. Bradford of Boston, and Dr. Frederick L. Thayer of West Newton.

After brief introductory remarks by the president, Dr. Thayer, in the absence of Mr. D. R. Emerson, chairman of the building committee, outlined the plans of the new buildings. These are to consist of an operating theatre, two surgical wards, and a children's ward. The dimensions of the former will be 18 by 20 feet, and will be directly connected with sterilizing and recovery rooms. The furnishings will be of the most approved pattern and up to date in every respect. Near at hand will be found quarters for the surgeons. The rooms will be so arranged to accommodate 20 beds including an isolation ward for dangerous cases.

On the other side of the main building will be the children's ward. The basement will contain a spacious play room, and the ward will provide room for 8 beds. Facing the street will be a sun room. All the buildings will be constructed of brick at a total cost of about $40,000.

The operating theatre is the gift of Messrs. Haskell and Emerson, the surgical wards are donated by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, and Mr. Mellen Bray, the children's ward by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denison, the corridors and subway which will connect the buildings, by Mr. E. L. Packard. The surgical wards will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 each, the corridors $50,000, and the subway about $25,000.

Dr. Packard spoke at some length on the progress of surgery, during the past 25 years. He also gave an interesting account of his work at the Homeopathic hospital, and the many other ways in which the surgical wards and operating theatre. He estimated the cost of equipping the theatre of the Newton hospital at less than $1000. The Newton hospital, he said, occupied a position unequalled by any suburban hospital in the state in the amount and character of its work and in the faithful services of its corps of nurses.

Major Cobb briefly remarked on the value of the institution to Newton and the excellent progress made in its work.

Mr. A. K. Pratt paid a fitting tribute to the services of the aid association in connection with furnishing the Nurses home, and in many other ways. He was followed by Dr. Bradford, who gave an interesting account of his work in children's wards of the Boston hospitals. At the close of the meeting, $250 was pledged for furnishing the new building by the Ladies Aid Society of the West Newton Unitarian church, and $100 by the Woman's Guild of the West Newton Congregational church. The hospital buildings were then inspected by those present.

TUFTS DEFEATED IN 11 INNINGS.

NEWTON PULLS OUT AHEAD IN A LONG GAME AT HOME.

Newton won from Tufts on the Cedar street grounds, Tuesday afternoon, in a 11-inning game.

It looked like a win for Tufts up to the ninth inning, but in Newton's half Dowd got three runs on a combination of luck and good stick work.

Both teams showed their lack of training and neither pitcher was effective.

THE CORNER-STONE LAID.

MANY PREACHERS AND LAYMEN ATTENDED THE CEREMONY AT MYRTLE BAPTIST CHURCH IN WEST NEWTON.

Impressive exercises marked the laying of the corner-stone of the new Myrtle Baptist church at West Newton, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The ceremony was attended by over 400 people, from many of the Newton and other churches.

The formal services were opened with a number of songs by members of Boston choirs and the reading of scripture by the Rev. J. C. Jaynes of the West Newton Unitarian church. Prayer, offered by the Rev. Charles Fitzpatrick, was followed by brief remarks by the Rev. Charles S. Morris, pastor of the church; the Rev. W. H. Eaton, D. D., secretary of the Massachusetts Baptist convention; the Rev. E. P. Burtt, the Rev. T. P. Prudden, D. D., the Rev. J. W. Mullins, D. D., New York Centre; the Rev. B. W. Harris, Boston; the Rev. L. A. Montague, Boston; the Rev. William H. Davis, D. D., Eliot church, Newton, and others.

The corner-stone was laid by the Rev. Alvah Hovey, D. D., LL. D., president of the Newton Theological Institution. Under the stone were placed several coins, copies of the Boston and local papers and church records.

The old church was destroyed by fire, Sept. 23, 1897. When it was determined to rebuild, the pastor told the amount necessary, and suggested that no solicitation be made from general friends on the outside until the church had done everything it could do to help itself. Twenty members pledged themselves to pay $50 apiece. From this start, nearly half of the debt of the old building was provided for. The cost will be $5500 in all.

High School Entertainment.

The entertainment given Saturday evening, April 16th, at Temple Hall, Newtonville, by members of the High School, for the benefit of the new school library was a brilliant success and reflected much credit on all concerned. The musical features as given by the Newton Mandolin and Guitar Club were excellently rendered and called out much applause.

Mayor Cobb showed his appreciation of the efforts of the young people in a well chosen address. In the comedietta "None so Deaf as Those Who Won't Hear," the situations were mirth provoking and Mr. B. S. Stevens, as Mr. Coddle, won much applause by his natural rendition of a deaf old man. Miss Eddy, as his daughter, Egline, was very good and Miss Howard as Jane Smith, the servant did good work, likewise Mr. Brown as Washington Whitwell.

Mr. C. E. L. Clark and Mr. George W. Prattas the college chums, in the comedy of the evening, "The Cool Collegians" were especially good and kept the house in a roar of merriment. The ladies' parts were very well taken and showed great care on their part. Miss Glover as the aunt, was especially good and likewise Miss Childs as the cousin and Miss Proctor as the mischief loving guest. The servants' parts were also well taken, especially that of Miss Holmes whose brogue was excellent. The High school orchestra furnished the music for the dancing afterwards.

The entertainment was under the management of Mr. C. E. L. Clark, the stage of Mr. Stevens and the plays of Miss Twombly, who deserve great credit for the entire program.

At 6 o'clock the visitors enjoyed an elaborate spread, after which the regular business of the convention was resumed, with the following order of exercises:

Praise Service.
Conducted by Mr. Geo. K. Somerby, Boston.
Scripture Reading, Rev. C. S. Nickerson, Newtonville.
Prayer, Rev. Robert Webb, Needham.
Solo, Selected, Miss Jessie Inman.
Address, Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

Dr. Clark claimed that it was the duty of young patriots in the present crisis to be thoroughly informed, and to accept the opinion of no mere partisan as to the issues of right and wrong in the approaching conflict. That it was the duty of young patriots to be supremely guided by conscience, to make a national conscience if it does not already exist, to foster it and keep it tender, if it does exist. The speaker commended most heartily the wise, patriotic and conservative course of President McKinley, and said, moreover, that he believed that our congressmen and people as a whole, though they might differ on minor particulars, were governed by high and patriotic motives in this crisis, and that if war was undertaken, not because of influence on this particular party or that, but because it might make bonds, but only for humanity, justice and right, God would bring out good out of all incidental evils.

Speaking of the war, Dr. Clark said, "The Maine," he asked, what does this slogan mean? Is it a cry of revenge and hate? Is it meant to inflame a too excitable nation? Is it the skillful watchword of a party that is right or wrong demands bloodshed and retaliation? If so, it is earthly, sensual and devilish. It is the watchword of the Father of Lies and all evil passions. If, however, it means "Remember the faithful, devotion and patriotism of the sailors of the Maine, remember that they gave their lives for their country, and be willing if necessary to die in the same good cause." If it means "Remember Jencks and Rushworth and Milesport and the other Christian sailors, who fell at the post of duty, never ashamed to own their Lord; if it means all this, let us cherish it and utter it, and be guided by it in our actions. The noble men who lost their lives in Havana would be the very first to say, "Forget the Maine if it means hate and pagan revenge, but remember the Maine if it means patriotism, humanity and duty."

An address followed by Rev. Kerr Boyce Tupper of Philadelphia, after which there was a benediction and the delegates dispersed. The visiting delegates took the opportunity to inspect the churches, the Free Library and the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The ringing of the Grace church chimes before the services made a pleasant feature.

NEWTON CLUB.

As the season nears its close interest in the members' whist tournament does not diminish in the least. Saturday night's competition was one of the best and most largely attended of the season. Thirty tables were used, and play was in progress from eight to ten, when the prizes were distributed as follows: 1st, C. B. Coffin; 2nd, Cook and Hickey; 3rd, Phipps and Proctor; 4th, Smith and Merrill; 5th, fourth. The usual lunch followed the whist.

Saturday evening a musical entertainment will be provided for club members with an unusually attractive program.

The attendance at the opening game of the baseball season with Tufts, Tuesday afternoon, was gratifyingly large. Notwithstanding the weather nearly as many spectators watched the game as turned out on the best day last season, and the crowd was unusually warm in its support of the nine. The nine started off well by winning its first game from such a scrappy aggregation as Tufts, after such a splendid up-hill fight, and the sharps, who were able to get a line on the work of the club, predict that it will make a splendid record after it gets into shape.

Monday evening the club whist players again vindicated their claim to be placed in the top rank of local sharps. A match was played between eight of the club players and eight picked whist experts from the Harvard University whist club, and resulted in a win for the Newton men by a net score of 13.

Wednesday night's whist and ladies' night was the last of these popular entertainments for the present season, and was an unqualified success. In addition to the large number of whist players, who were present, and took part in the formal entertainment, many members and their friends took advantage of the evening to enjoy the other entertainment features afforded by the open house. Play was in progress at 8 tables from eight to ten, when supper was served. The prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. E. A. Ellis first, Mrs. J. C. Elms second, Mrs. M. O. Rice third, Mrs. L. E. Coffin fourth, Mrs. W. F. Foss fifth, Mrs. G. H. Talbot sixth, Mrs. W. H. Foss seventh, Mrs. A. F. Cooke eighth.

Revolutionary Graves.

The recent anniversary of Patriots' Day reminds us of the resting places of those Revolutionary heroes, and as the time is near at hand for the decoration of such graves, the Newton Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, desires to make another request of the citizens of Newton for any information regarding unmarked or unidentified graves of soldiers of the Revolution.

Communications should be sent to the Registrar, John W. Brown, Newtonville, who will also gladly furnish a list of the graves already marked upon request.

GOLF ON PATRIOTS' DAY.

LOCAL CLUBS OPEN THEIR LINKS FOR THE SEASON.

In spite of the unfavorable weather Tuesday, the courses of the various golf clubs in Newton were formally opened. There were fewer ladies present than usual, but on the whole the day was crowned with success.

The Brae-Burn Club at West Newton opened its grounds, but no tournament was held, the club not having quite completed its arrangements for the season's play.

A new one-story cottage of pretty design is being erected on the grounds for use as a clubhouse. It is proposed to change the numbering of the holes and make the holes an average distance of 350 feet apart. Among those to play on the grounds during the day were H. L. Ayer, George Frost, George Phelps, Daniel Noyes, C. J. Travel, Joseph Chase, Mrs. H. L. Ayer, Miss Margaret Phelps, E. F. Woods, Frank Fennessy, Arthur Howland, S. Robinson, Gordon Noyes.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE.—Mr. Stuart Robson has achieved a noteworthy success in Augustus Thomas' latest play, "The Duck-Ins," at the Tremont Theatre. His engagement will be followed on Monday next, 25th inst., by the appearance of Miss Ada Rehan, whose fame extends wherever the English language is spoken, and who is universally acknowledged as first among living American actresses. She will appear in connection with Augustin Daly's celebrated company in an admirable selection of plays during the coming season. Throughout the first week she will offer one of her most delightful impersonations—Peggy in Wycherly's famous old comedy, "The Country Girl," in which she will have the assistance of Mr. Richmond, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Varrey, Mrs. Gilbert and other well-known players of the Daly organization. In connection with this comedy will be presented a novelty in the form of a fascinating little Japanese musical play, called "Lilli Tse," which is said to combine the wit and melodiousness of "The Mikado" and "The Geisha," with a charming love story, set in scenery even more picturesque than that of either of these familiar works. During the second week of the engagement Miss Rehan will appear in four of her most celebrated roles—Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal," Rosalind in "As You Like It," Ariadne in "Love on a Clue," and Katharine in "The Taming of the Shrew."

After Scarlet Fever

Little Boy Was Left Weak and Delicate—Scrofula Bunches Appeared on His Neck—Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured and Made Him Strong.

"When my little boy was 18 months old he had scarlet fever, which left him weak and delicate. His skin was blue and transparent, his appetite was poor, and scrofula bunches appeared on his neck. A severe cold always left him with a cough. Having given Hood's Sarsaparilla to an older child for canker with the best results, I concluded to try it in this case. In a short time the glands of his neck diminished in size. He took three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gave him a good appetite; the blue tint left his skin and he is as strong as any boy of his age." Mrs. GEORGE M. CLARK, 552 Chestnut Street, Lynn, Mass.

—Hawaiian annexation has been forgotten in the overwhelming interest attaching to the Cuban crisis. But while Cuba has thus for the time being, displaced Hawaii in popular thought and in congressional discussion, the two subjects are very closely related and to an extent interdependent. In view of this fact, the lecture by Hon. Gorham D. Gilman, Consul-General for New England from Hawaii, at the M. E. church next week on Friday afternoon, is most timely.

—The fire alarm on Saturday morning last at about 4 o'clock, was on account of a fire in the private stable of Mr. George S. Bryant, on Forest street, which was used for a workshop and storage. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss on the building is estimated at about four or five hundred dollars, and the contents about two hundred dollars more. Partially insured. The fire department are entitled to much credit in managing the fire, so that the surrounding property was injured but slightly.

—The operetta of "Golden Hair and the Three Bears," which was given in Lincoln hall last Thursday night and repeated on Saturday afternoon, was a very novel entertainment, and proved very successful, both artistically and financially. The audiences were enthusiastic over both the singing of the young actors, which surprised their friends, and also the good result of their training in stage action. There was not an instance of prompting, and the performance, from beginning to end, went off with a smoothness which one rarely sees in a company more advanced in years and experience. With such good voices in the chorus, the soloists appeared to even more advantage, and acquitted themselves to the satisfaction of all their hearers. Miss Amy Susmann, as Golden Hair, showed much skill in both acting and singing, and surprised many by the sweetness of her voice, and ease with which she used it. "Ye dainty maid" Louise Bird, Ruth Peckham, Helen Mansfield, Karleen Forbes, Alice Reese, and Mildred Levi, in prominent parts, sang well and looked charming, many of them showing much promise for future singing. The duets between Amy and Lightfoot were especially well rendered, as were also the solos of the Will O' The Wisp. Mr. Theodore Wood, Master Charles Saville and Master Elliot Robinson, as the bears, brought down the house, and covered themselves with glory. Their singing was very good and their acting capital. Tiny Cub showed a soprano voice of unusual merit, and gave his solos with much spirit. The young actors were assisted by Mr. W. L. Crosby of Boston, who impersonated the bard. His solos, though simple, to suit the other music, were rendered in a smooth, sweet manner, and with perfect ease gave the director of the entire opera, and had charge of training both chorus and soloists in action and singing. To her, therefore, belongs much credit for the success of the performance. Miss Carrie E. Crane presided at the piano very efficiently. There is a rumor of a juvenile "Euterpe" being organized as a result of this most successful production. The proceeds, which were to have gone to aid the poor of the island in Cuba, may on account of the war, be devoted to some other deserving children's charity, such as the "Floating Hospital" of Boston.

—Rev. T. W. Bishop will preach at the Methodist church next Sunday morning and evening. All are welcome.

—A resident of this section told the police of division 3 last Sunday morning how he had been held up about midnight at the corner of Elliot and Oak streets, and relieved of his money. Officers were at once detailed on the case and after several hours' work, were unable to locate the highwayman. The money, which he thought had been stolen, was later found on his person, and his watch, he remembered, had been left in Boston.

NONANTUM.

—Two successful entertainments have been given by the church workers of the North church to help pay the running expenses during the winter. The following gentlemen spoke, taking these topics: Rev. C. E. —Owing to the sad bereavement in the family of Col. and Mrs. A. A. Pope, the invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Margaret R. Pope, and Mr. Freeman Hinckley of Chestnut Hill, which was to have taken place in Trinity church, Wednesday evening, were recalled. The wedding took place at the home of the bride, 378 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The Rev. Louis Pope of Newburyport, a brother of Col. Pope, officiated. There was no attempt at floral decoration, and what would have been one of the most brilliant events of the season was in a few hours converted into a most quiet affair.

—With the best wishes for the future health and happiness of their comrade, Mr. Benjamin M. Thorne, and his bride, the members of engine company 1 of the fire department with a few invited guests sat down to an elaborate spread in the rooms of the engine house on Washington street, last Friday evening. The party of gentlemen had gathered in response to Mr. Thomas' cordial invitation, and the affair took the form of a celebration of his marriage to Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, which occurred Wednesday of last week. Being unable to be present, Mr. Thomas entrusted the duty of entertaining the guests to Engineer Frank Judkins, Drivers Ben Tripp and Frank Cleton, Capt. Horrigan and Foreman Barrows. That they fulfilled all required of them, was keenly appreciated by the visitors, who thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality of their hosts. After the desires of the inner-man had been gratified cigars were lighted and speeches were in order. Every one of the speakers extended his congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, referring to the groom's popularity and worth as a member of the company. —There are no signs yet of that stairway from the Centre street bridge down to the station, although the people are unanimous in demanding it. It is rumored that a prominent railroad official has promised that if the company only waits long enough the city would build it. One would naturally think that a railroad company would make their stations as accessible as possible, instead of the reverse.

—Now that the Centre Place bridge driveway is finished, it would seem to be feasible to have the approaches on either side graded and the bridge opened, and the matter is referred to the street commissioner. As the cost of widening the street was included in the bill for removal of grade crossings, perhaps the work might also be done and the street put in some kind of order for teams and pedestrians.

Young People's Meeting at 6.30 p. m.

—The musicals given at the Hunnewell Club hall, Wednesday evening, for the benefit of the Nonantum Industrial School, was very successful, as are all the entertainments gotten up by the Society Science Club. The hall was filled with a very appreciative audience, and as it was in the nature of a social affair, the hall presented a very attractive appearance. The artists who appeared were Mr. W. H. Holbrook, soprano, Miss Ellen Beale Newhall, piano, Mr. William Holmes, flate, Mr. Clement Bouve, cello, and Mrs. H. E. Morey, soprano. After the program, the hospitality of the club was extended to the audience, and the invitation to inspect the handsome rooms of the club was accepted by all present.

—For some time past the police of division 2 have been looking for a man who has been frightening and insulting women on and near Washington street. Late Saturday evening Patrolman Good, while patrolling Washington street near Jackson road, heard a woman's cries, and at once hurried toward the corner of Jackson road, from whence they came. He found that a young woman had been insulted, and when she repelled the advances of the man, assaulted with an umbrella. Patrolman Good gave chase to her assailant and in a few minutes captured the fellow. He gave his name as Angelio Vignone. Monday morning he was sentenced to three months in the house of correction and appealed.

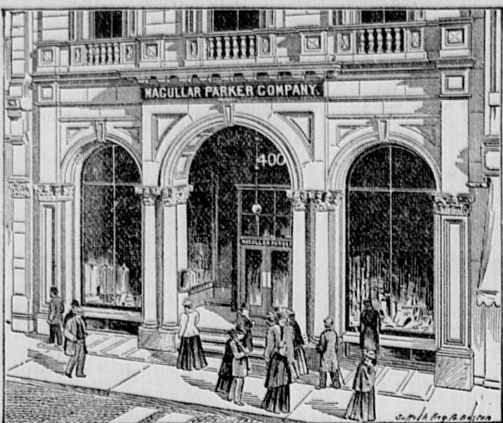

—At the home of Col. Alex. M. Ferris a very pleasant dinner party was given on Wednesday evening, a courtesy shown the National Officers of the General society Daughters of the Revolution now visiting in Boston. Covers were laid for sixteen, prominent among them were Mrs. Henry Sanger Snow, president General of the society, also Mrs. L. Holbrook, secretary General with Mr. Holbrook, Mrs. Charles F. Roe, state regent of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. West, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Wood and others. E. H. Heston were received from Mr. Snow, also Major General Charles F. Roe of New York, who being practically under marching orders, found it impossible to leave the state. ### NEWTON CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATION, ELECTION OF OFFICERS AND SEC-RETARY'S REPORT.

At the annual meeting of the Newton Civil Service Reform Association, held April 25th, the following list of officers were elected:

President, Rev. Henry Lambert; vice-presidents, C. B. Filibrown, Ward 1; F. A. Dewson, Ward 2; Nathaniel T. Allen, Ward 3; Edwin B. Haskell, Ward 4; Edwin P. Seaver, Ward 5; Joseph R. Leeson, Ward 6; Wm. P. Ellison, Ward 7; directors, R. L. Bridgman, D. C. Heath, T. B. Fitzpatrick, Geo. E. Gilbert, F. E. Raymond, Geo. H. Ellis; treasurer, H. E. Bothfield; secretary, James P. Tolman.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The following report was read by Secretary Tolman:

The past year has been a trying one for friends of the merit system of filling places in the public service. Although the laws are generally more readily acquiesced in by appointing officers, and the advantage to the service gained by making competitive selection is more freely recognized than formerly, the political applicants and their sympathizers are becoming more and more alert and expert in devising legislative methods of changing the laws, or securing exceptions from their operation. We are thus reminded that the need for organization and work has not yet passed. Civil Service Reform has come, and has come to stay, but we are still called upon to defend our advances, and to repel the destroyer.

In the national administration President McKinley has supported the law vigorously by his words and acts, notably by his order of July 27th forbidding removals except for cause stated, with an opportunity for hearing. In places outside the protection of the law, he has, however, made a number of appointments for political reasons, of persons so notoriously unfit or unworthy, as to greatly detract from the credit due him for making generally admirable selections.

Most of the cabinet officers have well supported the law, and have shown commendable zeal in aiding the extension of the merit system to the selection of employees for promotion.

It is much to be regretted, however, that Secretary Bliss of the interior department, who is a man of business training, and the head of large industrial enterprises in his own state, should so far subordinate his public duties to his views of party necessity as to sacrifice the interests of our wards, the Indians, by making purely partisan changes in the service. His attitude toward the Civil Service has been both unenlightened and unexpected.

The most radical disregard of the announced principles of the administration, and of the reasonable expectations of the public, has been in the state department, where there has been a looting of consular posts, greater in extent than which disgraced the Cleveland administration, and worse in character. Josiah Quincy at once made an effort to select appointees who should dignity and elevate the consular service, and though his appointments were made for party reasons, the attempt was made, and was largely successful in helping the business interests of the country by the selection for consuls of persons with business training and adaptability. Judge Day on the contrary has made selections of notorious and ridiculous unfitness, contenting himself with knowing that his appointees were the party label, and not hesitating to sacrifice the business of the country for the sake of giving party rewards.

Of our 330 consuls 228 were changed in the first year of the administration, and of the 102 unchanged, 50 were Republican hold-overs retaining their positions throughout the Cleveland administration, and but 52 were Cleveland appointees.

It would seem as if in France, where preparations are already far under way for the International Exposition of 1900, the need of trained and experienced consular service were so great that every efficient representative of the country would be retained. Yet of our 15 consular offices in that country all but one have been changed, and with possibly a single exception consuls ready to aid and advise, he finds all the consulates in the throes of disorder, and the incumbents trying to acquaint themselves with duties which can only be acquired with an experience of two or three years.

One of our townsmen, Mr. Charles W. Shepard, late consul at Calais, is the latest to fall under this system. Although he has made a most excellent record, and has brought order and honesty, where before there was disorder and fraud, he has been sacrificed to give political reward to a lawyer who rendered services to Senator Fairbanks in Indiana county politics. With no apparent qualifications this man is put in charge of our interests at a station whose exports pay the United States $8,000,000 in duties.

In writing of this appointment Senator How says in a private letter, "I do not like the changing the service whenever parties change. So long as that is our policy we shall have the poorest, as we should have the best service of any commercial nation in the world."

When the practical head of the state department will so blindly and recklessly sacrifice our commercial interests, may we not well hesitate to trust his guidance in the less obvious courses of public affairs, and regret that our delicate relations with the Spanish power might not have fallen to the care of someone of longer and clearer vision.

In Congress a "dead set" has been made to discourage the merit system and restore the spoils distribution of offices in the public service. The movement has been championed chiefly by Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio in the house, and by Dr. Gallinger of New Hampshire in the senate. These men in their efforts to raid the service have not hesitated at misstatement and misrepresentation. It is a gratifying tribute to the operation of the reform methods that their efforts have met with so little success. A drag-net investigation started in the senate nearly a year ago, for the purpose of discrediting the system, has been prolonged to the present time without finding any serious defects in the competitive method, and all testimony seems to confirm the public recognition of its value to the service, and its fairness to the individual.

In Massachusetts our high-minded and clear-thinking governor has been a most helpful friend of the reform.

The legislature has been the scene of continued raids, and it is, perhaps, a cause of congratulation that no more serious evil results have been accomplished. A bill for the exemption of messengers, which came near passing last spring, finally failed. Several bills for exemption of members in fire departments passed, but they were of local significance and affected very few persons, and were practically inoperative, except in the case of the bill putting a premium upon back door admissions to the Boston fire department. This bill the governor vetoed in terms which has had some effect of calling a halt upon the movement.

In New York State, Gov. Black's bill for taking the starch out of the Civil Service passed a year ago. This scheme for frustrating the requirements of the constitution which relied upon making a division of the examinations into two kinds, one for "merit" and one for "fitness," has thrown the public service into great confusion, and has practically driven from the lists of applicants all whose reliance lay in their qualifications for the duties to be performed. It has become generally recognized that a new reform must be made by our neighbors.

In Illinois, by increasing the number of exceptions, great injury has been done to the service and great injustice to applicants for appointment.

In view of the continuous raids upon the ground heretofore attained by the Civil Service Reform, it behooves all public spirited citizens to diligently oppose movements tending to the foisting of incompetents into the service, or making other qualifications than character and adaptability the determining ones for entrance to and promotion within the public employment.

I therefore beg that our organization may have the continued interest and support of its members, and of additions to its numbers and influence.

Horatio Parker's "St. Christopher."

(New York Evening Post.)

It is pleasant to record that the prospect of hearing a new dramatic cantata by an American composer attracted the largest audience of the Oratorio Society's festival week to Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon. The applause, too, was all that the most ambitious composer might have desired. Prof. Parker occupied a box, and was compelled after each part to get up and acknowledge the enthusiastic applause, in which the chorus joined the audience.

Prof. Parker was previously known favorably, especially through his choral work "Horo Novissima." The dramatic cantata "St. Christopher" is of a more ambitious nature. The text was written for him by his mother, Mrs. Isabella Parker, who has shown literary skill and ingenuity in building up the plot. It tells the story of the giant Orferus, who offers his services to King Oriens, mightiest of monarchs. When he finds that this monarch is afraid of the fiend, he goes over to Satan as a mighty master. And when he finds Satan trembling before a cross, he leaves him in turn and becomes a convert to Christianity.

A hermit, who turns out to be the former King Oriens, instructs him in the rites and tenets of Christianity; he is taken into the cathedral and finally asks how he can serve the church. The hermit replies: "Yonder is the river, deep and rapid, where many cross in danger. Build thee a hut upon its banks and carry them through the floods." He does so, and it comes to pass that he carries over a child, who becomes heavier and heavier with every step, almost submerging him in the stormy waters. Then the chorus announces, "Know, O mortal, thou hast borne in thine arms the Holy One, Christ, and the sin of the world. Christopher be now thy name."

There are plenty of opportunities for dramatic effects in this plot—more, indeed, than the composer has utilized. His talent does not seem from this work to be of a dramatic cast. The roles of the King, Queen, the Hermit, and Orferus are not especially individualized; nor are the solo parts as a rule melodious or "graceful," yet the singers—Mme. Juch, M. T. Van Yox, Franzon Davies, and Ericsson Bushnell—labored with them successfully on the whole. Much more satisfactory are the choruses and the orchestra score. There is a delightful buoyancy and sweep in the prologue, which is almost as impressive as the superb prologue of Boito's "Mefistofele." There are also some splendid choruses in the cathedral scenes. The orchestration is modern and varied without being obtrusive. The cantata has the merit of brevity; it last only two hours.

The Rev. W. H. Weaver, pastor of the U. B. Church, Dillsburg, Pa., recognizes the value of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and does not hesitate to tell others about it. "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," he says, "and find it an excellent medicine for colds, coughs and hoarseness." So does everyone who gives it a trial. Sold by E. F. ### SINGLE TAX CLUB.

NEW ZEALAND NATIONAL TAX ON LAND VALUES $4 PER $1000.—LOCAL OPTION FOR MUNICIPALITIES PASSED IN 1896—300 BRITISH BOROUGHS PETITION PARLIAMENT FOR LOCAL OPTION.

The forty-second regular meeting was held on Monday evening at 230 Bellevue street. The chairman reported having spoken on the Religion of the Single Tax before the Brotherhood of St. Andrew at St. Matthews Episcopal church, Broadway, So. Boston, on Thursday evening the 21st inst., with most encouraging fruits.

The principal attention of the evening was devoted to the headway now being made by the Single Tax in New Zealand, an advance which is much more pronounced than has heretofore been appreciated here. Mr. Filibrown rehearsed some of the principal statements made by two merchantmen from that country, Mr. George Fowlds and Mr. Wesley Spragg, who recently spent a few days in Boston on their way around the world. These gentlemen addressed the Twentieth Century Club at its weekly lunch, and were given a warm reception on Tuesday, Patriots' Day, by the members of the Massachusetts Single Tax League at the rooms of the Womans' Journal Office, Park street, Boston.

According to Mr. Fowlds, the Australian colonies and especially New Zealand, have been always a fruitful home of experimental legislation. Some of the experiments made in direct opposition to the Canons of Orthodox Political Economy having proved fairly satisfactory, the people are more inclined to try the application of a new theory than are the people of older and more conservative countries. In New Zealand the teachings of Sir George Gray, one of the brightest products of the Victorian Era, doing the increased increment in land values justly belongs to the people, had prepared the public mind of the colony for the ready acceptance and early application of the principles so clearly defined and forcibly advocated by Henry George.

In the year 1891, the first definite step was taken in the direction of Single Tax and consisted in the levying of an annual tax of $4 on every $1000 worth of land value (exclusive of improvements) that is, nearly 1.2 of one per cent. or in other words 1.12 of the 5 per cent. rental value. The effect of this first instalment of natural and scientific taxation was found to be so generally beneficial, that after six years trial it was agreed in 1896 to augment it by passing a local option law, giving to cities, municipalities and all other rating authorities, power to levy the whole of their taxes on the unimproved or site value of the land alone. This system has already been adopted in six or eight districts with the most beneficial results. In those districts where the Single Tax has been adopted, a tax equal to $14 or $15 on every $1000 worth of land value is found to be sufficient for the local tax ($10 or $11) and the national tax ($4 on the $1000) of the effects on the general prosperity of the place have been most marked, notwithstanding the fact that no alteration has been made in the tariff taxes which have always been less than in the United States.

It has operated in two directions which make for progress. First, it has tended to eliminate the speculative value from the land, and there is no longer any incentive to hold land out of use, has increased the tendency to make improvements, and thereby provide steady work at remunerative wages for the workers, and secondly, the fact that the Single Tax has been adopted, has put a stop to every improvement he makes to the city, is a further inducement to build and improve, the benefits of which are felt by every section of the community.

Mr. Fowlds also pointed out the effect of this system of taxation has been to increase the general prosperity of the people, to provide more regular employment at greatly increased wages, and to give a fair distribution to the workers of the land. He is an ardent believer in the teachings of Henry George, and he thinks his country will finally solve the social problem by a gradual and complete adoption of the Single Tax. Every student of Social Problems will admit that New Zealand the railways, telegraphs and telephones are owned and operated by the state, and that in all ways a state department of Life Insurance, Mr. Fowlds has a very effective reply to this contention in the fact that these public services were in the hands of the state for 20 or 30 years before the change in taxation was made, and almost immediately after the change was made, the tide turned and is now flowing in at about the same rate.

Other experiments such as granting equal voting rights to the colored population on the liquor traffic are working very satisfactorily. Among the proposed reforms embodied in the Radical Programs of the country are the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum, with proportional representation. Mr. Fowlds is strongly of the opinion that local option in taxation, as in other matters, will be the method of solving many existing evils and as showing the growth of the idea, points to the city of Glasgow and 200 other British Municipalities, who have petitioned Parliament for power to levy their taxes on site values alone.

While there is universal suffrage, including women, for the general parliament, the vote for local bodies is still restricted by "tax-paying" qualifications which leave large power in the hands of the real estate owners.

In further evidence of advance was cited the Municipal Council of Glasgow, which today has a majority of 22 out of 75 members in favor of tax on land values alone. Also the 300 British Boroughs which with Glasgow in the lead have petitioned Parliament for option to tax site values exclusively.

The next meeting will be held at 230 Bellevue street, Monday evening, May 9, at 7.45 p. m. An address will be made by Mr. James R. Carret, Single Tax Lawyer and Conveyancer, of Boston. Mr. Carret will take for his topic, "The Use of the Earth a Necessity to all Men."

The Ancient and Honorable.

(From the New York Sun.)

Nothing has been heard for two weeks from the Ancient and Honorable artillery company. Are these brave men making their preparations in silence with the idea of taking Spain unawares? Or did they depart for the front unnoticed?—Providences Journal.

Not with bayonets and bankers do they fight, but they stand on guard at Parker's, day and night. Boils their martial madness whooping, as the corks are wildly popping; steady, steady, without stopping, stand they on that glorious guard. Boston, eager and expectant, sees them at their task, uncertain, those old heroes, seamed and scarred. And a grateful city raises hymns and carols of its praises, calling stark Helona's daisies: "O A. and H. A. C. renowned on land and sea, come, bid the foe to flee! With the cockerow and the fork, make Thrust and Famine stalk, and fight while Thou can walk! Forward, Parker's perilous pass, charge on the forts of glass, and put 'em down on wax!"

CHIEF RICHARDSON RETIRES.

OWING TO CONTINUED ILL-HEALTH VOLUNTARILY RESIGNS FROM THE HEAD OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Chief Charles F. Richardson of the police department Monday afternoon forwarded his resignation to Mayor Cobb. The document is now on file in the executive's office awaiting the consideration of the police committee.

The resignation is entirely voluntary and is caused by the continued ill-health of the chief. The announcement will be received with the deepest regret by the entire city. Chief Richardson has long been one of the most popular officials of the city, and is universally respected and admired both as an official and an individual. To the members of the department his resignation will be a severe loss.

For the past eight months Mr. Richardson has been at his brother's home in Lowell, suffering from a severe illness, and his resignation is forwarded to the mayor for the reason that he feels that the probable slowness of his recovery will prevent him from attending to his duties for some time.

Chief Richardson was born in Lowell Aug. 27, 1844 and came to Newton in '66. He soon after became a member of the fire department, serving for nearly 10 years as driver. He was appointed a patrolman in 1875, and five years later had earned a promotion at the hands of Mayor Alden Spence to the rank of sergeant.

On Jan. 17, '87, he became captain, the office being created for him, and on July 2, '88, was appointed city marshal.

This position he has since filled with distinguished ability, becoming chief on the adoption of the new charter last year.

He was for a number of years assistant clerk of the Newton police court, and is generally regarded as an able lawyer as well as a brilliant police official. He was for eight years vice president of the Massachusetts chiefs of police association.

As head of the Newton department he commanded the force used in quelling the riots among the Boston water works laborers, and later those of the Italian laborers employed by James Killen of Brighton on the Newton sewers. Among his notable arrests were Thomas Manning, highway robber; Myron Dollen and Irving Williams, safe breakers; and Charles W. Williams, the noted horse thief.

The department under his direction has more than trebled its numbers, and has now reached a high degree of efficiency. Much of the success of the campaign against kitchen barrooms in Newton is due to the able efforts of Chief Richardson. As the head of the department he has had the entire confidence of his official superiors.

He is generally looked upon as a public servant of exceptional ability.

HIS PROBABLE SUCCESSOR.

Chief of Police Fred A. Tarbox of Fitchburg, Mass., has been offered the position of chief of the Newton force by Mayor Cobb and will probably accept.

Chief Tarbox has been at the head of the Fitchburg department for three years, coming there from Biddeford, Me. He has been one of the most popular chiefs that the city has ever had.

Death of James Henthorn.

Mr. James Henthorn, the veteran police official, died about midnight, Monday, at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. He had been ill for several months suffering with heart trouble, and had been a patient at the hospital for about four weeks. Previous to entering the institution he was confined to his home on Charlesbank road, Newton, under a physician's care.

There was perhaps no better known or more popular police officer in the state than Mr. Henthorn. His friends numbered almost thousands, his large acquaintance proving a great aid to him in performing his official duties.

Mr. Henthorn was born in the North of Ireland 58 years ago. When a young boy he came to Newton with his parents. Soon after his arrival here he entered the public schools, and after his graduation worked with his father, who at that time was a well known stone mason. During this time Mr. Henthorn was a call member of the soldiers' regiment. Later he took the position as driver of a steamer.

Twenty-three years ago he received his appointment as a police patrolman in this city. For fifteen years he performed faithful and efficient service. The remainder of the time with which he was connected with the department, he was detailed in other parts of the city. The last four years of his service he occupied the position of inspector with rank of a sergeant.

During the administration of Mayor Fenn, he was reduced to the ranks. Four years ago he resigned, and entered the employ of the law department of the city, where he was connected with City Solicitor Slocum's office until his final illness.

In this capacity his services were valuable. His death will certainly be felt as a great loss to the city, as his wide experience and ability in detective work made him especially well qualified for the duties with which he was entrusted. A son survives him.

REAL ESTATE.

SALE OF THE CLAFIN ESTATE.

Former Mayor Henry E. Bithfield of Newton, on behalf of a syndicate, has purchased all the property belonging to the Clafin estate to the north of Hunnewell avenue, comprising about five acres of fine land, with three dwelling houses. It is the intention of the purchasers, who are the same parties who bought the Bartlett estate, on the same avenue, last fall, to develop the land at once. Grasmere street will be extended to the north, and a new street laid out parallel to it just to the east of the most easterly of the houses now on the estate. The lots will contain from 7500 to 10,000 square feet each. Joseph B. Simpson of Simpson Bros., is to take about 20,000 feet of this land, including the site of the old mansion, and fronting on Hunnewell avenue, and on this lot he will build a fine house for his own use.

ON WEST NEWTON HILL.

Ground has been broken for a new house on Putnam street, nearly opposite Winthrop street, which is to be owned by Dr. Wells, now occupying the Stewart house on Mt. Vernon street. He purchased from Lucius G. Pratt, a lot 75 feet front by about 150 feet deep, at a price understood to have been 30 cents a square foot.

MRS. PINKHAM TALKS ABOUT "CHANGE OF LIFE."

Women are Urged to Prepare for this Wonderful Revolution in the Economy of Their Life Blood—Mrs. Watson Tells How She Was Helped.

At no time is woman more liable to physical and mental dangers with hours of suffering than at the "Turn of Life." The great want in woman's system is ability to properly adjust itself to the new conditions. The outlet, monthly, of blood is now being diminished and carried into the body for the supply food of its later years.

Daughters, you can now to some extent repay your mother's early care. She must be spared every possible exertion. You must help her bear her burdens and anxieties. This critical time safely over, she will return to renewed health and happiness. That so many women fail to anticipate this change thus happily, is owing not merely to lack of care, but to ignorance. There is, however, no excuse for ignorance when experienced advice can be yours free of all cost. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., she has helped great numbers of women successfully through the Change of Life, and she will help you.

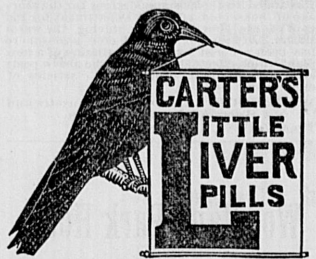

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best tonic for uterine changes. It works harmoniously upon all these overwrought organs, invigorates the body and drives off the blues.

Read this letter from Mrs. DELLA WATSON, 534 West 5th St., Cincinnati, Ohio. "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I have been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time during the change of life, and it has been a savior of life to me. I can cheerfully recommend your medicine to all women, and I know it will give permanent relief. I would be glad to relate my experience to any sufferer."

ON BEACON HILL.

WHY THE TAXATION COMMITTEE VOTED AGAINST EVERYTHING THE TAXATION COMMISSION RECOMMENDED—THE MALDEN AND WEST BOSTON BRIDGES—THE WAR FEELING AT THE STATE HOUSE.

(Special Legislative Correspondence.)

Beacon Hill, April 27. As the nation has suddenly been plunged into war, there is rather intense rivalry between the legislative and executive departments as to which shall have the greater share of public attention. The Governor comes to his desk early and stays late. Capt. Hamlin is no longer permitted to spend his time undisturbed, while attending to the duties of his position as executive secretary, but has to share his quarters with anyone from two or three to ten newspaper men, who are waiting for something to drop. It drops pretty often. The general opinion is that we have a man at the helm who is amply able to keep up the traditions of a war governor and it was not strange at all the Massachusetts got the first regiment of militia into the field, the First Heavy Artillery. Secretary Long must, also, have thanked his stars for the work of Massachusetts a few years since in establishing a naval brigade, for her example was followed by other states and now we have some men to man the auxiliary war ships.

Amid all these rumors of war the committee on taxation has labored faithfully on, and on Monday it reported. Now that it is all over I can speak of an incident which happened a couple of weeks ago. A man who is closely identified with the movement for the exemption of "intangibles" came to me with a clipping from the Newton GRAPHIC's legislative correspondence, in which it was stated that the entire taxation committee, with a single exception, was understood to be against the report of the taxation commission. He inquired if I thought the statement true. I told him it was carefully guarded, and that I could not vouch for its absolute correctness, but it came from a reliable source. "Well," said he, "I think you are wrong." The committee reported adversely on every proposition of the taxation commission, with a single dissenter out of its membership of thirteen, Mr. Dean of Wakefield. So Newton people can see that their senator, the chairman of the committee, succeeds in doing about what he sets out to do. I was told many weeks since that he was determined to secure a unanimous report from the committee, one way or another. On the very morning the report was put in, it was gone over, and several changes made to meet the position of Mr. Dean, but unfortunately, he refused to come to the meeting of the committee, or to sign the report. He was in sympathy with the committee, he tells me, on the main issue, that is, he was against the extension of foreign stocks from taxation. The committee reported adversely on the commission's bill to lay an inheritance tax of five per cent on all real and personal property. Mr. Dean believed in such a tax. He proposed, at a different method of dividing back the corporation tax, so that places like Newton, for instance, should not get as much or more of the same than the great manufacturing cities, being apparently unable to grasp the theory which the state has put in practice for many years, that the places where the mills stood should have the real estate tax, and the places which furnished the capital the corporation tax.

The people who are disappointed by the report are naturally giving all sorts of reasons why a committee which was supposed to be made up in a way which was agreeable to them, in fact some of the names were suggested by them, should have reported unanimously against their main proposition. One explanation offered was that the governor hinted that he desired an adverse report in order to shorten the session. Senator Harwood tells me that the committee received no suggestion from the governor nor anyone else, but based its findings on its convictions. There was a pretty definite idea that acting on the views of Commissioner McNeil, who dissented from the commission's report, and perhaps of Commissioner Barcus, who opened his explanatory statement by why he signed the majority report after dissenting from its conclusions by the ancient hymn,

"Lo, on a narrow neck of land,
Twixt two unbounded seas I stand," etc.

The committee would report a bill to make more effective the present laws in relation to the taxation of personal property, but this is not the intention, though the committee will report a bill in relation to the election or appointment of assessors, to secure a greater permanency of tenure, and consequently better results.

I think everybody expected Senator Harwood to be judicial and unprejudiced, but there has been a good deal of surprise at the position of Hon. Chauncey Washburn of Worcester, for he was expected to be in favor of the exemption of foreign stocks when the pinch came. He is interested in the great Washburn & Moen company of his city, which is to be incorporated under a foreign charter, and while he was known to be thoroughly honest, it was thought he would stick to the interests of his company, as a matter of conviction. The bills have been assigned for debate in the house next week, when Mr. Washburn will be given a chance to show what he can say in defense of his unprejudiced position. It is believed that the adverse report may shorten the session at least two weeks.

The Malden bridge bill has passed the senate and is now in the house calendar, though in a new form, providing for a width of 70, instead of one hundred feet, and still containing the provision that it shall be built by the city of Boston. President Smith, who lives in Everett, made a good fight for it. The West Boston bridge bill is assigned for tomorrow, and one of the points which will be discussed the most is a motion to strike out the provision that a portion of the expense shall be met by Newton, Watertown, Somerville, and other cities and towns. Representative Pickard can be depended upon to make a good contest for the amendment.

Mr. Hayward's committee had a mild throw down yesterday, when the house substituted two bills for adverse reports of the ways and means committee. One provides for the dredging of an anchorage basin at Green Harbor in Marshfield, and the other for a channel from Osterville bay to Vineyard sound. The first was substituted on the ground that it would settle a controversy regarding the dyke at Green Harbor which had been raging for years, the other because the channel would be of great benefit to shipping which might be chased by Spanish cruisers during the war. The committee's adverse action was supposed to be caused by its feeling that we should need our money for war purposes. It was an inspiring sight when the First Regiment was reviewed by the governor before its departure for Fort Warren, yesterday. Everybody thought of the days of '61.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

Messrs. D. Appleton and Company's April announcements include The Standard Bearer, an historical romance by S. R. Crockett; Studies of Good and Evil, by Prof. Josiah Royce, of Harvard University; Outlines of the Earth's History, a popular study in physiography, by Prof. N. S. Shaler, of Harvard University; A French Volunteer in the War of Independence, by Chevalier Porteband, with frontispiece; Political Crime, by Louis Proal, with an introduction by Prof. Franklin H. Giddings, of Columbia University, a new volume in the "Literatures of the World Series"; The Incidental Bishop, by Grant Allen; The Lake of Wine, by Bernard Capes; A Trooper of the Empress, by Clinton Ross; Harold's Rambles, by J. Troeger; On the Farm, by F. W. Parker and Nellie L. Helm, and News from the Birds, by L. S. Koyser, three new volumes in Appleton's Home-reading Series; a new enlarged edition of A History of the United States Navy, 1775-1895, by Edgar Stanton Maclay.

A French Volunteer in the War of Independence, by the Chevalier Porteband, is the title of a volume of historical and personal reminiscences full of romantic interest, which is to be published immediately by D. Appleton and Company. This entertaining book is a distinct addition to the personal side of Revolutionary literature, and it is peculiarly valuable because of its presentation of American life and of the others of the republic as seen by a French visitor. The hero's stormy youth and his adventures and varied career give his reminiscences an intimate interest rarely to be found in historical fiction, while his historical value is obvious. His recollections include his association with Washington, Hamilton, Burr and other conspicuous figures.

Of Dr. Richard Garnett's New History of Italian Literature the London Times says: "Excellent as have been the books in the 'Literatures of the World Series,' none is better than Dr. Garnett's work. Every new book produced by this modest scholar fills us with wonder at the extent of his information." This important work is issued immediately by D. Appleton and Company.

"The Animal World," compiled and edited by Frank Vincent, A. M., is a reading book of zoology. The selections are not only instructive but very entertaining, and they will be sure to arouse the most intense curiosity on the part of the young reader. New York: D. Appleton & Co.

"A Forgotten Sin," a novel by Dorothea Gerard, is a story of love entanglements, in which a wrong done a woman appears later in the life of him who committed it, like the ghost of an aggrieved ancestor. The book possesses a certain fascination that persists in holding the attention till the end is reached. New York: D. Appleton & Co.

The announcement is made that, during the war with Spain, Harper's Weekly will be represented at the front by a brilliant staff of artists and correspondents. Rufus E. Zogbaum, Frederic Remington, Carlton T. Chapman, W. A. Rogers, and others have been engaged to follow the movements of the navy and the forces in the field. Among the Weekly's special correspondents will be John H. Sears, with the North Atlantic fleet now stationed at Key West; O. K. Davis, with the Flying Squadron; and Harold Martin, who, from headquarters at St. Thomas, will follow the progress of events in the West Indies.

THE MAY ATLANTIC.

The May Atlantic opens brilliantly with Hon. Richard Olney's (late Secretary of State) timely and trenchant discussion of the International Isolation of the United States. This policy, originating naturally from our geographical situation, was impressed upon the nation by Washington, and has always been adhered to since his time. Mr. Olney suggests that the changes of recent years in world relations may necessitate changes in this time-honored policy. John T. Morse Jr.'s history and summary of the Dreyfus and Zola trials is complete and searching. In Psychology and the Real Life, Prof. Hugo Munsterberg discusses the rise and objects of psychology. Prof. Mark H. Liden writes of English Literature and the Vernacular. Bradford Torrey completes his charming episode of Spring in Virginia. Ainsworth R. Spofford, late Librarian of Congress, begins his fascinating Washington Reminiscences with vivid sketches of Peter Force, the famous historian, and Wm. P. Fessenden, Secretary and Secretary of the Treasury. Prof. T. J. J. See reminds us how comparatively recent has been the exploration of the southern hemisphere. In Western Land Booms and After, Henry J. Fletcher describes the rise and growth of the great Western land speculations some time since, their subsequent collapse, and the lessons to be learned from them. The Battle of the Strong continues to increase in power and interest. Mrs. Ellen Olney Kirk furnishes a charming and characteristic novel, entitled A Last Appearance. Other short stories and sketches, poetry, including a stirring ballad by Henry Newbolt, an English poet, and the Contributors' Club complete a notable and entertaining spring number. The Atlantic for May contains a group of four poems, two of American and two of English authorship. These are: "The Last of the West," by William L. G. East Side Considerations, by E. S. Martin; Varallo and the Val Sesia, by Edwin Lord Weeks; Some Byways of the Brain, second paper, by Andrew Wilson, M. D.; University Life in the Middle Ages, by Professor W. T. Hewitt. The number also contains the fifth installment of Henry Seton Merriman's novel, Roden's Corner, and the second of the series of Old Chester Tales, by Margaret Deland. The short stories of the number are: How Order No. 6 Went Through, by Frederic Remington; The Bishop's Memory, by Marguerite Merington; Old Silas's Clem, by Paschal H. Goggin; The Thunder-Thief, by Golett Burgess; and A Birthday Poem, by Robert Stewart.

HARPER'S

Harper's for May has special features: "Awakened Russia" by Julian Ralph; The Trans-Isthmian Canal Problem, with map, by Colonel William Endlow, U. S. A.; East Side Considerations, by E. S. Martin; Varallo and the Val Sesia, by Edwin Lord Weeks; Some Byways of the Brain, second paper, by Andrew Wilson, M. D.; University Life in the Middle Ages, by Professor W. T. Hewitt. The number also contains the fifth installment of Henry Seton Merriman's novel, Roden's Corner, and the second of the series of Old Chester Tales, by Margaret Deland. ## SCRIBNER'S

In Scribner's for May Abbe Carter Goodloe represents the college life as it exists for girls in "Undergraduate Life at Wellesley," giving the social side of life there. Vassar will be described by Miss Sherwood in the June number, and Smith by Miss Fallow in July; both articles will be richly illustrated. The love story of Prince Kalony and the American heiress comes well to the fore in Richard Harding Davis's serial "The King's Jackal." In this installment of "The Workers of the West," Mr. Wyckoff pays a high compliment to the average policeman as an efficient aid to the poor man in time of trouble. "The Burgeoning Campaign and Its Results" are the subject of this chapter of Senator Lodge's "Story of the Revolution." "The New Reporter," by Mr. Williams, described a series of vivid incidents, which make a reporter with a nose for news out of a young college graduate. How the young man feels about it, is the burden of the story. How the negroes were paralyzed with terror by the first outbreak of the Ku-Klux is described in the May installment of "Red Rock," by Mr. Page. A. B. Frost pictures some of the pleasures and humors of bicycling in six full-page drawings. Kenyon Cox and Russell Sturgis tell what Photography has done for Art.

Lassell Notes.

The Symphony concerts lose none of their popularity with the girls as the season draws near its end. Perhaps in this case, as often in other cases, the value of the advantages derived from these concerts is more clearly seen and better appreciated as the period of their continuance shortens. The concert of Saturday evening drew the usual dozen of students to Boston, Miss Hotchkiss escorting.

Another rainy Sunday was the occasion of a chapel service April 24, instead of the usual church services. Dr. Gallagher preached.

With the spring term, comes in again basket ball, in which games the teas are very enthusiastic and alert. Tennis must wait awhile till more sunny days shall make it desirable, and of the present weather conditions the Canoe Club will hardly care to take much exercise on the river.

On Wednesday evening a party to the Cecilia concert, Dr. C. W. Gallagher escorting.

Dr. G. W. Gallagher, formerly president of Lawrence University, of Appleton, Wis., and later president of Maine Wesleyan Seminary, at Kent's Hill, Me., has accepted the associate principality of Lassell. Dr. Gallagher brings to his new position a large experience, thorough scholarship, broad culture and fine manners, and will be great acquisition to the well known seminary, whose career has taken a backward step in twenty four years. The patrons of Lassell will feel assured that the interests of their daughters will be yet more carefully looked after, and will not suffer during Principal Bragdon's brief enforced absence from Abundant.

Of a man employed as a candy maker at Machias, Me., one of his friends relates: "I have known him for years and until very lately I always heard him complaining about his food distressing him, and feeling more or less badly about all the time. His work naturally keeps him confined a good deal, and he has very little chance for exercise. Lately, having heard less complaint, I thought I would call and see to what he credited his improvement. He said: 'For years I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia. At times I would be dizzy and my head very dull, especially after eating. Then I would have distress and palpitation, caused by gas in my stomach from food fermenting. The only thing I could find that would give me any relief was soda, and from that I got no lasting benefit, but of late I have struck it rich. My employer directed my attention to

THE TAX COMMISSION FIASCO.

In view of the adverse report of the Taxation committee upon all the petitions for taxation legislation, it is instructive to recall the history of the agitation for some reform, the necessity for which is admitted on all sides.The agitation has been going on for some six or seven years, without any definite result, and last year's legislature decided to appoint a commission to consider the whole matter, and report early in the present year. The best expert service to be found was employed on the commission,
the question of taxation had such a consideration as never before in this state, an exhaustive report was made, and now the committee, after weeks of deliberation, report adversely on all the work of the commission, and the whole thing ends in a melancholy fizzle.It is certainly an eloquent commentary on the value of expert work, if we assume that the taxation committee is composed of hard-headed and hard-hearted business men, who are not to be taken in by any more or less visionary expert opinions,
from men who have little practical knowledge or sensible opinions to offer. If the commission was composed, however, of men skilled in the law and who gave practical recommendations, then it becomes a sad thing for the taxation committee.One or the other body of men is at fault, and the reader can make his own choice, but the whole thing has its ludicrous
as well as its surprising features, not the least of which is the taxation committee's recommendation to have another commission amuse the people and keep the agitators quiet, by considering certain phases of the question, and make another abortive report next year.The committee took the ground that the report of the special commission ought to stand or fall as a whole, and as every member was against the habitation tax and the inheritance tax, they decided against the whole scheme. Possibly also they did not think it their duty or they did not feel competent to work the report over and make out a satisfactory scheme for themselves. Modesty is always commendable, and it looks as though we should have to get along with the present faulty and unfair system of taxation until the adoption of the single tax solves all such troubles.

A GRADED SYSTEM.

At the hearing on the petition for the increase of pay of city laborers to two dollars a day, the recommendations of Ex-Mayor B. Thfeld struck many people as well worth serious consideration, and they have been referred to a committee of the aldermen, who may propose something of the kind.Mr. Bothfield said that if a maximum rate of two dollars a day were established, either the employees who had grown old in the service would be dropped, and possibly might have to be helped by the city, or if they were retained, the service would become so inefficient that there would be a general demand to have city work done by the contract system, where sentimental considerations do not rule in the hiring of cheap Italian and other laborers. The question was whether it was to fix the maximum rate of two dollars per day, and then grade the pay of the men according to their ability. This would allow of the older men being kept employed, doing such work
as they were able to do, and making them independent and self-supporting.Mr. Bothfield, while a city official, favored such a system being introduced, and the graded system seemed to strike the aldermen very favorably, judging from the comments that were made upon it. It is also an eminently business-like method, and removes the question of the rate of payment
from any connection with city politics.
The city laborers will also favor the system,
as it makes their positions and income
more secure, and prevents a man being discharged as soon as the years begin to tell upon him.The wonderful war revenue bill, which provides for an elaborate system of stamp
and other duties, which will be very costly
to carry out, is said to have been dictated
by the Sugar trust, which has determined tariff legislation heretofore. A simple tax on tea and coffee would have raised more revenue than all these trifling and vexa-tious stamp duties, and could have been collected without any expense to speak of,
but the sugar trust has lately gone into the coffee business to down a rival, and having been caught short of coffee, while its rival has a large stock, it ordered the tariff re-visers not to put coffee in the war revenue
bill. This is the explanation given in commercial circles, and it seems a reasonable one, as such a complicated and difficultto collect revenue bill would not have been drawn up without some powerful motive.At the annual meeting of the Newton Civil Service Reform Association, the secretary, Mr. James P. Tolman, made a brief but comprehensive review of the work done for and against civil service reform
the past year. It is given in another column and shows that the spoils system is still triumphant, especially in the appointment of foreign consuls and agents of this government. It is hardly to be wondered at that foreigners have such a low opinion of Americans, as they can only judge from the "heelers," whom our political bosses force the president to reward with an office.THERE is one member of the cabinet whose efficiency in this crisis no one doubts, and that is John D. Long of Massachusetts. As for the others, they are probably doing the best they know, and the country is disposed to be charitable, although it is rather surprising to see an unknown back-country Ohio lawyer made secretary of state, when other presidents in time of peace have considered that only the ablest men in the party were capable of filling such a position.WE have had a generous slice of weather out of March this week, and with the rain and the rough north easter, the bicycle and golf cranks have about concluded that life is hardly worth living. Hopes of an early spring are pretty well faded, but warm and pleasant weather will surely come if we wait long enough.The resignation of Chief Richardson will be learned of with regret, as every one hoped that he would have been able long before this to have returned to his duties
here. He has been a very valuable official and it will be difficult to fill his place.
His successor has been appointed.

The Pomroy Orphan Home.

The last year, 1897, was the first during the twenty-five years since its foundation
that its income was less than its moderate expenses, forcing its treasurer, Hon. Arthur C. Walworth, to draw upon its invested funds. The contributions were but little in excess of one-half of those of 1872-3, when Newton was far smaller in population and wealth than at present. This ought not to be. With Mr. Andrew S. March, Mrs. J.
Sturges Potter, Mrs. Henry M. Bates, Mrs.
George S. Harwood, Mrs. Sarah L. Tour-
jee, Mrs. Winfield S. Slocum, Miss M. E.
Worcester and Miss A. M. Whiting as directors, elected annually by the corporation, comprising over fifty men and women, representing every portion of our city and nearly every Protestant religious society in Newton, (the Romanists preferring to care for as they do, their own destitute children), its economical management is assured. In order to replace the depleted investment fund the board desires twice the sum contributed last year.The directors believe that our orphan and destitute girls will not be forsaken by the good women of Newton. These will be called upon by young women solicitors
who have kindly volunteered to work for the good cause. Let the several religious societies respond, as they undoubtedly will.

Funeral of James Henthorn.

The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church, Newton. Rev. C. E. Holmes, pastor of the church officiated. Music was furnished by a quartet of mixed voices.
There were many handsome floral tributes including a pillow from the police department.Those present included City Solicitor

State Boards of Health.

The quarterly meeting of the Massachu-

held at the Woodland Park hotel yesterday, the members being the guests of Mr.
Geo. H. Ellis of Commonwealth avenue.
Dinner was served at 1 o'clock, to which seventy-five gentlemen sat down, and after the dinner there were some brief but entertaining speeches.The quarterly meeting of the association followed, and after his customary note by pauy took special cars for Wauwatt Farm,
to inspect the handsome barns and spacious bed-rooms of Mr. Ellis's prize cattle.

Hastings' Studio.

Thoroughly appreciating the demands of an increasing patronage, and with the express desire to offer his customers none but the most artistic and satisfactory work,
Mr. George H. Hastings, the photographer, has found it necessary to enlarge his studio in Sargent's block on Centre street. To properly complete these extensive improvements several important changes in the upper portion of the building are being made and several rooms have been taken to give the added space. The former entrance at 354 Centre street is to be closed, and patrons will enter at 348, or north of Hahn's drug store. A stairway leads from the street to the handsome new reception room, which is elegantly furnished. This room measures 18 x 22, and is connected with the operating and finishing rooms. Leading from the reception room is a pretty alcove, hung with beautiful draperies. This is to be used exclusively for the display of special work. Here will be hung the orders of patrons who wish to view them

FROM SARATOGA.

Diabetes can be cured, and 999 will tell you it cannot, and they were right a year ago, but times have changed since then. The only known remedy for Diabetes is Lincoln Spring Water from Saratoga. If you do not believe it, take the first train and go to Winchester, Mass., and ask Alexis Cutting what he thinks about it, and he will tell you he doesn't think anything about it, but that he knows it has cured him. Mr. Cutting is seventy years old, and is to-day the happiest man in the State. Read his testimony below:TO THE LINCOLN SPRING CO.: WINCHESTER, MASS., Sept. 11, 1897.
I wish to add my name to the list of your testimonials, and as a patron, to the most wonderful mineral water of the age. For twenty years I have been afflicted with Diabetes.
At times it so exhausted me that I was hardly able to walk about. I have been obliged during these years to get up from eight to ten times a night. I tried all sorts of remedies, but received no help until Aug. 21, 1897, when I bought from you my first case of Lincoln Spring Water. I had not drunk the water but a short time before I could see a general improvement in my health. I have now used three cases of the water, and find no difficulty in sleeping throughout the whole night without getting up once. It gives me great pleasure to attend to my business, as my renewed health gives me strength and happiness. I would not be without the water if it cost me $50 a case. Respectfully yours, ALEXIS CUTTING.Ask Mr. Henry A. Smith, an Insurance man, what he knows:
Read his testimony below:LINCOLN SPRING CO., 47 Cornhill, Boston. STONEHAM, MASS., Jan. 26, 1898.
Gentlemen:—About the first of August, 1897, I met my friend Mr. Alex. Cutting of Winchester (an old acquaintance), and invited him to have a glass of Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water at your parlors, 47 Cornhill. I had drunk of the water frequently, only because it was delicious and exhilarating. On my return from vacation I was informed that Mr. Cutting had called at my office (room 441, Exchange Building), and knowing I had been troubled with diabetes urged my daughter not to fail to have me order a case of the water, as he had been cured of that terrible disease by its liberal use. From such testimony I was induced to order a supply, and after drinking the water freely for a time noticed a perceptible change for the better. After drinking about four cases of the water, I was examined for life insurance by the company's physician, and physically pronounced a good risk. The principal sign of diabetes (viz., sugar in the urine) was entirely eliminated therefrom; not a trace could be found by the most careful test. Previous to using the water I had a tired feeling and my limbs ached from walking, but now I can take much longer walks with very little fatigue. I must say that I am pleased with the beneficial effects of the water, and have been delighted in recommending it to friends who were in any way afflicted with the symptoms of diabetes or loss of energy and vitality. I am very thankful that I saw your sign on Cornhill, and was attracted to it from the fact that I had been in Saratoga and drank from her springs. I found the Lincoln water sparkling, bright and a delicious beverage, and thus have been led to know of its health-giving properties. Very respectfully yours, HENRY A. SMITH.If you cannot go and and see these men, write to the New England Depot, 47 Cornhill, Boston, for circulars telling what has been done in a few cases,
and then decide what you think about it. This is the greatest discovery made in this country, leaving out chloroform and ether. Nearly all sickness is caused by impure water. The supply of water from this Spring is limited—it will be well for you to get in touch with the Spring before the supply is exhausted. Remember that this Spring is only two years old, and the first branch house was established in Boston last May.

—The last meeting of the Young Men's Debating Club had the following subject: Resolved, it is for the best interests of this country, that we have the free and unlimited coinage of silver. The topic for discussion was so short, it was decided to continue the subject at the next meeting, and the next meeting will occur Wednesday evening, May 13, at 8 o'clock, in the parlors of the First Baptist church. This is to be a public meeting and a cordial invitation is extended to all. There will be fifteen minute speeches by Colonel Albert Clarke of Wellesley, Dr. E. L. Jordan of Waban, Rev. C. H. Morris, and others.

—Miss Mabel G. Foster gave an interesting lecture before the Tuesday Club of Waltham on the afternoon of April 28th, at the residence of Miss Fogg, Summer street. Miss Foster's topic was "American Art, What it is, and what it may be." She touched upon the lack of art in the early days of the Republic, and the lack of recognition of art and the need of its being greater of the American spirit as shown in the statues of "The Minute Man" and "Nathan Hale" in New York. Of local art and its representatives and of what we may look for in the future field of art with the youth of the country trained to see the beautiful and true, and to turn their mind and thought toward it to make life sweeter and nobler.

Garvey was employed as a brakeman on a gravel train and was passing from one car to another when he suddenly fell between the moving cars. He leaves a wife and three children.

—Mr. E. B. Haskell was one of the representatives of the Metropolitan Park Commission at the Boston Mechanics Club dinner. Mr. Haskell gave a brief but most interesting survey of the metropolitan commission. He spoke in the highest terms of the late Charles Eliot, through whose eyes, he said, the commission saw the possibilities of the district. Mr. Haskell thought $2,000,000 would practically complete the metropolitan system.

—The second meeting of the Em See Musical Club was held at the house of Mrs. T. J. Marble, Friday evening, and as it was the birthday of Miss Marjorie, the occasion was particularly enjoyable and became almost a party. H. Turner; Spinning Song, Gladys Pemberton; Sonnet, Harold Knowlton; violin, Anne Pemberton; Frank Pemberton; Minuet, with sketch of Paderewski's life, Marjorie Marble; Reverie, Marion Dillingham; violin, Andante, John Norton; Spinning Song, Mary Davidson; Waltz trio, Marjorie Marble, Marion Dillingham, John H. Turner.

—At a recent meeting of the Middlesex South District Medical Association, held at Watertown, Dr. G. E. Whitten, formerly of this village, read the following account of late Dr. Calvin Stevens of Vista avenue: Dr. Calvin Stevens was a native of Vermont, having been born in Enosburg, of that state, April 23, 1816. After passing through the schools of his native town he entered Bowdoin College and graduated there with honors. Immediately from there he entered Harvard University, from which he also graduated in 1845. He practiced in Boston continuously for nearly a half century, being located for many years in Franklin square. Here he built up a large and lucrative practice, his number amongst his patients many from Boston's oldest families. In his profession he was the good old round practitioner, never having taken to specialities in any line. As a man his character was of the good old New England type, honest, plain and old fashioned, caring little for the show and glitter but courting rather the quiet and comfortable. In his home life he was a model husband. His father, Dr. Stevens was twice married. His first wife, who was the mother of his two sons, was Miss Crocker of New Bedford, and died in 1861. His second wife, Miss Tewksbury of Boston, survives him. His son, Oliver Crocker Stevens, is a prominent lawyer of Boston, and the other, Dr. William Stanford Stevens, is a prominent leading physician in St. Albans, N. H. Dr. Stevens' death, from cancer of the stomach, occurred at his residence on Vista avenue, March 1st of this year. Two or three years ago, finding his health was failing, he sought the quiet rest of Auburn, but his condition of disquietude, aggravated by advanced years, gained steadily upon him and at the ripe age of 81 he passed beyond.

Families Will be Cared For.

At a special meeting of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., held last evening at Newtonville, it was voted to create a fund of $10,000 for the support of the families of those Newton young men, who may enlist for the service.

Shares of $100 each will be sold to 100 persons or societies. Each subscriber will be called upon for $5, when it is thought necessary to make the first assessment. There will be more than two assessments each month.

If Newton soldiers see no active service, the subscribers will not be expected to pay any money whatever.

A Major Cobb and Post Commander H. D. Degen, together with 14 gentlemen, two from each ward, constitute the commission, which has the matter in charge. Charles Ward Post has offered to purchase the first share.

The Needham nurseries, corner of Dedham avenue and Webster street, have a large stock of home grown, reliable and large, as well as small, fruit trees, small fruits, vines, shrubs, roses and ornamental trees of all kinds. They make a specialty of large trees as many people wish to have their grounds beautified without waiting too long. They carry a large stock of maples and evergreens, they have some very fine blue spruce trees and will set out and warrant goods if so desired. Take an electric car and come to Needham and select the goods yourself or write to W. A. Gates and he will call and take your order and give satisfaction.

THE BIG WHITE WOLF

SACRED TO THE INDIANS, BUT A HOODOO TO PALEFACES.

When Jim Jacobs Threw Up a Job as Guide—Ruth Kemble's Shot at the Mysterious Beast—An Organized Hunt and the Queer Way in Which It Ended.

Fifty years ago a family of Cattaraugus Indians lived on the corn planters' reserve, in Venango county. They were known as the "Jacobs," and the males were all tall, powerful men and stark hunters, who followed game clear to the Canadian frontier. Jim, the youngest, was the best known. In 1850 he was guiding a party of gentlemen from New York, among whom was the late Roscoe Conkling, through the wilds of Elk county. A camp was made on the head waters of the Clarion, and the party made preparations to hunt for deer the next day. Jacobs had been ranging around the camp and came in late. He was more than usually silent and sullen. After a time passed in snoring he started the others by declaring that he intended leaving them at once and gave directions to find McCarty's trading post, three miles down the river, where another guide would be had. After some questioning as to his sudden resolution he explained "he had seen a big white wolf, and it was bad medicine for Indians," so, gathering up his traps and calling his two dogs, he disappeared in the darkness of the woods.

Next morning McCarty's post was found with only difficulty, and the party hospitably received. They told their story, and McCarty, a man of 65, who had passed his life on the frontier, said: "So Jim seed the white wolf again. I've heard of the varmint 50 years ago, but never seed it, nor do I know of any white man who has, but Jim has no doubt, for he ain't a liar or boaster, and all the Indians think it bad luck."

Twenty miles east of McCarty's, on Beaver creek, lives Buck Kemble. He was a hunter and trapper, cultivating enough land to raise corn for the family. He had a small flock of sheep that he had succeeded in raising, although bear and panthers were plenty in the country around. But his luck changed. The sheep began to disappear. He set traps, watched at night, while his son scouted around with his powerful bear dogs. It was no use; the sheep were taken. One day he found on the soft mud on the bank of the creek a number of tracks, unmistakably wolf.

One day in September while he was absent from home his daughter Ruth was feeding their one pig. Suddenly she saw the chickens scampering for the barn, while behind was an animal like an enormous dog, gaunt, covered with rough hair and pure white in color. It had caught a chicken and was devouring it. Full of terror, she rushed into the house, catching up a rifle and calling the house dogs she crept around the cabin. The wolf caught another chicken. The dog was an old bear hound and game. He rushed on the beast, while Ruth, resting the gun on one of the projecting logs of the cabin, took a long aim and fired. The wolf gave a leap in the air and came down plump on the dog. In an instant the beast had disappeared and poor Boston lay dead with his head half bitten off.

The next day Kemble and two others started out to hunt down the "white wolf." As a lure the forequarter of a deer had been hung in the woods a few miles away, and in the early morning they found this gone and on the slightly frozzen snow were plainly seen the big tracks of the wolf. They had 12 fine dogs who hunted by scent, and all were confident that "Jim Jacobs' white wolf's hide would come to the tanyard."

The trail led northwest over a range of hills covered with laurel, utterly sterile. The dogs ran freely, keeping the men well up to the collar. About midday they found pheasant feathers on the trail—the wolf had snapped up one for lunch. Their game was heading for Bakers' rocks. It was growing dark as they entered a wild ravine, one side faced with rocks, full of holes. Here they resolved to camp. If the wolf boled, they could get at him at daybreak, and if he tried to get away the dogs would give warning. A fire was built and each man divided his meat, venison and corn dodger with his dogs. It grew bitter cold, and very little sleep was had. At daylight they began to scout around, and shortly a wild burst of trumpets from the pack showed they were running on sight.

Although there was no sun, it was perfectly clear, and there was the wolf seen through the thin wintry air. The rock was bare, and the animal stood as if carved in stone—over three feet high at the shoulder. The dead white hair was bristling with rage, and the tall lashing like an angry cat's. One could see the huge jaws and iron teeth clash.

"It's high 300 yards, but let him have it."

Four rifles cracked, and the bullets sang, but the "white wolf" was gone. The yelling of the dogs was plainly heard. Excited and eager, all hands charged the rocks. It was a hard climb. They reached the top, and the wolf was gone. Inside of an hour the dogs found the trail. The dogs seemed confident and ran at racing speed. The top of the ridge was covered with a scant growth of scrub oak, and on the river side was sheer rock down 60 feet to the water. Right on a point of rocks that jutted out into the river the "white wolf" came to bay. Kemble plainly saw a huge, gaunt animal covered with bristling white hair. The red eyes glowed with fire, and for an instant he lost his head. The dogs were getting the worst of it, and he fired. A sudden flash, and he plainly saw the wolf disappear over the face of the cliff.

All rushed to the spot. There was not a trace. At the foot of the cliff the river was open. No splash was heard. For an hour they watched and then made a circuit, but the dogs seemed indifferent and made no effort.

And this was the last of Jim Jacobs' "white wolf." It was never seen or heard of again in northwestern Pennsylvania. There were skeptics, but they were silenced by the fate of the hunters. Not one died a natural death nor long after, and Jim Jacobs escaped the many perils of the wilderness for 60 years to be crushed to death on the Erie railway in 1865.—Philadelphia Times.

No Novelty.

"I'm feared," remarked Farmer Corn-tossel, "that the period of usefulness for that politician is about to be drawn to a close."

"What's the matter?" inquired his wife. "Is it a case of overwork?"

"No," it was the answer; "it ain't nothin so unusual as overwork. It's a plain, old fashioned case of overtalk."—Washington Star.

cept that for suffrage and even that had made great headway.

It seems strange beyond comprehension, that there should be women to-day, women who owe the many privileges which they enjoy to those same advocates of full enfranchisement for women, who organize themselves in opposition to the grand work they have been doing and still are doing for the progress of their sex. No one advantage has been gained, not one privilege granted women, except as the result of the labors of the advocates of full enfranchisement.

During all those years they have not asked for political liberty alone, they have claimed the ballot as the final sign and seal of their emancipation but they have each year, and on every occasion, demanded that the existing wrongs in woman's condition should be removed.

When the struggle began there was not a college open to women, not a profession they could enter. It was thought indelicate and unsafe to educate girls. The most dismal prophecies were in vogue as to the dire consequences sure to follow to buttonables and spheres, if larger opportunities were allowed women. They have demanded that colleges should be open to women, they have fought their way into the professions, they have gone to legislatures and obtained the repeal of obnoxious laws and the enactment of beneficial ones, they have published papers and written articles, and made speeches which have forced people to think, and thus bring about a change in public opinion as to the whole question of woman's position, her wrongs and her rights.

Do the legions of women who enjoy freely all the opportunities of to-day ever give thought or thanks to that fearless, light brigade who stormed the outposts amid scorn and ridicule, and never once gave way, until the closed gates of opportunity swung back upon unwilling hinges to admit the besieging army of women waiting outside the walls.

Too often these facts are forgotten or ignored by those who have been most benefited, and many a wealthy woman who draws her check, perhaps to spend the money in anti-suffrage work, refuses to admit that she owes anything to the advocates of a cause she desires to repudiate.

She glories in the fact that the money is her very own to do with as she pleases, but does not know or will not admit that the statutes which guarantee to her this independence were passed by the efforts of these very women.

Elmora M. Babcock.

Then and Now.

In 1792 Mary Wollstonecraft quoted the following from standard books of her day on the education of women:

"Rousseau declares that a woman should never, for a moment, feel herself independent, that she should be governed by fear, to exercise her natural cunning, and make a coquettish slave in order to render her a more alluring object of desire, a sweeter companion to man, whenever he chooses to relax himself. He carries the arguments, which he pretends to draw from the indications of nature, still farther, and insinuates that truth and fortitude, the corner stones of all human virtue, should be cultivated with certain restrictions, because with respect to the female character, obedience is the grand lesson which ought to be impressed with unrelenting vigor. Rousseau and most of the male writers who have followed his steps have warmly inculcated that the whole tendency of female education ought to be directed to one point: to render women pleasing."

"The amiable Dr. Gregory fell into a similar error. He advises his daughters to cultivate a fondness for dress, because a fondness for dress, he asserts, is natural to them. He goes much further; he actually recommends dissimulation, and advises an innocent girl to give the lie to her feelings and her heart with spirit, while her guileful heart would make her feet eloquent without making her gestures immodest."

In 1898 the Grand Rapids Press published an editorial from which the following are extracts:

The lives of nine-tenths of our great men have been shaped by the silent influence of a woman, therefore how necessary a woman should have influence and individuality.

In order to manage a husband you must be perfectly able to manage yourself. The oak and the vine theory is a quagmire; steer clear of it. When you are once able to correctly manage yourself I venture to say husband will fall gracefully into line.

First of all keep your individuality. Individuality swallowed up in matrimony either makes a fool or a find of one or the other of the contracting parties, depending on which one gets swallowed. Remember that "two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one," does not mean that one soul is going to do all the work, but rather that their hopes, aims, plans are one, but they will execute them according to their own ideas and individualities.

Now to manage yourself, understand your capabilities and make the most of them. Never tire of self-improvement. When the husband, after you are in this condition, will be pleased, fascinated and interested and you will have an influence which is lasting enough to keep him interested.

Colorado Governor for Suffrage.

Governor Adams, of Colorado, has received so many inquiries about equal suffrage that he has prepared a circular letter in answer, as follows:

When the question was submitted in Colorado, I supported and voted for the proposition as a question of abstract right, as every fair man must admit, when the questions come to him, that a woman has the same right of suffrage as a man. In advocating suffrage you need no platform but right and justice; those who will not accept it upon that ground will not be persuaded though one rose from the dead.

I will, however, add that not even the most virulent enemy of woman suffrage can prove that any harm has come from the experiment. The test in Colorado is still too new to expect a unanimous verdict, yet all fair-minded observers are justified in predicting a higher standard of moral and of political life as a result of woman suffrage.

PICKED UP.

Who among the older residents of the city was not struck with the coincidence of the death of Ex-Inspector James Henthorn and the retirement of Chief Charles E. Richardson on the same day. The two men became members of the force 23 years ago, and were for many years associated in police work. Both were among the most popular members of the force for many years, and to many Newton people the city will not seem itself without these two.

Chief Richardson's retirement removes one of the ablest and most respected police officials of the state. A true gentleman and a conscientious official, Newton will find difficulty in filling the place left vacant by Chief Richardson's retirement.

Wasn't it lucky that our gallant militiamen were not ordered into camp Saturday? Think of the delight of sleeping under canvas on such a day as Sunday. Beg pardon, the soldier boys would rather be at church.

"All seats free in the evening" is an announcement made by many Newton churches, by which it is supposed many strangers are induced to attend the night services. Of course the willingness on the part of the regular members to have strangers feel quite at home is never doubted, but such an exhibition of discourtesy as the writer witnessed in a certain parish the other evening, clearly shows that some members do not enjoy the general feeling of hospitality. A lady and gentleman having been ushered to a seat in the main part of the church were seated but a few minutes when the tenant, a lady (?) and her daughter came up the aisle and insisted upon going in. The crowded condition of the church made it impossible, but the power assuming the rights of her sex and privilege as a church member, talked loud, gesticulated and demanded the seats be vacated. Thinking matters had gone too far, and that the lady had been the unintentional cause of sufficient commotion, the first couple modestly acceded to the request. Probably if they never before realized the significance of that familiar phrase, "I am seated," they shall ever speak in praise of your grand medicines. They are blessings to suffering females."

That some young men feel the necessity of adding their country in the present war, is clearly shown by the large number who applied at the armory in Newton this week for admission into the ranks of Co. C. In conversation with a well known bicycle dealer one day this week a GRAPHIC reporter was informed that the Newton Centre recruits had stored their bicycles for the summer in anticipation of "going to the front."

In justice to the bridge builders it is fair to think that the cement sidewalk on the east side of the Centre street bridge, Newton, is completed? Really if this is the case the experiment can hardly be called a success. During the rainy days of this week the condition of this sidewalk was deplorable, and pedestrians found no alternative but walking in the street. After a day or two some boards were laid, but it was scarcely any improvement. The concrete portion of the bridge for the use of teams was in bad shape also, the water setting in large pools here and there eventually forming miniature rivers. Let it be hoped that the contractors will bustle this work along and not be so sparing of their material.

NEW WOMEN, TAKE WARNING!

Here lies a poor woman who always was busy; she lived under pressure that rendered her name. She belonged to ten clubs and read Browning by sight. She served on the school board with courage and zeal. She and she kokaded and rode on a wheel. She read Tolstol and Ibsen, knew microbes by approved of Delsarte, was a "Daughter" and "Dane." Her chief was in for the top education. Her husband went seaward for nervous prostration. One day on her tablets she found an hour free. The shock was too great and she died instantly.—Selected.

"Beauty and Power." The secret of a woman's power is in her complete womanliness, both physical and mental. It does not mean perfection of outline nor regularity of features. It does not mean fine, nor talents nor accomplishments. It means that physical attractiveness that comes from perfect bodily condition and the attractiveness of disposition.

A woman with a bright eye, clear complexion, mantling color in the cheeks and buoyant elastic step and manner has a natural attractiveness that no artificial agency can counterfeit.

A woman who is afflicted with the mortifying misfortune of a dull, sallow, pimply complexion, or that listless movement and attitude which provokes only disgust and revulsion in the opposite sex, ought to avail herself of the purifying, invigorating power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which makes a strong, healthy stomach and digestive organism; purifies the blood, and imparts a natural stimulus to the excretory functions; insures healthy weight, clear skin, bright eyes and the animated manner and bearing of perfect health.

A lady living in West Virginia, Miss Anna Callow, of Kyger, Roane Co., writes: "I am with pleasure I write you after using a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and I think them valuable medicines for female troubles and weaknesses. I could hardly go about my work I had such inward weakness and constant misery in the womb. It worried me so that I had a bad cough and my lungs hurt me all the time. I got very thin, my complexion was bad, and my eyes would get so heavy in the evening I seemed stiff in the lids. I could hardly move them. Many persons were alarmed about me. I looked so bad and had such a cough, they were afraid I would go into consumption. I felt so badly every day that I had no life about me. I used only five bottles in all, and shall ever speak in praise of your grand medicines. They are blessings to suffering females."

Another good thing to have in the house is a trial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure biliousness and constipation and never grip.

The District Nurse's Salary.

To the Editor of the Graphic:--
An article entitled "Plea for the District Nurse" appeared in the GRAPHIC last week. The writer calls attention to the salary of the District Nurse as being small at forty-five or fifty dollars a month. Now this is a larger sum than is paid for like services in the city of Boston and other large cities in the state. The Newton Society can hardly hope to be more munificent in its salary than other districts where a large sum can be better afforded. In regard to the work itself, the nurses could certainly be the best judges of its desirability in comparison with work in wealthy homes, and they are generally anxious to secure places in district nursing that the association finds it difficult to make a choice; it has even received letters from nurses in other cities who are willing to give up a better salary obtained by private nursing for the less remunerative one of district work on account of the latter being less arduous and giving greater variety, with more of freedom and independence. Those who are experienced and have had ample opportunity to learn the ins and outs of this department, are the most eager of all to secure positions in district nursing. While it is true that the nurse is exposed to the inclemency of the weather she has at the same time the benefit of the fresh air in going from place to place and is generally less closely confined than in the homes of the rich. As for misunderstanding and prejudice there are no restrictions to the poor as many a nurse can testify. E. C. P.

Base Ball at Newton Centre.

The Dartmouth College team will be the opponents of the Newtons at the Cedar street grounds, Newton Centre, Saturday, April 30th, at 3:30 p. m.

With the appearance of the Dartmouths

it is safe to count upon two things as certain, viz: a game full of snap and ginger, and plenty of enthusiasm in the bleachers.

If there is any more riotous rout than the average Newton rout it is he who "pushes" for Dartmouth, and Newton is full of him, this being the home of the Dartmouth graduates who invariably turn out in force to welcome the representatives of their alma mater in any sporting event within a hundred miles.

SCHOOL BOARD.

GOVERNED BY CUSTOM AND NOT RULES. SAYS ALDERMAN WHITE--SCORES THE COMMITTEE ON SUPPLIES SEVERELY--MR. WARD, THE CHAIRMAN, THREATENS TO RESIGN--WEDNESDAY EVENING'S MEETING THE LIVELIEST FOR MANY MONTHS.

The usual quiet of the meeting of the school board, Wednesday evening, was varied by one of the liveliest discussions of the year. Pres. White of the board of aldermen scored the board severely for its peculiar method of procedure, and stated that it was governed by custom rather than its rules. This was not enough, and Chairman Ward of the committee on supplies stated that in view of the criticism directed against the committee, he was considering the advisability of resigning his chairmanship.

Eleven members were in their seats when Chairman Hardy rapped to order. A report was presented by the superintendent, Annie Smith, assistant at the Williams school, was granted leave of absence for three months with balance of salary.

An order was adopted on recommendation of the finance committee for an appropriation of $770 for furnishing the new Pierce school. A communication was received from Judge Kennedy calling attention to the lax enforcement of the triant regulations, and recommending an order calling for an appropriation of $16,081 for the expenses of the department during the month of April. This was stated to be a majority report. Mr. Benner stated that he would not insist on his objections, but that he presented to the report because he questioned the legality of the vote of the last meeting on sloyd, and did not approve of the haste of the committee in purchasing supplies for the introduction of sloyd at the Pierce school.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Sent by mail. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. ## BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

ADA REHAN AT THE TREMONT--The very successful engagement of Miss Ada Rehan and Augusta Daly's company at the Tremont Theatre comes to an end next Saturday night. The program for the final week is varied and of unusual interest, including, as it does, "As You Like It" on Monday evening; Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon and evening, "The School for Scandal"; "The Last Word," on Thursday; "The Taming of the Shrew," on Friday; and Saturday evening and Saturday afternoon. During the week beginning May 9 De Wolf Hopper will give at the Tremont the last performance in Boston of Sousa's opera, "The Pirates of Penzance." Mr. Hopper will have a new piece by the same composer next season, and will shelve the work that has gained him so much popularity and so many thousands of dollars, though it is evident that he might continue it with profit to himself and pleasure to the public for a long time to come. To give credit to the final representations the Boston Cadet Band has been engaged to assist in rendering the stirring march numbers at the close of the second and third acts, and also in Sousa's latest but already famous "Stars and Stripes" march--a composition especially timely just now. Altogether, the performances will be worth seeing and hearing, and it will be strange if the Tremont is not packed to the doors nightly.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist

at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Where ever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; Lacroix & Genest, Nonantum; B. ## PALE AND THIN

Could I Not Help Myself for Three Months--Impure Blood Causes Great Suffering--How Relief Came--Better than Ever Before.

"I have been in poor health owing to impure blood, weak stomach, biliousness and sick headaches, ever since I was a child eight years old. I have suffered everything for the past 14 years. I got so low that I could not help myself for three months, and was pale and thin. My neighbors did not expect me to live through the winter. I asked my doctor if I could take Hood's Sarsaparilla and he said I could take as much of it as I liked. I very soon found it helped me very much. I continued its use until I had taken six bottles, and at that time I looked better than I ever did since I can remember. I shall never be without Hood's Sarsaparilla as long as I can get it. It helped me more than any other medicine that I have ever taken. I advise anyone who is in poor health to try this great blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I owe my life to this medicine." An address was given by Mr. Havens. He specially urged the boys to not only give good attention to the military part of the exercises, but above all things to keep well posted in the Bible. Our boys then had a drill which lasted about three-quarters of an hour. The company was commanded by Lieut. Atkins. At 8.30 the Somerville company took the floor and a sabre drill was given by a detachment of six, H. Shaw at the piano as accompanist. An apology was made by Gen. ## NEWTON'S QUOTA.

OVER A HUNDRED YOUNG MEN ARE READY TO MARCH FORWARD—CO. C IN FINE CONDITION AWAITS FURTHER ORDERS—WITH FULL RANKS ITS MEMBERS STAND PREPARED TO DEFEND THEIR COUNTRY—WILL PROBABLY GO TO SOUTH FRAMINGHAM—MANY WOULD JOIN THEM—NO SCARCITY OF RECRUITS.

Newton's soldiers are ready for the front. The call to arms has but to be sounded, and within an hour's time a full company of 60 men, together with 44 recruits, will assemble at the armory for "further orders."

With knap sacks packed, a full supply of ammunition and 48 hours rations, these young men have for the past week awaited the command "forward march." Many of them, feeling that their services would be momentarily demanded, and realizing the value of every minute, have left their work, some obtaining half-pay, and others the promise of employment upon their return, and at present are at the armory.

The others have so planned that the briefest notice will be sufficient. It can be safely said that there is not one member of the company who will not be found at his post when the call is heard.

CONDITION OF THE COMPANY.

At present the men, their rifles and kits are in excellent condition. The gaiting gun is in readiness, and the squad in charge will no doubt show the result of faithful drill when in action. There is no scarcity of ammunition as 600 rounds of ball cartridge are among the stores.

The rations, which are calculated to last 48 hours, are stored at G. P. Atkins' grocery, and consist of canned meats, coffee, sugar, and bread. In each knap-sack are cooking utensils, blankets, towels, and a trunk, yet so dexterously stored away, as to be comfortably filled all available space.

Monday evening at the regular drill there were no end of instructions and manoeuvres, which were personally interviewed by Capt. Springer.

WHAT ORDERS ARE EXPECTED.

Almost any moment Capt. Springer is expected to receive instructions from the army headquarters, and sound the military call. He will have fifteen blows rung on the fire bells, followed by one round from box 117. At his command the flag will be hoisted to the top of the armory staff. When the full company has assembled, the next orders will start them on their way to South Framingham or Springfield. At one or the other of these places the muster will take place. It is said the governor is in favor of the latter city, yet it is more than probable that South Framingham will be the point.

Upon its arrival there the entire company is no longer a part of the volunteer militia, but becomes of its own accord, a part of the United States regular army, and subject to the orders of the national government. From that time forward its members may be prepared for service in any part of the world.

The recruits will follow to South Framingham in squads of eight, being called upon as needed. In command will be those former privates who have been enlisted.

There are at present 100 members in the company, which is the full number allowed by law. When the instructions came from headquarters the 101 names will be enrolled, thus placing Co. C on its war footing.

It was a suggestion and not official instructions as first reported, that came from headquarters to the effect that the company list be increased. Out of 75 who applied, only these names were received.

Fred W. White, Waltham, Herbert C. Stearns, Newton, Fred L. Fanning, Needham, Charles L. Barnes, Needham, Fred N. Needham, J. J. Jones, Needham, Richard Goddard, Needham, Harry H. Griffin, Upper Falls, O. C. Childs, Needham, J. J. Hart, Newton, Jeremiah H. Coleman, Auburndale, Ben Shosberg, Boston, Nathan S. Levens, Brighton, Loring Bunker, Auburndale, Hugh H. Hallowell, Needham, John F. Ryan, Newton, A. W. Cole, Auburndale, J. Henry Dow, West Newton, Wm. H. Meehan, Hyde Park, Peter Keeley, Auburndale, Gordon King, West Newton, Albert Mackey, West Newton, John T. Smith, Newton Lower Falls, Lawrence J. Coleman, Newton Centre, Paul L. Stearns, Waban, Harry N. Hyde, Newtonville, John McAdams, Newton, C. Stevenson, Newton, H. H. Ober, Auburndale, H. W. Boothby, Auburndale, E. J. Hewitt, West Newton, Lennox H. Lindsay, West Newton, Benjamin P. Dresser, Waban, Norman Griffin, Newton Centre, G. Warren Cobb, Newton Centre, A. W. Lane, Newton, D. E. Norton, Waban, G. Evans, Waban, C. E. Livermore, Brighton, H. E. Anderson, Roxbury, Robert H. Brown, West Newton, Daniel A. Conley, Brighton, Carl A. Blaisdell, Newtonville, and Richard Morris, Auburndale.

THOSE MALICIOUS STORIES.

For the past week there have been no end of absurd and malicious stories regarding the company's condition. At first the officers were somewhat nettled at receiving such reports, but these fabulous yarns multiplied so rapidly that the officers appreciated the humor of the situation, and simply laughed. For the benefit of those and many who might have credited some of the stories it is well to say that the captain, his lieutenants, non-commissioned officers, and every private have no intention of resigning, that they are in the best of health, fully prepared for active service, that they never voted not to go. This latter story was so skillfully circulated that it was the topic of the sermon of a local clergyman. This reverend gentleman will be given an opportunity to make a retraction, it is said.

Over a month ago each member of the company expressed his willingness to enter the service of the United States government in case of war, and the cause of the yarn is unexplainable.

Capt. Springer in an interview with a GRAPHIC reporter spoke of the circulation of these false and misleading reports, and wished the true facts presented to the public through the GRAPHIC.

ANOTHER COMPANY TO FORM.

When Co. C makes its departure it will be necessary to organize another company of militia in this city. At present no definite plan can be learned, but without doubt the company will be formed soon after the drill members enter the regular service. The new company will probably have the honor of acting as home guards, and it is very probable that there will be little difficulty in filling the ranks.

RECRUITS ANYTHING BUT SCARC.

Those who expressed any doubt of the true spirit of patriotism in the hearts of the young men of Newton, needed but a visit to the armory to convince them of their error in judgment. Beginning last Friday evening a list was opened, and those young men who wished to enter the volunteer service as members of Co. C were given an opportunity to register.

The attendance of would-be soldiers quite surprised the officials in charge as no general call had been issued, though an announcement had been made in the GRAPHIC. Soon after the doors were opened, Friday evening, the recruits began to find their way to Capt. Springer's office in the basement. By 9 o'clock as many as seventy-five, including company members, applicants and their friends were gathered in the lower hall. Of course the principal topic of conversation was the war, and the prospects of the company in case it should be immediately called upon. Groups of interested talkers were gathered here and there. On one side a private exhibiting the contents of his locker to admiring friends. Another patiently drilling a recruit, and a third convincing his chum that "now was the only time to enlist." All very warlike, yet picturesque and not altogether unpleasant.

To a Civil War veteran it could not have failed to call vividly to his mind the scenes of '61. More especially would he have thought of those days had he heard that fancy, but though fully meant and expressive remark, "Well, I'll be if you will." This very phrase, responsible for half the enlistments thirty-seven years ago, needs but to be repeated today, and the roll of any company is enlarged by two names.

The number of those who were willing that their names should be recorded as prepared for their country's service, was even in excess of the most expectant officers. That a large portion of it was due to the personal solicitation of the company members, officers and privates, is well understood.

TO SIGN THE LIST.

A recruit had but to express his desire to Capt. Springer. This gentleman, with his lieutenants and Sergt. Frank A. Barrows, was kept very busy, answering all manner of questions. Not for a moment did any query go unanswered, and the work was carried on in firm military style. Each applicant was given to understand that by signing his name he did not enter the ranks, but that he was a member of the militia, and should the officers see fit to call upon him. No examination of the applicants were made, and few pertinent questions were asked. In each case the recruit explained how he felt towards accepting the duties of a militiaman, and the officer, after taking his name, age and address, offered some fatherly advice, and promised to keep him in mind.

Not every sign of the list will be called upon no matter how urgent the need. Some were physically unable to perform the duties required of them. While they were not told this at the time, the fact that they are not called upon will be sufficient explanation. It should be said to the credit of the applicants that the average was in surprisingly good form, and perhaps the rejected ones will not number half a dozen. Some of those whose names were filed have previously served one or two terms. They will be as valuable, if accepted, as a regular private.

On the regular roll these names are enrolled:

Capt. Ernest R. Springer, Newton, 1st Lt. H. B. Inman, West Newton, 2d Lt. R. W. Daley, Newton, Sergts. Charles F. Carling, Waltham, Frank A. Barrows, Newton, Geo. H. ## CITY EMPLOYEES MAY ENLIST.

Yesterday the following order was issued by Mayor Cobb:

"It is hereby ordered that in case any of the employees of the city shall enlist, or shall enter the service of the State or Nation, they will be granted leave of absence and their positions temporarily filled, and they will be restored to the same on the termination of hostilities between this country and Spain."

HARRY E. COBB, Mayor.

FLAGS ON PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The flags have been flying from the staffs on public buildings this week at the command of Mayor Cobb. His instructions have been to keep the stars and stripes suspended until further notice.

SHOT AND SHELL AT UPPER FALLS.

Shot and shell for the government will in all probability be made at Newton Upper Falls. The Pettee machine works have been asked by the ordinance authorities to bid for work in small caliber shells.

The company has forwarded bids to Washington, with the approval of Maj. Reilly, commandant at the Watertown arsenal, and a reply is momentarily expected.

The company has furnished estimates for supplying 3 1/2 inch mortar shell for the use of field batteries.

The government experts have examined the shops at Upper Falls, and are perfectly satisfied with the facilities of the plant. It is estimated that the Pettee works can turn out about 100 shells a day with their present equipment.
